ARMY TO TAKE FEWER MEN!

CURB OUTPUT OF AMMUNITION IN 4TH PLANT

Army Explains It Has Too Much.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 18 (AP).—Ten thousand of the more than 25,000 employes of the St. Louis ordnance plant will be released in the next several weeks in a production curtailment plan made necessary by a surplus of small arms ammunition, Lt. Col. George V. Riley, commanding officer, said today.

[The plant is the fourth affected by a closing order this week. Earlier in the day the army announced the Scioto ordnance plant in Marion, O., also manufacturing small arms ammunition, would be closed Dec. 31. Wednesday the Milwaukee ordnance plant, employing 5,000 persons, was ordered to shut down and Monday the Utah ordnance plant, with 6,000 employes, received similar orders. All are manufacturing small arms ammunition.]

Two Firms Operating Plant.

The ordnance plant, a government owned, contractor operated facility, is two separate units with the McQuay-Norris Manufacturing company making bullet cores and the United States Cartridge company making finished rounds of small arms ammunition.

Layoffs at the rate of several hundred a week will begin immediately on the basis of seniority and existing labor contracts. No deadline for completing the 10,000 personnel cut was given.

Reasons Are Given.

Col. Riley's announcement said:

"Reasons for the excess are the elimination of the submarine menace which means the saving on ammunition in convoys, and the superior firing power of .50 caliber incendiary machine-gun ammunition which has resulted in the use of less ammunition than originally anticipated. The Japanese evacuation of Kiska also has caused a surplus."

Since the beginning of the war the ordnance plant has produced more than 3,000,000,000 rounds of .30 and .50 caliber ammunition.

OHIO PLANT CLOSING

Marion, O., Nov. 18 [Special].—The 12,000 acre Scioto ordnance plant, completed only a few months ago, will be closed by Dec. 31 and its 1,900 civilian employes dismissed, it was announced here today.

The closing order was brought here by Maj. Edward J. Smith, of the office of chief of ordnance of the army, who had come to Marion from delivering similar orders in Utah and Milwaukee.

Never Ran Full Tilt.

The same explanation given for ending work at the other plants was announced by Capt. J. R. Thompson, commanding officer of the Scioto plant. It was:

"Changing needs by our combat forces, plus the fact that a sufficiently large bank of finished ammunition is now accumulated, permits a reduction of the schedule of all small arms ammunition plants. Accordingly, we have been directed by the office of the chief of ordnance to discontinue manufacture of ammunition at this plant."

Production at the Scioto plant, which included more than 200 buildings sprawling over the huge acreage, never fully got under way. The plant was completed last fall, work having been started in the spring, and early last winter it began making bomb fuses. However, only three of a number of assembly lines ever were used.

Planned 18,000 Workers.

Last February it was ordered to assume a standby condition and soon thereafter work was started to convert it to a maker of small arms ammunition. This conversion went on all summer with the fuse production continuing on a waning scale until it was ended only recently.

There never was any estimate given of the cost of the plant, but during the construction period it was reported that from 18,000 to 24,000 persons would be employed at full capacity. But employment never exceeded, at least by any great number, the present 1,900.

Six hundred civilian employes already have been released.

Heavy British 'Fire' Bombers Pound Berlin

LONDON, Nov. 19 [Friday], (AP).—Britain's heavy bombers were reported in a German radio broadcast today to have attacked Berlin with high explosive and fire bombs last night.

The night assault followed up a smashing daylight raid by unescorted United States Liberators on the Germans' biggest Norwegian airplane repair and maintenance depot at Kjeller, near Oslo.

The German radio suggested the attack on Berlin was made in force. It said "a few other localities" also were attacked. German night fighters were reported to have "prevented the British terror bombers" from concentrating on the heart of the capital. Most of the bombs were declared dropped on densely populated suburbs. Several British bombers were shot down, the broadcast added.

Widespread Radio Reports.

The German transocean news agency, in a later broadcast, said the operation was "on a broad front" extending from the Baltic to central Germany.

[A Swedish dispatch said an unidentified plane bombed the university town of Osslund, northeast of Malmoe, last night. Incendiaries of German manufacture were reported dropped on Lund, north of Malmoe.]

The American Liberators which hammered Kjeller yesterday knocked down eight enemy planes and blew up many buildings at the repair depot. Nine of the big bombers failed to return, including three which landed in neutral Sweden. The 30 crewmen of these planes escaped injury and will be interned.

The Liberator thrust followed by a few hours a heavy R. A. F. assault on the German chemical center of Ludwigshafen.

First London Alarm in 10 Days.

The Liberators on Tuesday had combined with Flying Fortresses to blast the Nazis' biggest electrolysis plant at Rjukan, 80 miles west of Oslo, and the Knaben mines, Germany's prime source of steel-hardening molybdenum.

British Typhoon bombers attacked northern France yesterday, while Spitfire squadrons made supporting sweeps and attacked locomotives.

German raiders gave London its first alarms since Nov. 8 last night when they bombed a southeastern town, causing property damage.

ARGENTINA BANS TIME MAGAZINE FROM THE MAILS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 18 (AP).—Time magazine and approximately 400 other publications have been banned from the mails in Argentina, the Argentine postoffice department announced today. The department offered no explanation.

Articles on Argentina to which President Pedro Ramirez' government apparently objected were contained in three recent issues of the English language edition of Time printed here. The government failed to grant permission for the publication of Time's last four issues.

CUT OF 548,000 TOLD; 13 BILLION IN CASH SAVED

Expansion Period Ending: Marshall.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 (AP).—The army is going to reduce its man power goal by 548,000 men, Rep. J. Buell Snyder [D., Pa.] told the house today. Snyder, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee on military expenditures, said the army had planned to build up a force of 8,200,000 men. The projected reduction would cut this to 7,652,000 men. It was learned the figures had been checked by the war department.

Snyder quoted Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, as saying:

"We are reaching the end of the expansion; already it has been possible to reduce many training installations to a purely maintenance basis to furnish replacements for the present strength of the army."

Will Go to Treasury.

Snyder said the war department had saved $13,163,519,000 from the 127 billion dollars provided the army to date for prosecution of the war.

Snyder said this amount would be turned back to the treasury at the end of the fiscal year. A part of the saving, he said, would be accomplished by the reduction in man power.

"We were assured," Snyder said, "that in the light of conditions presently obtaining this vast amount can be given up without in the least impairing the war effort of ourselves or of our allies."

The financial savings were outlined as follows:

1. Reduction in military personnel strength, $1,946,039,000.

Armament Curtailment.

2. Curtailment of armament and equipment programs, $8,262,759,000.
3. Reduction in facilities, including maintenance, $780,447,000.
4. Modification and possible permanent deferment of a portion of the airplane program, $2,086,069,000.
5. Miscellaneous projects, $88,205,000.

HOUSE VOTES CHANGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—The house, by a voice vote, today adopted a compromise bill placing all pre-Pearl Harbor fathers not yet inducted at the bottom of the nationwide draft lists and directing that all other eligible registrants be inducted first.

Congressional leaders predicted the measure also will be approved by the senate, which is expected to vote on it Monday.

Members of congress who drafted the bill predict that its enactment will delay the drafting of some fathers by 30 to 60 days.

McNutt Loses Powers.

The bill also strips Man Power Commissioner Paul V. McNutt of his present supervision over draft machinery and nullifies the present practice, ordered by McNutt, of drafting men by occupational groups thru issuance of so-called "nondeferable" lists.

All authority over draft machinery, under the measure, is placed in the President, who is authorized to delegate his powers only to the director of selective service.

Another provision of the bill makes mandatory the review of occupational deferments granted by local boards to registrants working outside the local jurisdiction. Such review will be made by appeals boards in the area where the registrant works.

New Board Ordered.

The President is directed by the measure to set up a five man medical board to examine present physical, mental, and moral standards for military service, with a view to lowering such standards and thereby reducing the number of fathers to be called.

Under the bill registrants whose induction is imminent would be permitted, on their request, to have pre-induction physical examinations to determine in advance whether they are fit for military service.

Plant Called a 'Playhouse' by Executive

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 (AP).—Brewster Aeronautical corporation's plant at Johnsville, Pa., was described today as "the Bucks county playhouse" by Daniel J. Kenneally, assistant plant security manager, in reporting "stupidity and laziness," theft and immorality among company employes.

Kenneally told a house naval subcommittee, investigating Brewster's plane production failures, that there has been loafing on the job since Shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser took over the company's presidency recently.

Only last Friday, Kenneally testified, he was told by officials that he was "on the way out" because of the insistence of Tom de Lorenzo, president of local 365, United Automotive Workers, a CIO affiliate.

Reports Sabotage Cases.

Ignition wires had been cut "deliberately" after they had been inspected and were ready for delivery to the navy and that cables controling the plane rudders had been filed down to the snapping point, Kenneally testified. Both acts, he asserted, could have caused planes to crash had the defects not been discovered.

Several cases of immorality—"at least a half dozen"—among plant employes during working hours had been reported to him, Kenneally said.

"Did you investigate them?" inquired Robert Kline, committee counsel.

"It would have been useless," said Kenneally.

"Why?"

"They were union brothers and sisters," said the security officer.

Kenneally estimated that approximately $50,000 worth of material, including plane clocks and compasses, had been stolen from the plant in the course of a year.

Suggest Some Drafting.

A vigorous management policy of "production—or else" was recommended by Kenneally. He said it would be impossible to get capacity production at the plant while the present contract with the union is in force, and it is guided by its present officers.

Asked what he would suggest as an "or else," Kenneally replied:

"There are a lot of draftable men in that plant, and maybe a spell in the service might do them some good."

RITA TALKS, BUT LITTLE, OF DEAL

Says She Pays Ex-Mate to Stop Claims.

New York, Nov. 18 [Special].—Rita Hayworth, the beautiful redhead of the movies who was disclosed in a Los Angeles court yesterday to have agreed to pay her former husband for not inferring she ever was guilty of an offense involving moral turpitude, issued a statement tonight. It said "the fact that Mr. Judson got certain property was in consideration for his waiving claims to my earnings."

Miss Hayworth, who was red eyed and appeared to have been weeping, worked out the brief statement in collaboration with her attorney, Martin Gang, while her husband, Orson Welles, paced their 5th avenue hotel suite in his best movie style. Occasionally Welles' eyes filled with tears, and when the statement was completed he leaned over and kissed her forehead.

Starts to Get Rough.

"It'll be all right, baby," he said.

Earlier Welles had met reporters in the hotel lobby. At first he ordered them to "get the hell out" but a moment later taking a firm grip on his walking stick he began talking about the affairs of his wife and Judson the 47 year old oil man who, the court record shows, agreed to remain silent about her private affairs in return for virtually all their community property and cash payment of $12,000 at the rate of $500 a month.

"How do you think I feel?" he asked. "I'm only the guy that married her a couple of weeks ago. I don't want to see her pushed around. I feel like her protector."

Wonder What She Wrote.

Meanwhile, New York and Hollywood friends of Miss Hayworth speculated on what she could have written, and to whom, that would have caused her to demand in her settlement with Judson that he was not to "sell, give away, circulate or dispose of any matter arising out of their marital relationship" that would cause her to be held in scorn or that would damage her career.

So far as Hollywood knew, Miss Hayworth was the happily married Mrs. Judson when she was costarred with Victor [Hunk o' Man] Mature in "My Gal Sal" early in 1942. But after that, Judson told friends, things weren't the same, and Mature began announcing that he and Miss Hayworth would marry as soon as she was free.

Lifelong Friend Offers Aid in Tyler Suicide Mystery

A new woman witness came forward yesterday with information on the life of Marjorie Tyler, and Coroner A. L. Brodie said he would recommend that the woman be summoned by Coroner Lyman Perkins of Kendall county when the official inquest into Miss Tyler's death is opened there.

At an unofficial inquiry held in Chicago Wednesday before a jury of eminent physicians, Miss Tyler's death was termed suicide from gas poisoning. At Yorkville, Coroner Perkins said he believed a good many angles of the case had not been explained, and he intends to get to the bottom of all of them. He said he would be guided by Coroner Brodie's recommendations.

Friends Since Childhood.

The new woman witness, who said she is willing to appear at any official hearing on the case, is Mrs. Mildred Korling, 32 years old, of Rand road, Lake Zurich. She said she had been a friend of Miss Tyler since they were children in Plano, Kendall county, where Miss Tyler's parents live. Mrs. Korling was a witness for Miss Tyler last June when she obtained a divorce in Circuit court here.

Mrs. Korling said Miss Tyler was a frequent visitor at the Korling home, and on several occasions told her of her great admiration and affection for her employer, Dr. Raymond W. McNealy. Dr. McNealy, 57, is chief surgeon at Wesley Memorial hospital and chief of County hospital staff. Miss Tyler, who was 27, was his private secretary.

Denies Having Door Key.

At the inquiry Wednesday, Dr. McNealy denied emphatically that he had a key to Miss Tyler's apartment, and said none of his belongings except a book were in the girl's $80 a month flat at 223 East Superior street. Dr. McNealy also established that he was returning home from a boar hunting trip in Tennessee on Wednesday, Nov. 10, when Miss Tyler was found unconscious in her apartment. She died Saturday in County hospital.

Mrs. Korling, who is the wife of Torkel Korling, a commercial artist, said she testified for Miss Tyler when the medical secretary won a divorce from Russell W. Buehler on the ground of cruelty.

Mrs. Korling said Miss Tyler's friendship with Dr. McNealy was not a factor in the divorce, but that later in the summer, when Miss Tyler frequently visited the Korling home, she spoke of her affection for the surgeon.

Bares Lake Zurich Visit.

Once Dr. McNealy called on Miss Tyler while she was visiting in Lake Zurich, Mrs. Korling said. She added that she had met Dr. McNealy on several occasions, and described him as rather reserved but friendly.

During the day another woman came forward to repeat a statement which she made Tuesday to Coroner Brodie—that Dr. McNealy was a frequent visitor at Miss Tyler's apartment.

This woman is Mrs. Mary Agnes Kokes; 27, a registered nurse who lives in the apartment below that occupied by Miss Tyler. She said she had seen Dr. McNealy frequently while she worked in Wesley Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Kokes' statement was issued thru an attorney, James P. Byrnes, who said he was acting as a lawyer, citizen, and taxpayer, and believed the evidence presented by his client should be presented to a grand jury.

Tells of Seeing Dr. McNealy.

Mrs. Kokes told Coroner Brodie Tuesday that she saw Dr. McNealy leave her apartment building shortly before Miss Tyler was found unconscious there. Six hours later, Mrs. Kokes retracted this statement, after the coroner had established thru a telephone call that Dr. McNealy was in Tennessee when Mrs. Kokes thought she saw him.

Yesterday, Mrs. Kokes repudiated her retraction of the statement, and

THREE AIRMEN CRASH OFF GREENLAND ROCK; MIRROR SAVES THEM

MONTREAL, Quebec, Nov. 18 (AP).—Three R. A. F. airmen of the transport command—one of them an American—have been rescued from a gale-swept rock off Greenland where they spent 10 days after crashing on a trans-Atlantic flight, it was disclosed tonight.

All are recuperating in a hospital here. They are Capt. Robert E. Coffman of Baton Rouge, La., pilot, Flying Officer Norman E. Greenway of Camrose, Alberta, navigator, and Radio Officer Ronald E. Snow, of Digby, N. S.

Before reaching the barren rock they clawed their way thru an ice-field in a rubber dinghy for 20 hours. They were prepared to die in the icy slush when they were rescued by a small ship carrying United States army officers which had been halted by engine trouble eight miles off the rock. While repairs were being made Maj. John T. Crowell of Isle au Haut, Me., sighted the glint of a mirror from the rock and saw a puff of smoke from Coffman's last Very cartridge.

TELL INSTANCES OF RED CONTROL IN WAR FACTORY

Output Cut Down by Union Leaders.

Thomas Pledges Aid

R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, CIO, last night by telephone from Washington, D. C., said he will order an immediate investigation of Communist domination of local 998, composed of Chicago Studebaker war plant employes, and other conditions exposed by The Tribune.

"I've never been hooked up with the Communists," Thomas said. "Our organization is vigorously opposed to any interference with war production. I intend to go most thoroly into the Chicago situation."

BY ORVILLE DWYER AND GEORGE HARTMANN.

New details of the tactics employed by Communists in the CIO United Automobile Workers union to get control and limit production in the big Chicago Studebaker airplane engine plant were obtained yesterday by Tribune reporters.

Yesterday THE TRIBUNE told of the intimidation of loyal American workers in the war plant by the Communist dominated union. It also told how conditions existing in the plant, virtually run by the union, feature horserace betting and dice games in the factory during working hours, enforcement of low work quotas, malingering, open contempt for the management, sitdowns and slowdowns and the open dissemination of Communist printed matter on the work benches.

Loyal Workers Intimidated.

Under the rule of the Reds, loyal workers, men and women, many of them with fathers, brothers, sons, and sweethearts fighting the war, have been compelled to "go along with" the union leaders. The management, determined to keep the bombers flying at any cost, tolerated this condition.

Reporters in talks with loyal workers, foremen, and guards learned that the Communists, cloaked with union authority, held down production in many ways. One typical case concerned the polishing of rods for engine parts.

Many of the engine parts must be as precisely made as watch parts and as smoothly polished. But the tactics of the slowdown chiefs in this department are similar to those pursued in the rocker arm department, the prop shaft line, and small parts division.

Complain Quota Is Exceeded.

The loyal workers contend a polisher easily could finish eight rods a day. The quota set by the Communist dominated union is much less. Prior to last Feb. 2, the night shift was polishing more rods than the quota. So much pressure was

Loyal Workers Laud Expose

Exposure in yesterday's TRIBUNE of Communist control in one of Chicago's largest war plants brought scores of phone calls from loyal workers who have wanted no part of the Communists' minimum production tactics, but have been compelled to go along with the saboteurs in order to hold their jobs.

These loyal workers said they were overjoyed when they read the first public account of the gambling, slowdowns, and other union abuses in the Chicago Studebaker war plant.

They gave THE TRIBUNE their names and addresses. They volunteered their help in ousting the Communist union henchmen, and cleaning up the anti-American atmosphere in the Chicago war plant. They said they know that similar conditions exist in many other war plants in and around Chicago.

Backed by Decent Workers.

Typical of the telephone statements was this:

"You've got the decent employes in the plant behind you. You're right about all you've printed."

Loyal workers said a tendency to ridicule the Communists and their followers was evident during the day. Workers in the tool room made stamps bearing the hammer and sickle, and went around stamping blueprints and papers handled by the Reds.

Ask Tribune "Retraction."

Some of those who called THE TRIBUNE said yesterday's expose generated an "uproar" in the plant. They said a group of communists, their satellites and sympathizers "charged thru the plant" trying to recruit hundreds to visit the Tribune plant. Out of the thousands of workers on the day shift, they gathered about 20 by midafternoon. These came to THE TRIBUNE'S editorial rooms asking a "retraction."

They were told that if they would take the 11 detailed points set forth yesterday, reply to them, and allow their pictures to be taken as evidence of their sincerity, their version of the matter would be published.

TELL INSTANCES OF RED CONTROL IN WAR FACTORY

Plane Engine Production Cut by Slowdown.

put on the night shift by the union leaders that the night shift was forced to slow down.

Faster Shift Slowed Down.

One of the plant bosses illustrated how production was clipped. Grinders on the night shift were turning out a large number of units of a so-called art-rod piece. The day shift, more completely under the domination of the Red union chiefs, was turning out a much lower quota. A squabble instigated by the union leaders followed and as a result the night shift had to cut its production to the level of the day shift.

It was in connection with this operation that loyal workers, with smiles, said they were putting it over on the Communists. They actually were turning out more than their quota, but marking their sheets to conform to the low level fixed by the union. This was to silence the union leaders. The plant bosses knew of this deception, but said nothing. The parts were going into airplane engines being shipped day by day to the army air forces.

Defiant Worker's Work Spoiled.

An example of what happened to a worker who defied the Reds was given by an inspector. X said he easily could polish so many rods a day. He could and did. He did it for a week. His work passed first inspection without a hitch. But at the end of the week he had no production whatever. His rods on final inspection were found to have been mysteriously tampered with and thrown out of gauge. This worker went back to polishing the number of rods a day the union told him was sufficient.

In one of the departments a woman inspector took her work seriously, insisted on precision, exact specifications. Some workers resented her exactitude. On Aug. 25, they sat down at their benches and machines and refused to go on unless she were removed. This went on for 45 minutes.

After issuing an ultimatum that they would not return to work on the following shift if the inspector were still working, they went back to work. On the next day the woman was at her station. Under Communist direction the workers refused to begin work on the shift and sat down for two hours, taking up their duties only when the management removed the inspector.

Threaten Fighters' Father.

One man of Polish extraction with two sons in the army refused to slow down on orders from the Reds. Threats and other forms of intimidation were used to make him fall in line. Word went around that he wouldn't listen. Then a man sidled up to his machine and told him: "Listen, you———, either you slow down or we'll break your arms and legs!"

The worker put on his coat and hat to leave. A foreman took him in hand. "Listen, Joe, while you're here you can at least do something for your boys. Do what they say and go back to work." Joe is still there, taking orders from the slow down chiefs.

There is the case of Fred and Thelma S—. Both were employed at plant almost from the beginning of operations. She was a burr-bench operator; he a ventilating engineer. Urged by a large group of workers, Fred ran for president of the union in opposition to the Communist slate.

More Elections Till Reds Win.

Three elections were held. The Communists failed in the first two and raised such an uproar that a third was necessary. Fred dropped out of the race after the first election, and began vigorous support of the anti-Communist ticket. Thelma helped count the ballots. In the third election the Communists won.

Fred was slugged. Both he and his wife were threatened many times face to face and by phone. They charge that the union drove them both from the plant and blackballed them so they have been unable in the face of the manpower shortage to get work in another war plant. Fred and Thelma now are hidden away from their foes. Together they earn $125 a month, taking care of an apartment building where he is maintenance man and she is maid of all work.

Several hundred day workers in the toolroom quit work because a Negro toolmaker had been employed to work with them.

300 Strike Over Nonunion Man.

Lt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, was called to the plant last March when 300 men in a department struck because they didn't want to work with one nonunion man. It was pointed out that the plant is an open shop and they therefore had no ground to go out. When Barnes got there, the strike was over. Barnes was told the men had gone back to work when the management threatened to "call in the army."

A month later Barnes called at the plant. He said he found one of the high officials in tears. The lieutenant said the official was shaken because "production was down to 60 per cent."

"I was genuinly distressed at the sight," Barnes said. "I offered to do anything I could to help bring production up again."

Punish a Foe of Reds.

The wrecking of a grinding machine was described by several of those who gave information on plant conditions. One explained it:

"The union Communists were waiting particularly for a certain worker who in a fight on the floor had knocked down one of their number who had urged a slow-down. This employe was being taught to operate the big grinder. While he and the man breaking him in were away during the noon hour, the master switch was tampered with. Whatever was done, the result was this: When the worker they had been waiting for started the machine something happened. When he reached for a lever to reverse it, the machine would not reverse, but kept going. The moving part plunged thru the end, wrecked the machine and sent steel parts flying in all directions. It was a miracle nobody was killed."

This was one of several occasions on which agents from the federal bureau of investigation were called into the plant. They questioned more than 100 of the employes, including union officials, stewards and bargaining committee members.

Asserts Union Helped Fire Him.

A union member told how the union actually aided in firing him. He said Chief Inspector C. E. Floody told him there was nothing he could do about it. This employe said:

"I was promoted to salvage inspector Oct. 2. The morning of Oct. 11, I reported to the industrial relations department that I had to go to Indiana to attend to legal business. They gave me two days off.

"I also had my brother-in-law, a union man in the plant, inform the inspection personnel clerk. When I got back Oct. 13, I was told by the union steward I was thru and another man had been given my job.

"I found I had been duly marked with permission to be off. I then protested to Floody. He told me there was nothing he could do. Instead of helping me, the union officials warned me I would be blackballed if I said anything about the CIO. This is the first time I've said anything."

Studebaker Plants Meeting Main Goals, Says Chairman

In a statement which neither denied nor affirmed THE TRIBUNE'S charges that the 20 million dollar Chicago war plant operated by his company is ruled by communists in the CIO Automobile Workers' union, H. S. Vance, Studebaker corporation board chairman, yesterday said:

"Studebaker has three objectives in operating aviation engine plants in South Bend, Fort Wayne, and Chicago for the army air forces:

"1. To build and deliver on schedule every Cyclone engine ordered by the army air forces to power Flying Fortresses. All schedules have been met.

Lauds Production Job.

"2. To build all engines up to the extremely high standards of precision and quality demanded by the army air forces. This has been done.

"3. To build engines at the lowest possible cost. The cost of these engines to the government has been reduced by Studebaker approximately 28 per cent since March, 1942.

"Studebaker management endeavors to work in harmony with all employes. We have had no strikes. A good production job has been done. Our Chicago plant was awarded the army-navy "E" in April and a star was recently added."

Kelly Orders Survey.

Mayor Kelly also commented on The Tribune story. Saying he had instructed Police Commissioner Allman to investigate whether law violations were being committed at the plant, Mayor Kelly added:

"I fear some of these troubles arise out of a mistaken idea that the war is nearly over. Workers seem at times to slow down, not realizing their laxity may cost the lives of American boys on the far flung battlefields.

"I am quite sure that the conditions existing in the Studebaker plant are not confined there, but that similar ones exist in many war plants in Chicago and thruout the country. Workers everywhere must be made to understand that all letdowns are extremely bad. They simply must not be tolerated."

EDUCATOR SAYS RATIONING MAY FACE TEACHERS

Edward H. Stullken, principal and founder of the Montefiore school, yesterday predicted that teachers may have to be rationed to provide that all areas can have good teachers. Speaking in Hotel Sherman at a meeting of the Chicago Kiwanis clubs, Stullken asserted that properly qualified workers must be maintained in school and agency programs if juvenile delinquency is to be decreased.

Stullken protested that from three to five times as much money is spent annually thruout the nation on delinquency and crime as is being spent on education.

56 MILLION JOBS CALLED BIGGEST POST-WAR NEED

Possessing an industrial plant with 50 per cent greater potential output than before the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor, the United States must provide 56 million civilian jobs to achieve full employment after the war, it was estimated in the report of the committee on post-war reconstruction and development prepared for submission to the general council of the Council of State Governments that opens its meeting today in the Shoreland hotel.

Attending the two day meeting here, aimed principally at the study of state post-war problems, will be eight governors, including Dwight H. Green of Illinois, Earl Warren of California, John W. Bricker of Ohio, Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Dwight Griswold of Nebraska, Herbert O'Conor of Maryland, J. Melville Broughton of North Caroline, Spessard Holland of Florida, and Herbert Maw of Utah.

Called "the Major Problem."

An exhaustive report was prepared by the post-war reconstruction committee, of which Gov. O'Conor is chairman, in which the council was told that "the major post-war problem for which a solution must be found is the problem of full employment for all who want to work."

Pointing out that the output of goods per man-hour has grown approximately 2½ per cent per year for the last decade, the report estimated that "the potential productive capacity of a fully employed working force in 1946 will be almost 50 per cent greater than the nation's actual output in the year before Pearl Harbor."

Cites Expanded Production.

The report stated that even in 1939 federal, state, and local governments purchased more than 10 per cent of all goods and services currently produced and added that "the huge war time increase of governmental purchases is being met for the most part thru an expansion of production."

"Above all," the report warned, "state governments should seek to eliminate all legislation and all practices whether by government, business, labor, or agriculture which serve to discourage or limit business expansion."

Industry Must Take Most.

The report on post-war agricultural problems warned that "if full employment is to contribute its maximum to the general standard of living most of those now in service must be absorbed in industry and relatively few return to agriculture. Once the distress needs for food are met, the main unfilled demand will be for industrial goods and personal services."

The report discarded the New Deal program of "scarcity" in stating that "there is reason to doubt that a reduction of total production can be turned to a profit for the farmers. Hence, it is to the farmer's interest that industrial production be maintained in order that there be more industrial goods available to exchange for more farm products."

REPORT CIO STUDIES STUDEBAKER PLANT UNION'S ACCOUNTS

It was reported yesterday that local 998 of the CIO United Automobile Workers' union at the Studebaker plant are being scrutinized by the CIO international organization.

According to reports, the local collects more than $5,000 a month from the members who are employed at the plant, and more than $2,000 a month is collected in salaries by the union officials. The members pay $1 a month dues.

It was said that large salaries were collected by the union officials by paying themselves time and one-half pay at the same scale as their salary for time put in at the union headquarters after leaving the plant.

RAISES GRANTED TO EMPLOYES OF PHONE COMPANY

The war labor board yesterday ordered the Illinois Bell Telephone company to establish a minimum wage scale of $16 a week and granted raises of $3 a week to all except a few beginning employes among the company's 8,000 clerks, supervisors and operators. A union demand for a maintenance of membership was rejected.

The decision, announced by Robert K. Burns, regional chairman of the board, ended 8 months of dispute over wages and working conditions between the company and the Illinois Telephone Traffic union, an independent organization. The union had asked a flat $4 raise for all employes.

The terms of the order are retroactive to March 9, 1943.

NEW DEAL RULE OF HOME FRONT HIT ON 2 SIDES

Senators Act to Assure Rail Men Pay Raise.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—The New Deal's control over the home front economy was attacked on two major fronts today as congress headed for a showdown with the administration on the controversial issues of railway workers' wages and food subsidies.

In the senate, an interstate commerce subcommittee voted to validate by congressional action a flat 8 cents an hour increase for 1,097,000 nonoperating railway employes. The subcommittee's recommendation now goes to the full committee for action. The increase was agreed to in August by the railroad managements and unions, but was set aside by Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson. Vinson first ordered the boost cut to 4 cents an hour and later revised his proposal to call for sliding scale boosts ranging from 4 to 10 cents.

Subsidy Debate Opens.

In the house, a strong bi-partisan group of congressmen led a fight for adoption of a pending bill to ban all food subsidies in the face of administration demands for blanket authority to pay such subsidies to hold down retail prices.

In the opening debate on the bill Democrats joined with Republicans in branding the subsidy plan a scheme to saddle billions of dollars of consumers' grocery bills on future taxpayers and an attempt to regiment and socialize the nation's six million farmers.

Passage of the anti-subsidy measure by large majorities in the house, and later the senate, was conceded even by administration stalwarts who argued for subsidies to maintain prices and halt "ruinous inflation."

Bread Subsidy Announced.

Meanwhile the administration, ignoring congressional opposition, forged ahead with its subsidy program by officially announcing a new 108 million dollar annual flour subsidy. The plan, unofficially disclosed yesterday, is designed to maintain present retail bread prices and relieve a current "squeeze" on millers caught between rising wheat prices and fixed ceilings on flour.

Vinson's office, in announcing the new flour subsidy plan, said the only alternative would be to raise price ceilings on bread and family flour. The program calls for payment of federal funds to millers because the prices they actually pay for wheat are higher than the wheat prices on which flour ceilings originally were based. Coincidentally, price ceilings, equal to parity, will be extended to all types of wheat. Subsidy funds will be paid by the Reconstruction Finance corporation and details, such as the effective date of the program, will be announced later.

Breaks "Little Steel" Plan.

The senate subcommittee's action on railway wages was taken in the face of a warning from Vinson that the 8 cent increase would crack the "Little Steel formula," limiting wage increases to 15 per cent over the Jan. 1, 1941, level.

Vinson told the committee Tuesday that if congress votes to abandon the formula for railway workers, "then the executive department would in all fairness be compelled to abandon it for other groups."

The committee vote on the resolution for the 8 cent boost, offered by Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.], was 5 to 1, Chairman Edwin C. Johnson [D., Col.] announced.

Sen. Clyde M. Reed [R., Kas.], a member of the committee, told reporters that unless congress adopts the resolution, railway workers will vote to strike and President Roosevelt will then be forced to take over the nation's railroads. The railway unions are now taking a strike vote among the more than one million affected employes as a result of Vinson's rejection of the wage increase.

Charges Subsidy "Politics."

In the house debate on food subsidies, Rep. Charles A. Halleck [R., Ind.] opened the fight against such payments with a charge that they are being sought by the administration as a "political expedient."

"Subsidies represent a resort to the path of least resistance," Halleck told the house. "They are an extension of the illusion that if we pay something out of the federal treasury, it does not cost anybody anything.

"Subsidies must be paid out of borrowed money. They increase the federal debt that untold generations to come will be struggling to pay. We certainly should not expect them to pay bills we should pay now."

Criticizes Administration.

Halleck said the administration would not be asking for subsidies if it had "grappled honestly and realistically with the problem of price control," and declared its failure to do so has brought about price squeezes and higher living costs.

Rep. Henry B. Steagall [D., Ala.], chairman of the banking committee which approved the anti-subsidy measure, brought forth applause from both sides of the chamber when he declared that "I don't endorse the viewpoint of the controlling minds now directing this administration." He said subsidies, if allowed to continue, would snowball into a "permanent and increasing drain on the federal treasury and hence the nation's tax payers."

Leading the administration's fight against the bill were Majority Leader John W. McCormack [D., Mass.] and Rep. Wright Patman [D., Tex.].

McCormack asserted that a ban on subsidies would cause immediate inflation and said, "The responsibility for this will rest with congress." He drew a picture of spiraling prices, suffering consumers, and lowered morale at home, if the bill becomes law.

Called "Bill for Inflation."

Patman said congress has directed the President to stabilize prices at the Sept. 15, 1942, level, and argued this can only be done thru subsidies. The anti-subsidy bill, he said, "is a bill for inflation and a higher cost of living."

In reply Rep. Jesse Wolcott [R., Mich.], ranking minority member of the banking committee, asserted that it is subsidies themselves which will bring about inflation. Every dollar paid in subsidies, Wolcott said, releases another dollar of consumer purchasing power to exert pressure for higher prices.

Declaring that "subsidies beget subsidies," Wolcott said food subsidies, if allowed to continue, will bring demands for similar use of federal funds for other consumer goods and services amounting to untold billions of dollars. The subsidy issue, he said, involves the "fundamental question of continuing our American form of government."

"Where'll It Stop?" He saks.

"If we adopt a brand new philosophy of government whereby the United States treasury is to pay part of everybody's food bill, what makes anybody think it will stop there?" Wolcott asked. "Next it will be clothing, rents, and all necessities, and then luxuries will be subsidized. This is a step to regiment the country under the yoke of a federal burocracy. Food subsidies alone are a move to socialize every farmer in the country."

In a radio address tonight, George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, continued the labor unions' fight for more subsidies, arguing they are needed to stabilize prices at the Sept. 15, 1942, level, where congress voted to hold them.

Would Prolong CCC.

The pending house bill, besides outlawing subsidies, would continue the life of the Commodity Credit corporation until June 30, 1945, and permit the agency to guarantee support prices to farmers on their crops. The subsidy ban would thus not apply to payments to farmers made to maintain or increase food production, but would ban federal payments, to reduce or maintain retail prices, which would not be reflected in any increased return to farmers.

The President is expected to veto the bill if it reaches the White House with the anti-subsidy provision included, but anti-subsidy congressmen predict there is a "good chance" of overriding a veto.

The house debate on the bill will end tomorrow, and Monday will be devoted to a consideration of amendments, including the administration's proposal to strike out the subsidy ban. A house vote on the measure is expected late Monday or Tuesday.

HUTCHINS BEGINS HIS 15TH YEAR AS HEAD OF U. OF C.

Robert M. Hutchins was called the "boy president" when he was named head of the University of Chicago in 1929, but today—as he starts his 15th year in the position — there are only three presidents of institutions affiliated with the Association of American Universities who rank him in seniority.

Robert M. Hutchins.

President Hutchins' idea that the basic purpose of a university is to teach people to think, and his view that the American system of education is susceptible of improvement, especially with regard to elimination of waste and duplication, have provoked frequent controversies, but they have been placed in effect at the university.

Another of the basic changes he made was the inauguration of the so-called Chicago Plan, which called for reformation both educationally and administratively. Educationally, it provides for passing of students on the basis of comprehensive examinations—which they may take regardless of whether they have attended classes—and for a greatly expanded system of student advisers. Thru it emphasis is placed on intellectual accomplishment and not on grades. In President Hutchins' view, this eliminates a kind of "lockstep" from which he believes the college world suffers.

BRITISH ATTACK AEGEAN ISLE IN COMMANDO RAID

Nazis Begin Air Assault on Greek Island.

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP).—The Cairo radio said today that British Commandos had raided the Aegean Dodecanese Island of Symi, where they destroyed a post office, damaged a power station, and killed 14 Germans.

Symi is about 75 miles southeast of Leros, which was wrested from the British by German invasion forces on Tuesday.

Berlin announced that Nazi forces had begun an aerial assault on Samos, a Greek island some 20 miles north of Leros. The broadcast said German bombers and dive bombers dropped bombs of all calibers on military targets on Samos.

British planes from the middle east raided Crete and Rhodes. American Flying Forts bombed Elevsis air field near Athens and near-by Kalamaki field was attacked by Mitchells escorted by Lightnings.

Gen. Wilson Says Aegean Battle "Paid Us Dividend."

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 18 (AP).—British occupation of the Dodecanese Islands of Kos, Leros, and Samos and the subsequent loss to the Germans of the first two was defended today by the British middle east commander, Gen. Henry Maitland Wilson, as a "diversion" which "has paid us a dividend."

The capture of Leros, he said, had cost the Germans casualties greater than the total British force employed, together with more than 36,000 tons of shipping sunk and air losses exceeding those of the allies by 3 to 1.

"In breaking up German convoys we have caused irreplaceable losses because Germany has no fresh supply of shipping on which to draw," he said. "It seems to be my lot to bolster lost causes such as when we were forced to evacuate Greece, but I believe history will prove both that campaign and this one were worthwhile."

Turkey Reported Moving Toward War with Axis.

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 17 [Delayed].—(AP).—Turkey is giving sub rosa assistance to the allied fighting forces which closely approximates that which the United States gave Britain in the months before Pearl Harbor, and is moving toward war with the axis.

There is little doubt that Turkey's course has been set and that she will become a full-fledged fighting member of the allies, probably by spring.

The Moscow conference was so obviously a turning point in the war that Turkey, observers believe, feels it is politically necessary that she turn from her role of neutrality, altho that role has been of tremendous benefit to the allies.

If Turkey grants air and naval bases to the allies it will be tantamount to open warfare. This doubtless will not be done until Turkey's coast and large port cities are fully protected against aerial assault.

Turkey already has developed elaborate airports which hardly need more than the arrival of allied bombing planes and personnel to be transformed into bases. Turkey's army probably could not go into action before spring, since the winter in Thrace is not fighting weather.

8th Army Breaks Up Nazi Plans for Counterattack.

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Nov. 18 (AP).—German preparations for a counter-attack along the middle sector of the Sangro river front were smashed yesterday by the concentrated fire of British 8th army artillery, while continued heavy rains converted many rivers and creeks along the Italian battle line into torrents.

The action took place east of the Sangro near the villages of Archi and Perano, which are a mile apart and three miles northwest of Atessa. There Nazi concentrations were observed as they were moving up. Gen. Montgomery's cannon blasted them into disorganized retreat before they could attack.

Report Italian-Jugo-Slav Frontier Closed by Nazis.

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP).—Germany has closed the Italian-Jugo-Slav frontier in what appears to be a move to block any possible merger of guerrilla factions, it was reported today in a broadcast by Radio France at Algiers.

In Jugo-Slavia, the Partisans of Gen. Josip [Tito] Broz continued to harass the German garrisons at every turn, altho the bulletin broadcast by the Free Jugo-Slav radio said Nazis had brought such superior forces into action that the fighting yesterday was chiefly of a defensive nature.

A German break-thru in eastern Bosnia, from Doboj to Tuzla, was admitted, but the Partisans said fighting still was going on around Tuzla.

In Dalmatia, the Nazis were trying to slice thru from Drnis into liberated territory and they were using tanks and motorized troops in attacks in northwestern Croatia.

The Jugo-Slavs claimed to have captured a coal mine near Lazarevac which had been supplying fuel for a power plant and war factories in Belgrade.

The German overseas radio said that Sofia, Bulgaria, which was bombed heavily last Sunday by United States planes, was to be evacuated, for fear was gripping the city in expectation of future allied attacks.

It was reported that Hungary was massing troops along the Rumanian border as a threat to invade if "repressive action" against Hungarian minorities did not stop.

U. S. and British Cease Flying Planes to Lebanon.

[By Wireless to the New York News and The Chicago Tribune.]

CAIRO, Nov. 18.—Despite official French bulletins from Beirut that Lebanon rapidly is returning to normal, the Americans and British have stopped their service aircraft from flying into Beirut and have withdrawn their planes from the airport there to preclude any possibility of an accident which might involve them in the disorders.

Strikes holding up Beirut transportation and public utilities are reported here to be continuing despite the arrival of Gen. Georges Catroux, minister from the French committee of national liberation. The temper of the Lebanese and other peoples in the middle east has been made more irritable, if anything, by the statement of Gen. Charles de Gaulle that the crisis is over.

FRANCE PAYS MORE MILLIONS TO U. S. FOR AFRICAN HELP

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 [Special].—The French Committee of National Liberation today gave Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, a check for $15,000,000 to pay for civilian supplies in French North Africa. This increased their total payments to date to $56,340,000.

It was pointed out that the French Committee of National Liberation also has supplied the United States with 30,000 tons of wheat and substantial quantities of fresh fruit and vegetables. France also agrees to supply sisal, lead concentrates, nickel ores, tin, cobalt, and other raw materials.

French North Africa is now largely self-sufficient for food and has some surpluses available to United States forces.

N.Y. Cocktails Would Float Normandie, Says W.C.T.U.

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Nov. 18.—Comdr. William A. Sullivan, who directed salvaging of the liner Normandie in New York, told today of the many letters he received on how to do the job. One from the Women's Christian Temperance union, he said, proposed that all New York cocktail parties be called off for one week and that the ice cubes saved be placed in the Normandie's hold. The theory: Since ice floats, it might have floated the ship.

NAPLES HARBOR 2 YEAR JOB, SAYS SALVAGE EXPERT

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Nov. 18.—Divers who helped refloat the liner Normandie are among the naval personnel who have salvaged hundreds of sunken or damaged ships from Casablanca, Morocco, to Naples, Italy, since the allied invasion.

Now they are clearing part of the harbor of Naples under command of Comdr. William A. Sullivan, who supervised the raising of the Normandie. Sullivan's counterpart in the British navy is Capt. W. A. Daust of the royal naval volunteer reserve.

While naval salvage work includes fighting fires at sea and patching damaged ships before they reach harbor, most of the tasks in the Mediterranean have been to clear harbors.

Naples Harbor Worst.

Naples, where German demolition crews spent eight days blowing up everything not hit by allied bombers, was the hardest assignment yet undertaken, Sullivan said. Virtually every ship berth was blocked by blown up docks, or sunken lighters and cranes. Barges had even been sunk, one on top of the other. One tough job was to remove a crane which had been sunk atop a tugboat. Beside the docks still lie the hulks of the larger ships which had been sunk by allied bombs.

To clear completely what had been one of the greatest commercial harbors in the world would take two years, Sullivan said. To raise the old Hamburg-American liner Resolute, which had been purchased by the Italians, the commodore explained, it would be necessary to cut the 23,000 ton hulk into 50 ton sections for lifting. It takes about four times as long, even with good visibility, to cut steel under water than it does ashore, he also pointed out.

Hails Italian Workmen.

A qualified diver himself, Sullivan paid tribute to the Italian naval salvage section which, he said, had developed excellent technique. Almost all the Mediterranean divers, he said, are good because they must do almost all their work under water instead of waiting for the tide to clear a stranded ship.

Asked if he regretted not being on hand when the Normandie salvage job, which he started, was completed, Sullivan grinned and replied: "No, I was fed up. It was a big job and an interesting one, but it was a headache."

Hear Germans Mobilize More Men in Baltic States

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 18 (AP).—German authorities in occupied Estonia and Latvia have called up 10 classes of reservists for German army service, Swedish press dispatches from Berlin said today.

FINDS M'ARTHUR LACKS ARMS FOR MAJOR THRUST

Pacific Installations Not His to Use.

BY JACK TURCOTT.

[Correspondent of the New York News.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Nov. 18.—Allied forces under Gen. MacArthur lack the strength for a major thrust, a survey of the Southwest Pacific west of the Solomons Islands clearly shows.

Whatever new move Gen. MacArthur may contemplate will be made with a shoestring army and air force, for the Southwest Pacific theater of operations has relatively less allied resources today than it had a year ago when strategy dictated the seizure of Buna and Sanananda on New Guinea.

This may result from a deliberate policy of Washington, D. C., and London to save troops and planes for use in other areas, but the apparently premeditated campaign in the United States proclaiming that the Pacific is now armed with more than half of America's power and waving a vague hand in Gen. MacArthur's direction has certain sinister implications.

Not Under MacArthur.

I have crossed the Pacific between Australia and California twice within the last seven weeks. Powerful air and sea bases, protected by trained ground forces, literally dot the ocean to the east of Japanese mandated islands. But, tho the strength of American installations in the Fijis, Samoa, Canton, Hawaii, and the Marquesas, Society, and Aleutian Islands is gratifying, it is all unavailable to America's senior combat general.

Gen. MacArthur is unable even to requisition Adm. William F. Halsey's fleet from the Solomons, New Hebrides, and New Caledonia, altho Washington in an apparent desire to leave a contrary impression recently asserted that Halsey now is under MacArthur's command.

Gen. MacArthur actually has the same absence of authority over more than 75 per cent of the American forces in the Pacific that he has over the Americans fighting in Italy. The same situation existed 15 months ago in the Guadalcanal campaign when the marines, put ashore to face the most difficult supply and reënforcement problems, suddenly and mysteriously began complaining that MacArthur had abandoned them.

Not Over Guadalcanal.

Gen. MacArthur not only had no control over the marines or jurisdiction over Guadalcanal but he did not even know what was happening there.

If Gen. MacArthur actually commanded everything in the Pacific, including the hundreds of thousands of Americans who have never seen action, and probably never will, observers here are convinced the United States would redeem the Philippines within a year and go on to defeat Japan.

WARSHIPS SHELL JAPANESE BASES IN N. SOLOMONS

Rip Buka Air Field in 45 Minute Attack.

ADM. WILLIAM F. HALSEY'S SOUTH PACIFIC HDQ., Nov. 19 [Friday]—(AP).—American warships have ventured less than 200 miles from the Japanese fortress at Rabaul for the second time this month to shell enemy air bases on Buka at the northern tip of Bougainville Island in the Solomons.

The warships, warding off blows by Japanese planes as they moved along the coast of the island, poured their shells on Buka for 45 minutes before dawn Wednesday. They shot down one enemy plane.

At noon the previous day, unescorted Liberators dropped more than 200 medium bombs and several heavy bombs on the Buka air field.

Aussies Open Drive Thru Jungles of New Guinea.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HDQ., Nov. 19 [Friday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters reported today that the New Guinea jungle front has sprung into action again, with Australians beyond allied held Finschhafen driving inland against Japanese defenses at Sattelberg mission.

The Japanese at Sattelberg, which is about 15 miles northwest of Finschhafen on the Huon peninsula of northeastern New Guinea, several weeks ago tried to cut an avenue of escape to the peninsula shore but were driven back. Australian flown Vengeances provided air support for the new drive.

Down Six Jap Planes.

Allied planes also raided the Wewak-Madang area northwest of the fighting scene. Japanese planes attacked along the Ramu valley which leads from near Madang southwestward behind the Finschhafen area. Australian troops also are in the Ramu valley, moving slowly toward Madang.

Over Wewak, allied planes shot down six Japanese planes for certain and probably bagged a seventh while losing two.

Five enemy planes made a predawn attack in the Finschhafen sector and other raids were made Wednesday at Lae and at Dumpu, an allied base in the Ramu valley. Much bombed Rabaul, on New Britain Island, was visited anew by Mitchell medium bombers which attacked Lakunai airdrome, one of Rabaul's six air bases.

Yanks Widen Beachhead.

On Bougainville, in the Solomons, American troops have fought their way inland at Empress Augusta bay for new gains. Since the invasion opened Nov. 1, more than 800 Japanese have been killed, it was announced. American losses have been only slightly more than 100.

Headquarters disclosed the sinking by Japanese planes of a small vessel from a convoy bearing supplies and reënforcements to the beachhead.

Yanks Rip Mid-Pacific Jap Bases 5th Day.

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Nov. 18 (AP).—Liberator bombers of the United States army's 7th air force struck at enemy bases in the Gilbert and Marshall Islands on Tuesday and Wednesday, it was announced today by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, extending their campaign into the fifth successive day.

There were no United States losses, in personnel or planes, in these latest raids, but a retaliation attack by Japanese planes on Funafuti, American base in the Ellice Islands to the south, killed two men and damaged several planes on the ground.

The Liberators may be operating from the Ellice group. Their base has not been disclosed and all announcements of their activity have come from Adm. Nimitz.

Large fires were started by Tuesday's raid on the airdrome area of Jaluit, in the Marshalls, and one enemy floatplane probably was destroyed. The raid on Tarawa, major Japanese base in the Gilberts, was made about noon Wednesday.

U. S.-EQUIPPED CHINESE GAIN 20 MILES IN BURMA

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 18 (AP).—American trained and equipped Chinese troops have penetrated 20 to 30 miles deeper into extreme northern Burma across mountain chasms and jungle since Oct. 26, a bulletin from Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

Advancing in front of American units building a supply road from India to China's Burma road, the Chinese now hold the north banks of the Chindwin river and the Taraung, a northern tributary.

Repulse Jap Thrust.

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 18 (AP).—Unabated fighting on the central China front, with heavy casualties on both sides, was announced tonight by the high command. The bulletin said the Chinese repulsed a Japanese counter-attack northeast of Yochow.

PREDICTS LONG DELAY IN REAL WAR ON JAPAN

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 18 (AP).—A long delay between the end of the war in Europe and the concentration of allied might to crush Japan was forecast today by Maj. Gen. R. H. Dewing, chief of the British-Australian army liaison staff.

"If time has been necessary for the concentration of allied forces for the second front in Europe and the North African campaign," he said in a speech, "even more will be needed to move major forces from the European theater to the far east."

The only hope Germany and Japan have for victory, Dewing said, is thru undue prolongation of the war and growth of discord and lassitude among the allies.

Navy Awards 2 Medals to Sioux City Flyer

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP).—The navy, it was disclosed today, has awarded the navy cross and Purple Heart to Lt. James Herbert Alexander of Sioux City, Ia., and decorations to five members of the crew of his patrol bomber which beat off an attack by six or more twin-engined German fighters.

BELIEVE JAPAN HOLDS FLEET TO GUARD LIFELINES

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HDQ., Nov. 18 (AP).—Japan probably will hold the remaining bulk of her battered but still formidable navy in reserve until allied naval formations venture in force into the 1,500 mile wide stretch of the Pacific lying between her principal north-south island lifelines.

Or she may wait until the war reaches Japan's home waters. And there is the possibility that an allied seaborne attack in force in the central Pacific might lure the Japanese battle fleet into action.

The vast sea lane between the two island lifelines is considered the most probable area for a major sea battle. The outer line runs thru Honshu in Japan proper, Bonin, Marianas, Truk, and Rabaul. The other, also stretching from Japan proper to the Southwest Pacific, passes thru Kyushu, Ryuku, Formosa, the Philippines, and Dutch New Guinea.

Fleet Faces Attack.

If the allied fleets venture within these waters they may be liable to almost continuous attack or threat of attack from Japan's submarines and land-based planes. This air assistance could restore to some extent Japan's fleet balance which has been knocked out of line by repeated allied naval and air successes. Allied announcements list some 340 Japanese warships as sunk or damaged, including 155 damaged.

Japan still is capable of assembling a formidable battle fleet. The steady growth of American naval power in the Pacific and the almost daily attacks delivered against enemy warships provide ample evidence that American commanders are not acting upon the assumption that the Japanese navy has ceased to exist.

Japs Make 3-Purpose Claims.

Tokio spokesmen have sunk the American fleet several times over. Such claims are made for the triple purpose of bolstering home morale, causing discontent or despair among the allied peoples, or tempting allied spokesmen into statements that might provide information.

The allies have far less reason to make unfounded claims on any of the three counts. American spokesmen have made a determined effort to meet public demands for up-to-the-minute and accurate reports. But errors creep in, especially in actions involving sea and air craft.

HINT RUSSIA'S AIMS AND HULL AVOWALS CLASH

Concern Is Voiced After Speech to Congress.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Secretary of State Hull's report of the Moscow conference was the subject of grave discussion tonight in view of news from Moscow and London which members of congress said they found disquieting.

The white haired secretary of state had made his report earlier in the day at a historic joint session of the senate and the house in the house chamber. He gave his word that no secret agreements had been made, but confirmed that the United States, Russia, Great Britain, and China had left in abeyance the problems of post-war territorial boundaries.

Soviet Territorial Claims.

Members of both houses, expressing concern, said this would leave Russia free to sovietize Poland and proceed with the other territorial claims which Premier Stalin has advanced.

The Moscow agreement has been acclaimed here for pledging Russia to remain in the war until Germany has agreed to the unconditional surrender which the allies have demanded. But a Washington dispatch in the London Daily Telegraph, predicting an early meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, and Stalin, said:

"Already there has been some discussion as to whether the appeal to the German people should constitute a modification or an elaboration of the unconditional surrender formula."

Same Common Interests.

Secretary Hull told congress the allies would have the same common interests, and that the conference had prepared the way for all peace loving nations, large and small, to live in peace and security.

In Moscow the soviet organ Izvestia said Russia would oppose any post-war federation of small European nations, and that Finland, Rumania, and Hungary could not escape the consequences of accepting Nazi domination. The soviet publication said, moreover, that exiled governments of occupied countries are not in close enough touch with their peoples to express popular will as to a federation.

Objections Made Clear.

The Moscow conference pronouncement that Austria was to be given opportunity for reëstablishment as a free and independent state had been followed in London by expressions to the effect that the Russians had no objection to European federations.

Izvestia made clear the Russian objection to federations. It said the soviet position had been made clear at the conference to Secretary Hull and Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary. Hull and Eden, the soviet organ went on, voiced no protest.

With no reference to doubts that have been expressed as to the intentions of other nations, Secretary Hull said:

"At the end of the war, each of the united nations and each of the nations associated with them will have the same common interest in national security, in world order under law, in peace . . . in the principles and spirit of the Atlantic Charter and the declaration by the united nations."

Envisions a New System.

Mr. Hull envisioned a new international system, saying:

"As the provisions of the four national declaration are carried into effect, there will no longer be need for spheres of influence, for alliances, for balance of power."

It was not until near the end of his speech that he mentioned the controversial subject of boundaries.

"There were other problems," he said, "such, for example, as questions relating to boundaries, which must, by their very nature, be left in abeyance until the termination of hostilities."

The senate and the house and three members of the cabinet were assembled in the house chamber when Secretary Hull, a tall figure in blue, was escorted down the great middle aisle to be greeted by Vice President Wallace, president of the senate, and Rep. Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], speaker of the house.

Speaker Rayburn recalled that Secretary Hull began his political career in the house and welcomed him back. Mrs. Hull watched from the gallery while her husband acknowledged his ovation with smiles and a wave of the hand.

Warmly Applauded.

Secretary Hull was warmly applauded during and after the address and there were many approving comments despite the questions raised by the news of the day.

Rep. Jessie Sumner [R., Ill.] said, however:

"Moscow was another Munich, according to the refugees. They think the Moscow agreements simply transferred title from one slave-owner, Hitler, to another, Stalin. For the sake of American boys fighting in Europe, something must be done to extinguish this feeling."

Mr. Hull began his address by thanking the congressmen for the invitation to appear before them.

"But I apreciate even more," he said, "the fact that by your invitation you have emphasized your profound interest in the principles and policies for which the Moscow conference stood, and in the progress made by the participating governments in carrying them forward.

At President's Direction.

"I went to Moscow, by direction of President Roosevelt, to discuss with the representatives of Great Britain and the soviet union some basic problems of international relations in the light of principles to which our country, under the President's leadership, has come to give widespread adherence. It has never been my fortune to attend an international conference at which there was greater determination on the part of all the participants to move forward in a spirit of mutual understanding and confidence."

Mr. Hull then outlined the major provisions of the Moscow agreement, including a statement of "the necessity of establishing at the earliest possible date a general international organization," which would be based on "the principle of the sovereign equality of all peace loving states."

No Need for Sphere of Influence.

"As the provisions of the four nation declaration are carried into effect," continued Mr. Hull, "there will no longer be need for spheres of influence, for alliances, for balance of power, or any other of the special arrangements thru which, in the unhappy past, the nations strove to safeguard their security or to promote their interests.

"The intensive discussion, lasting two weeks, did not and was not intended to bring about the solution of all the problems that are before us.

"Much less could we anticipate the problems that are bound to arise from day to day and from year to year. There were other problems, such, for example, as questions relating to boundaries, which must, by their very nature, be left in abeyance until the termination of hostilities. This is in accordance with the position maintained for some time by our government.

"Of supreme importance is the fact that at the conference the whole spirit of international coöperation, now and after the war, was revitalized and given practical expression. The conference thus launched a forward movement which, I am firmly convinced, will steadily extend in scope of effectiveness."

Calls Stalin Remarkable.

The secretary offered warm praise of the other participants in the conference. Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov, he said, arranged for the proceedings with great efficiency and manifested a profound grasp of international problems. Eden, Mr. Hull asserted, had exhibited the finest qualities of statesmanship. He described Marshal Stalin as a remarkable personality and one of the great statesmen and leaders of his age. The fighting spirit of the Russian people also drew lavish praise from the secretary.

In closing, Mr. Hull said:

"As an American I am proud of the breadth and height of vision and statesmanship which have moved you, ladies and gentlemen, in each house of the congress, to adopt, by overwhelming nonpartisan majorities, resolutions in favor of our country's participation with other sovereign nations in an effective system of international coöperation for the maintenance of peace and security.

"By the procedure of coöperation with other nations likewise intent upon security, we can and will remain masters of our own fate."

KELLAND ASKS G. O. P. TO APE THE DEMOCRATS

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 18 (AP).—Arizona Republican National Committeeman Clarence Budington Kelland, echoing the proposal of Navy Secretary Frank Knox, suggested today that Democrats and Republicans include identical foreign relations planks in their 1944 platforms.

In an address prepared for a meeting of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, Kelland said identical foreign policy planks would tell the world "that no matter what the outcome of the election shall be upon the question of post-war coöperation and foreign policy America is not divided, but is one and indivisible."

A similar proposal was made by the navy secretary last Oct. 27. Secretary of State Cordell Hull also has made such a proposal.

POST-WAR PERIOD OF TRANSITION IS URGED BY REDS

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP).—Indications of a unanimity of British, American, and Russian views on settlement of Europe's post-war boundaries were apparent here today as rumors were widespread that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, and Premier Stalin would meet soon on neutral ground. The rumors were without official confirmation.

London newspapers displayed dispatches from the United States forecasting a meeting of the three men, but they printed nothing on their own initiative.

A Washington dispatch to the Daily Telegraph developed the line that "a joint declaration directed to Germany and demanding her surrender is considered here to be a probable move in addition to important military decisions."

Talk of Big Events.

The News-Chronicle's Washington correspondent wrote of "vague and carefully phrased but urgent" talk of big events and quoted American newspaper headlines as forecasting the conference.

A proposal by the soviet government newspaper Izvestia for a transition period to give small nations time to determine their own futures found agreement in the British policy of leaving the map of Europe alone until well after victory.

"Premature and possibly artificial tying-up of small countries in theoretically planned groups might bring dangerous consequences for those countries as well as for the future peaceful development of Europe," Izvestia said.

Lists 3 Point Opposition.

Izvestia listed these three points in opposing an immediate consideration to unions of small countries:

1. Governments in exile, lacking close bonds with their nations, cannot guarantee that they express the will of their people.

2. New governments established immediately after the liberation of occupied countries will not be stable or authoritative enough to decide on a federation.

3. Only after the post-war situation becomes stable and small countries acquire confidence in their independence can a discussion of a federation be useful.

The same general view was expressed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull who declared in Washington, D. C., that boundary settlements would be left until after the war.

In addition to fixing a positive date for a 1944 invasion of northwest Europe in coördination with Russian campaigns, the three leaders are expected to solidify further a tri-power formula for dealing with the small allies as well as enemies after the war.

In this connection the disposition in London apparently is to soft-pedal any post-war confederation of small states, which Russia, as Izvestia remarked in Moscow today, might interpret as an attempt to erect a barrier against the soviet union.

GERMAN ARMIES IN RUSSIA SPLIT; 2 BASES SEIZED

Korosten and Rechitsa Fall to Red Drive.

LONDON, Nov. 19 [Friday]—(AP).—The Red army has split the German armies of the Ukraine from those in White Russia with the capture of the rail junction of Korosten, on the Leningrad-Odessa and Kiev-Warsaw lines 60 miles from the pre-war Polish border, Premier Josef Stalin disclosed last night in an order of the day.

Another order announced the fall of Rechitsa, a back door stronghold protecting the White Russian citadel of Gomel. An early morning war report said whole boatloads of German troops attempting to escape across the Dnieper river were wiped out.

The last north-south railway available to the Germans, the Leningrad-Odessa line only 60 miles from the pre-war Polish border, was cut at Korosten late Wednesday after a two day struggle by Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's forces. These troops already had effectively split the enemy's forces in the southern and northern Ukraine by taking Zhitomir, 45 miles south of Korosten.

Rebound Near Zhitomir.

Korosten, nearly 90 miles northwest of Kiev, is a junction on lines leading westward to Warsaw and southwest to Lwow, Poland. Stalin termed it "operationally important and a large strongpoint in the German defenses."

Recovering from Wednesday's slight retreat in the Zhitomir sector, the Russians beat down heavy German counter-attacks in that area, inflicting huge losses on the Nazis.

A night attack routed the enemy from Rechitsa 25 miles west of Gomel on the railway to Warsaw. The Russians also advanced westward 25 miles on this front and captured more than 30 towns and villages.

Gomel Nearly Encircled.

The Rechitsa garrison was hurled eastward across the Dnieper river and into the lines of their own Gomel troops between the Dnieper and Sozh rivers for either a last ditch fight or a retreat northwest.

Other Russian units have virtually surrounded Gomel, the Germans' anchor of their 200 mile White Russian line running northward to Vitebsk.

Inside the Dnieper bend the Russians declared their troops improved their positions southwest of Dnepropetrovsk and killed at least 1,200 Germans.

NAZIS CLAIM GAINS.

Germany yesterday asserted that in the Zhitomir area, west of Kiev, where the Russians had admitted a withdrawal on Wednesday, "our troops advanced farther northward and regained important sections of territory."

Berlin refused to acknowledge the fall of Korosten, but said "heavy fighting with numerically superior enemy forces still continues there."

ASKS BRITAIN TO LET WORLD KNOW SHE'LL REGAIN WORLD TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A demand that the British government "should not be mealy mouthed" in telling Americans that Britain intends to regain its full share of export trade after the war was made today by Patrick Hannon, industrialist member of parliament, in an address to the National Union of Manufacturers. Hannon complained that Britain has "had pretty rough handling from certain sections of the United States press and a considerable section of American industry."

"These attacks have now been blown to smithereens by no less a person than the President of the United States himself," Hannon said. "Last week he painted a picture of increasing two way traffic with Britain, Australia, and New Zealand, all contributing toward a common pooling of reserves."

Hannon pleaded for mutually helpful coöperation between the United States and Britain, but warned, "There is clear indication American manufacturers are determined to secure the leading position in world trade and no doubt the competitive power of the United States, if exercised without recognition of the mutual obligations between the United States and the British commonwealth, will present from the British viewpoint a formidable prospect."

WARNS U. S. MUST HELP RUSSIA IN POST-WAR ERA

Russia must have outside industrial help after the war, and unless America provides it Germany undoubtedly will, Bernard Pares, British correspondent and teacher, said yesterday at the meeting of the English Speaking union in the Blackstone hotel.

Pares, whose acquaintance with Russia extends back 40 years, said Siberia now is sustaining Russia's war production.

Siberia, he said, was settled by pioneers who wanted to get away from conditions in Russia. He told of the vast, almost untouched resources of that area, including coal that crops out on the surface, immense uncharted forests, rivers 2,000 to 3,000 miles long filled with fish, and farming lands wider even than the Mississippi valley.

KAMCHATKA IS STEPPING STONE ON WAY TO JAPAN

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and a recognized authority on military matters.]

Kamchatka peninsula of eastern Siberia is a possible site for air fields for American use in the war against Japan. But as Kamchatka belongs to Russia, which is not at war with Japan, this possibility is contingent upon Russia making it available at some future date.

[Kamchatka is less than 700 miles west of Attu, westernmost island of the Aleutians, and its southern point is only 45 miles north of Paramushiro, Japan's northernmost base in the Kurile Islands.]

Kamchatka is not suitable as a main air base against the Japanese islands. It would be most valuable as a stepping stone to seizing bases farther south, which would be hard to capture unless Kamchatka is made available.

Has a Fine Harbor.

Kamchatka is a large territory with a population of perhaps 15,000. Its area slightly exceeds 100,000 square miles, which form a peninsula 800 miles long from north to south and 70 to 240 miles wide.

The local capital is Petropavlosk, on the southeast coast. This is a village, located on Avatcha bay, which is one of the finest harbors in the world. It is nearly circular, nine miles in diameter, and with excellent anchorage. The entrance is narrow and easily guarded. Before the days of aviation, this bay was ideal for a naval base, as it can be kept open in winter. Now like Pearl Harbor, a fleet caught inside would be liable to severe loss from an air raid.

Suitable Bases for Supplies.

Petropavlosk and Avatcha bay, however, would be very suitable for a base for supplies. Another possible location is at Ust Kamchatsk, at the mouth of the Kamchatka river and 240 miles north from Petropavlosk.

There is plenty of space around Petropavlosk and Ust Kamchatsk for air fields. But before construction could start, anti-aircraft protection would have to be provided.

Winters in Kamchatka are long and cold. On the east coast, rain in summer, snow in winter and fog most of the year are common. The winters at the two bases suggested do not exceed in severity the winters in Minnesota.

There are no good roads in Kamchatka. Poor roads are available in summer and trails at all seasons. Travel by dogsled when snow is on the ground is habitual.

The center of the Kamchatka peninsula is a mountain chain. It is rough, having mountains exceeding 16,000 feet in altitude.

Fog Would Work Two Ways.

The nearest Japanese base to Kamchatka is at Paramushiro, an island 45 miles off the south tip of Kamchatka and less than 200 miles from Avatcha bay. Enemy opposition to an American occupation of Kamchatka would have to be expected. The fog, however, works both ways. It might hamper our air forces, but it would also afford considerable protection during the period of construction of a large base.

As far as known, there are no fortifications of importance, and no large Russian force in Kamchatka at this time. The peninsula could be seized by whoever gets there first. The possibility that Japan might do so must be considered. That country already has good air and naval bases at Paramushiro, and is in a position to launch an attack on short notice against either the east or west coasts of Kamchatka.

As the east coast is what would be useful to America the Japanese probably would go there directly, unless they were headed off.

1,400 Miles from Tokio.

The distance from Avatcha bay to Tokio is 1,400 miles, which is far for bombing. If an air field were constructed at the extreme tip of Kamchatka, this distance would be reduced by 150 miles, which is still long. Because of frequent fogs, planes leaving on long flights might have difficulty returning.

Kamchatka would afford good bases for attacking the Japanese at Paramushiro and elsewhere in the Kurile Islands and Sakhalin. If this were done, advance bombing fields could be pushed gradually southward until they were within easy effective bombing range of the main Japanese industrial centers. Should this latter occur, flying fields on the Siberian mainland, while useful, would not be absolutely necessary.

WORKERS ASSAIL BRITISH DECISION TO FREE MOSLEY

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Mounting protests against Home Security Minister Herbert Morrison's decision to release Oswald and Diana Mosley, Fascist leaders, jailed since 1940 under the defense of Britain act came from labor organizations in Britain today.

At one tool factory 10 per cent of the workers were idle all afternoon while a delegation went to the home office to lodge a formal complaint. Other organizations, including aircraft workers and the general executive council of the Transport and General Workers union contented themselves with adopting resolutions demanding the Mosleys be kept in jail.

Called Insult to People.

The council's resolution viewed Morrison's action with "alarm and dismay" and as an "insult to the people of the fighting services." The council warned that release of the Mosleys would be "regarded by the people of this country as an indication that the government is wavering in its adherence to those principles for which we are fighting and at the same time is playing down to those traitorous elements with which Mosley has been associated."

Mosley is slated for release on medical grounds. His friends say he is seriously ill of phlebitis. He and his wife are expected to leave Holloway jail some time next week. If normal procedure is followed, they will be taken before the governor of the prison a few minutes before their release and the conditions of their freedom will be read to them.

May Be Restricted.

There is almost no limit to the conditions Morrison will be able to impose. He can order them to report at specific intervals to the police, limit their travel except by special permission, ban certain areas to them and even insist that Mosley undergo treatment in a hospital or convalescent home.

The Mosleys, it is understood, now have no home of their own. Their country house near Denham was requisitioned some time ago.

LIFELONG FRIEND OFFERS HELP IN TYLER MYSTERY

May Be Called to Testify at Formal Inquest.

asserted her first statement was correct. After the second retraction, Walter Igou, passenger agent of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, was reached by telephone in Chattanooga. He said Dr. McNealy boarded a Chicago bound train at 1:30 p. m., Nov. 10, as previously stated by friends with whom he stayed in the Tennessee city. Igou said the doctor had made reservations for a train leaving Nov. 11, but had moved up his departure to Wednesday. Igou said he made the new train arrangements.

Believe Woman Mistaken.

In view of the proof that Dr. McNealy was in Tennessee, investigators here believe Mrs. Kokes made a mistake in identification—that she saw Dr. Victor A. Lands, resident physician at Wesley Memorial hospital, and a man friend enter the apartment building.

At the inquiry Wednesday, Dr. Lands explained that he and his friend, at the request of Miss Tyler's mother, went to the apartment and got no response to their knocks. Then they called the building agent, who accompanied them when they broke thru the apartment door, and found Miss Tyler unconscious.

The state department of registration and education conducted a hearing yesterday in the department's office, 600 South Michigan avenue, to determine whether malpractice was involved in the Tyler case.

Two Questions Involved.

Frank G. Thompson, director of the department, presided over the hearing, in which attention was directed at two principal points: Falsification of the Tyler case hospital records, and whether there was any unwarranted delay in taking Miss Tyler to a hospital for treatment.

Asked why he didn't summon fire department inhalator equipment, Dr. Lands replied: "It didn't occur to me." Dr. Lands said Miss Tyler was taken "as rapidly as possible" to the Norwegian-American hospital, where no bed was available, and then to County hospital.

Dr. Lands repeated his previous account of how he instructed County hospital interns to treat the patient for gas poisoning; how he later changed the record of the case, substituting the term "cerebral vascular accident" [brain hemorrhage] for "illuminating gas poisoning." He explained again that he did this to save Miss Tyler's family from embarrassment.

Intern May Be Restored.

Dr. George M. Whitacre, who was suspended Wednesday as an intern at County hospital because he admitted he knew Dr. Lands intended to change the records, told the investigators he did not see Lands make the alterations. During the day Dr. Ole C. Nelson, medical superintendent of County hospital, said he would recommend that Whitacre be restored to duty if he can defend himself successfully at a civil service trial.

After the hearing Edward O. Holly, assistant director of the department of registration and education, said a decision will be made later as to whether the evidence submitted warranted submission of the case to a board of physicians.

Holly said such a board would be empowered to recommend revocation of Dr. Lands' license, but a final decision rests with Director Thompson.

M'LANE UPSETS RACKETS TRIAL BY BAD MEMORY

New York, Nov. 18 (AP).—A demand for a mistrial of the government case against eight men conspiring to extort more than a million dollars from the motion picture industry was denied today by Judge John Bright in federal court shortly before the trial was abruptly recessed.

The demand came from Otto Christensen, attorney for John Roselli, one of the defendants, after direct examination by Boris Kostelanetz, special assistant United States attorney, of a government witness who said he was unable to identify any defendants and who repeatedly answered questions with "I don't remember."

The witness, G. Bernard McLane of Chicago, who identified himself as a bartender and former business agent of Local 278, Bartenders' union, in Chicago, already had delayed the trial several hours when he was reported ill earlier in the day.

McLane replied he did not remember when he was asked if he ever had identified Louis Campagna and Paul De Lucia, two of the men on trial. Shown some pictures of the defendants, he replied that he recognized none of them.

DEFENSE CLOSES SANITY CASE OF HAMMER KILLER

The defense completed its testimony yesterday in the hearing before a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Rudolph Desort in which Paul Harrison is seeking his release from the Illinois Security hospital in Menard on the ground he has recovered his sanity. Harrison was sent to the institution as insane in 1932 after he was accused of the hammer slayings of three men and a woman.

Lew Wallace, director of the hospital, and his wife, Grace, testified yesterday that Harrison was a good prisoner and an unusually good workman. Wallace said he had never noted any abnormal behavior by Harrison. Dr. William H. Haines, court psychiatrist, testified that a recent examination of Harrison showed he had superior intelligence.

Dr. Charles B. Congdon, consulting psychiatrist and professor at Loyola university medical school, said that in his opinion, Harrison had permanently recovered his sanity.

$123,000 GIVEN MISS BENNETT'S SON BY ESTATE

New London, Conn., Nov. 18 [Special]. — The son whose parentage film star Constance Bennett asserts she hid for 14 years will receive $150,000 minus $27,000 counsel fees from the estate of her former husband, playboy Phil Plant, under an out-of-court settlement approved today by Superior Court Judge James Murphy.

The settlement made no mention of the point Connie claimed the principal one at issue—whether the boy is her son by her marriage to the late Phil Plant, as she contends, or if he was born to an English nurse and adopted by the film star after she divorced Plant, as the estate contends.

Estate Is $650,000.

The settlement followed conferences between attorneys for both sides and Judge Murphy on disposition of the $650,000 estate which Plant willed to his mother, Mrs. Mae Manwaring Hayward of New York.

The money was left to Plant in a trust fund by his stepfather, the late Commodore Morton Plant, millionaire transportation magnate. Phil directed in his will that it should go to his mother if he died without issue and a Probate court ruled a year ago that he had so died. Miss Bennett appealed that decision.

Conferences leading toward an out-of-court settlement began yesterday afternoon, on the second day of the trial, just before the blonde, smartly gowned movie actress was scheduled to testify.

Adopted in England.

Her attorney, Francis McGuire, had told the court that Miss Bennett had intentionally misrepresented the parentage of the boy, Peter Bennett Plant, in a deliberate plan of concealment because she didn't want him to be exposed to the "drinking and promiscuity" of his father, Phil Plant.

It was conceded that the actress adopted the child in England, shortly after his birth in 1929, and again in Los Angeles in 1932 and that she had repeatedly identified him in documents and otherwise as the son of a London nurse, but this was only part of her plans.

MOTHER IS FINED FOR NEGLECT OF HER 2 CHILDREN

Mrs. Catherine Nicpon, 26 years old, whose two children were found a week ago living in a shanty on a dump heap along the drainage canal in Summit, was fined $200 yesterday by Justice of the Peace Henry Pendl in Willow Springs court. The fine was suspended.

She was charged with contributing to the delinquency of the children, Robert, 6 years old, and Larry, 3. Mrs. Nicpon said she had placed the children in the care of another woman.

A charge of nonsupport of the children against Michael Nicpon, who is separated from his wife, was dismissed. Nicpon said he would ask Juvenile authorities for custody of the children. Nicpon resides at 3233 Michigan avenue, Indiana Harbor. The children are in the Juvenile home.

PUBLISHERS WHO BACK PAPER CUT EXCEED QUOTAS

Agree to 23% Slash Under 1941.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 [Special].—Nineteen of the 26 members of the newspaper industry advisory committee, the majority of whom consented yesterday to a new reduction of newsprint, were disclosed today to have obtained during the current year 77,865 tons of newsprint above the base quotas of the newspapers they represent.

This information was contained in the latest figures released by the printing and publishing division of the war production board.

No Justification Reported.

It has not been made known which of the 26 committee members acquiesced in the move to accept for the first three months of 1944 a newsprint cut of 23 per cent below the 1941 level. However, neither THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE nor its sister paper, the New York Daily News, was in that group.

There has been no indication from Canadian manufacturers or Canadian government officials that Canadian production of newsprint after the first of next year will warrant as serious a reduction in consumption in the United States as was recommended by the advisory committee.

List of Extra Allowances.

The 19 members of the committee who received newsprint tonnage in addition to their base quotas, the names of their papers, and the extra tonnage they received are:

O. G. Andrews, the Day, New London, Conn., 24 tons; [illegible] D. Baker, Daily News, Washington, D. C., [illegible]2 tons; Norman Chandler, the Times, Los Angeles, Cal., 3,172 tons; Robert Choate, Herald and Traveler, Boston, Mass, 998 tons; Howard Davis, Herald Tribune, New York City, 120 tons; F. M. Flynn, the News, New York City, and The Tribune, Chicago, Ill., 5,204 tons; J. S. Gray, Evening News, Monroe, Mich., 50 tons.

Bert N. Honea, Star-Telegram, Fort Worth, Tex., 1,025 tons; James L. Knight, Knight newspapers, 1,428 tons; Charles Manship, Times and Advocate, Baton Rouge, La., 82 tons; Eugene Meyer, the Post, Washington, D. C., 1,877 tons; Fleming Newbold, Evening Star, Washington, D. C., 2,097 tons; John W. Potter, the Argus, Rock Island, Ill., 35 tons.

Richard Slocum, the Bulletin, Philadelphia, Pa., 20,605 tons; Charles A. Stauffer, Stauffer publications, 491 tons; S. E. Thomason, the Times, Chicago, Ill., 276 tons; Frank E. Tripp, Gannett newspapers, 91 tons; T. J. White, Hearst newspapers, 39,088 tons; S. R. Winch, the Journal, Portland, Ore., 480 tons.

The figure of 77,865 tons is approximately 39 per cent of all tonnage allowed all newspapers in the United States above their base quota.

Bakers Pledge Donation of Blood for Red Cross

The nation's bakers soon will be geared to play a large part in increasing the number of blood donations to the American Red Cross blood donor service, it was announced yesterday by Andrew Fasseas, director of the Baker's club of Chicago. He reported that representatives of the organization, the board of governors of which met this week in the Morrison hotel, will return to their local clubs to stimulate donations among members.

DUFFY DEFENDS SHERIFF'S POLICE AS A NECESSITY

Ald. John J. Duffy [19th], who recently was acting sheriff for two weeks during the illness of the late Peter B. Carey, told the Central Lions club yesterday that the county could not get along without a sheriff's police force. Speaking at a luncheon in the Sherman hotel, he said:

"It would be impossible for any sheriff to do the job required under the law without the aid of a county highway police department."

According to Ald. Duffy, the sheriff must police 720 square miles, outside the city of Chicago, and give aid to many small towns and villages which have no adequate police force. He said he spoke in answer to demands of civic organizations that the county highway police department be abolished.

UNRRA DONORS MAY KEEP CASH UNDER NEW PLAN

Would Spend to Purchase Supplies, Materials.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 18 (AP).—A financial plan near adoption by the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration conference provides that donating countries can spend much of their contributions within their own borders to aid business and employment, an UNRRA spokesman said tonight.

Known informally as "the American plan," it provides that each nation contribute a fee equal to one per cent of its national income, but only 10 per cent of the fee would necessarily be payable in gold or currency.

The contributing nation would have the alternative, he said, of paying any part of the remainder in cash or making up the difference thru the purchase of raw materials, supplies and services for the relief of countries liberated from axis rule.

Effect on the United States.

In the case of the United States, which is scheduled to contribute $1,500,000,000 to the $2,500,000,000 UNRRA fund, that would mean this country would pay at least $150,000,000 in cash and that $1,485,000,000 would be used for purchases.

Whether the United States would spend that much for purchases here would depend, however, he said, on sufficient materials and supplies being available without limiting home consumption cash over the 10 per cent for the purchase of such items in countries where they were not limited.

Some Might Keep All.

He said that some nations, such as Australia or Brazil, might conceivably find that none of their expenditures actually left home, or, indeed, that they might receive more in foreign exchange than the sum of their contributions.

Delegates today studied the possibility of helping stricken countries to help themselves by providing machinery to restore their industries.

A Russian delegation of nine experts and several clerks arrived here tonight after being en route 12 days by air from Moscow. The party reported it had been delayed in four ports by weather. The Russians have been represented in the meantime by Ambassador Andrei Gromyko.

REPORT TURKEY SUPPLY ABOUT 50% OF NORMAL

Turkeys will be scarce in Chicago this Thanksgiving, about half the normal supply for the holiday, it was reported yesterday.

"Local supplies of turkeys are critically short," the daily market report of the war food administration, said. "Dealers do not expect more than a 50 per cent supply for Thanksgiving due to a number of factors involving late hatch, dressing handicaps, sale in other channels at higher than permitted prices and the commitments made to the army. Very few cars and trucks of dressed stock have appeared and these are being rationed to regular buyers."

Out of an estimated 480 million pounds total supply, 35 million pounds of early maturing birds have been taken for the military forces both overseas and in this country.

Charges that retailers were charging up to 18 cents a pound above the ceiling prices are being investigated by the OPA, Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago area director, said.

OPA SETS DATES FOR USING FIVE BROWN STAMPS

The office of price administration yesterday announced the dates on which five additional brown stamps on ration book 3 will become valid for meats, fats, oils, and dairy products, as follows: Q, Dec. 19; R, Dec. 26; S, Jan. 2; T, Jan. 9, and U, Jan. 16. All will expire Jan. 29.

The OPA said charitable organizations donating Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets to the needy will not be required to send ration stamps to the retailer. "The store that delivers the basket of rationed foods will collect the points at the time of delivery," it was announced. Groups which distribute their own baskets may obtain points from a ration board to pay the retailer, then collect others to replace them on delivery of the baskets.

Reunion in Elgin

Mrs. Paul Krepel (left) and Mrs. Cora M. Cox.

Because she refused to take the word of other relatives that her sister, whom she had not seen in 50 years, was dead, Mrs. Paul Krepel of 254 North Crystal avenue, Elgin, is enjoying a visit of that sister and talking over the many changes that a half century has brought.

The sister is Mrs. Cora M. Cox of Portland, Ore. The two were born in Macoupin county, in the early '90s, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Wyzard. When the family broke up the children, infants at the time, were placed in the homes of different relatives. Carrie, the one who was to become Mrs. Krepel, remained in Illinois. Mrs. Cox was taken south.

They lost track of each other. Then, a few years ago, Mrs. Krepel started writing to relatives in an effort to locate her sister. Her search was vain until last Christmas. Then Mrs. Cox sent a card to an uncle in Kansas.

The uncle knew that Mrs. Krepel had been searching for her sister and he put the two in touch with each other. A letter from Cora to Carrie starting "Hi, Sis!" broke the 50 year silence.

NAZI EVACUEES PERIL NORWAY'S FOOD SUPPLIES

Britain's Blockade Hit by Spokesman.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Norway's food shortage has been heightened by the influx of German civilians from bombed cities in the Reich and aid is needed this winter to prevent starvation among Norwegian children, Svere Norburg, University of Minnesota professor and representative of the Norwegian War Relief society, told the senate foreign relations committee today.

"In the city of Oslo alone there are 100,000 fat German women and children eating up the country's meager food reserves," Norburg said. He was testifying in favor of a senate resolution which would urge the state department to support plans for sending food thru the blockade to German occupied nations.

No Reason for Blockade.

"Great Britain may have had good reason to maintain an ironclad blockade two years ago, but in this winter of 1943 and '44 I can see no valid reason for withholding food from civilians in enemy-occupied territory," Norburg said. "England will need the friendship of the Norwegian people after the war and a technical lifting of the blockade now would earn the gratitude of all Norwegians."

Norburg repeated the prediction made before the committee two weeks ago by former President Herbert Hoover that the coming winter would be the last winter of the war in Europe. "Norwegians expect this to be the last winter of occupation, but that does not lessen the need for food," he said.

Aid Starving Greeks.

At today's hearing the foreign relations committee also heard Spyros P. Skouras, president of the Greek War Relief society, and Maj. William W. Hoffman, secretary of the Belgian War Relief society, both of New York.

Skouras told the committee that food now going into Greece or Swedish ships and being distributed by a commission composed of Swedes and Swiss has saved the Greek people from extinction, but urged that the plan be enlarged to prevent further suffering. Food now going into Greece provides only one fifth of the country's needs, he said.

Two representatives of railroad brotherhoods, Jonas A. McBride, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and John T. Corbett, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, told the committee that any plan for feeding starving civilians in Europe had the support of their organizations.

PRESS WIRELESS READY TO TAKE ON MESSAGE JOB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Press Wireless, Inc., which is seeking to extend its service to the war zones, has the personnel and equipment to handle commercial traffic as well as press and government business, Joseph Pierson, president and general manager of the organization, told the federal communications commission today.

Pierson and D. K. de Neuf, vice president in charge of traffic of Press Wireless, testified in support of the organization's application for permission to conduct commercial business in the war zones. The joint chiefs of staff have ruled that communications companies in the war zones must be prepared to handle all types of traffic.

Reduced Nazi Propaganda.

At today's hearing, Press Wireless officials told the FCC that wherever the company had stations before the war, it had been able to increase the spread of American news and to provide American newspapers with unfettered service. They referred particularly to the far east and South America where, the FCC was told, Press Wireless was able to reduce the effectiveness of German and other foreign propaganda agencies in the transmission of news.

The FCC has consistently denied Press Wireless applications for the right to extend its services to the war zones, Pierson explained after the hearing. In December, 1942, Press Wireless applied for permission to transmit from Algiers and was refused by the FCC. Shortly afterward the Mackay Radio company was given a permit without a hearing.

RCA Gets in at Tunis.

Similarly, Pierson said, the Radio Corporation of America was granted a license to transmit from Tunis. Shortly afterward, with the conquest of Tunisia and the extension of the war to Italy, Tunis ceased to be a news center. Pierson said it was reported RCA will be granted the right to transmit from Italy and will move its equipment there.

At a hearing here Nov. 1, when Press Wireless' application to operate in North Africa was heard, James M. Fly, FCC chairman, raised the question of a proposed merger of communications companies as an objection to the Press Wireless application. Later he said that Mackay and RCA had been granted North African licenses because they handled commercial as well as press and government traffic. As a consequence, Press Wireless filed its present application to handle commercial traffic.

Expect Little of It.

Pierson told THE TRIBUNE that little commercial traffic was anticipated. Studies of the business between Algiers and New York recently showed that 85 per cent of the traffic was press, 14 per cent government, and 1 per cent commercial, he said.

American war correspondents in the Mediterranean war theater have been hampered by the lack of communications between that war zone and the United States, Press Wireless officials contend, while the British have had ample facilities for news transmission to London.

Maj. Gen. Alexander D. Surles told THE TRIBUNE today that he has asked Gen. Eisenhower, commander of the Mediterranean theater, for a report on the need for additional press transmission facilities there.

MAYWOOD TANK MAN AVENGES BATAAN HEROES

How Captain Led Final Assault on Munda.

BY STAFF SGT. W. S. FRANK.
[Marine Corps Combat Correspondent.]

NEW GEORGIA ISLAND—[Delayed]—(AP).—The heroic 192d tank battalion from Maywood, Ill., all of whose members were killed or taken prisoner by the Japs in the hopeless stand on Bataan, was partially avenged when a marine tank captain from Maywood led the final American tank assault upon Munda airfield.

Capt. Irving Carlson.

Tanks led by Capt. Irving P. Carlson, 26 years old, of 1009 South Fourth avenue, Maywood, overran the last Jap positions and covered the advance of army infantrymen who stormed the Jap lines and captured the strategic Jap base on Aug. 6.

Capt. Robert W. Blake, 26 years old, of Canton, Ohio, who also participated in the marine tank assault, gave this picture of the action which crushed Jap resistance:

"Followed by soldiers, the tanks reached Munda airfield in a column, and with 37 millimeter cannon and light machine gun blasted the eastern slope of much-bombed Kokengolo hill.

Clean Up Munda Point.

"As the infantry advanced up Kokengolo to take that side, we drove around to the west side and repeated the operation.

"Meeting only light and scattered resistance, we roared around in back of Kokengolo and blasted positions and pillboxes in a wooded area for about 200 yards toward Gurasi Point."

He said that, in the final phase of the attack, he and Capt. Carlson "completed the conquest of the airfield by cleaning up Munda Point."

Shortly afterward, tired, mud bespattered infantrymen swarmed over the entire Munda air strip to top the victorious struggle against the strongly entrenched Jap garrison.

ILLINOIS GRADUATE.

Capt. Carlson attended Proviso High school and graduated from the University of Illinois. He enlisted in the marine corps two years ago.

He now is in a hospital at Oakland, Cal., recuperating from a hand wound. His wife, Jeanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Powers of Maywood, is with him. Carlson, who was flown to the United States for treatment, expects to go to Maywood for Christmas.

The Maywood tankmen who fought on Bataan were members of an Illinois National Guard unit which, with other units from Ohio and Janesville, Wis., was incorporated into the army as the 192d battalion. Relatives of the valiant Maywood tank soldiers have organized a Bataan clan which keeps the memory of the boys alive and is dedicated to the liberation of those who are in the hands of the Japs.

BATAAN SOLDIER RETURNS AFTER 4,000 MILE TREK

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 18 (AP).—"It was a long way home," sighs Capt. Samuel C. Grashio, 25 years old, of Spokane, one of the first members of the United States forces to escape from a Jap prison camp.

"Every one plans escapes from such camps," he related. "There isn't much else to hope for." But it took him many weeks to reach an air force headquarters, "and it seemed a hell of a lot longer."

Then a 2d lieutenant, Grashio was captured in the fall of Bataan in the Philippines April 9, 1942. He's still minus 15 of the pounds he lost in various Philippine prison camps, he told interviewers.

He won't tell how he got away, or the route—of nearly 4,000 miles—that he traveled by foot, water, and air to rejoin allied forces. "To do so would jeopardize every one else," he added.

Grashio holds five Presidential unit citations and two silver stars for action in the Philippines before his capture.

Writ by Judge Sullivan Forces Firm to Obey OPA

Judge Philip L. Sullivan in federal District court yesterday issued a preliminary injunction requiring the Charles Abbate company, commission merchants at 4 South Water market, to comply with OPA regulations. The company was accused of requiring customers to purchase lemons along with each purchase of oranges. This was denied by Charles Abbate, owner, who said he knew nothing of such activities by his employes.

GUARD FOREMAN OF GRAND JURY IN BROOKLYN QUIZ

Knife Is Sent to Him Thru the Mail.

New York, Nov. 18 [Special].—Leon Alexander, foreman of the Kings county August grand jury which last Monday handed up a presentment charging widespread crime and hoodlumism in the "Little Harlem" section of Brooklyn, was placed under 24 hour police guard today. The guard was ordered after Alexander had received a number of threatening letters and a knife thru the mail.

The grand jury blamed Mayor Fiorella La Guardia for conditions in the area.

Alexander an insurance broker, placed the details of the threats against him before County Judge Louis Goldstein, who swore in the August grand jury, Edward A. Heffernan, assistant district attorney of Kings county, and Acting Capt. Howard C. O'Leary, in command of the 12th detective district.

Capt. O'Leary immediately assigned a detective as Alexander's bodyguard.

Tells of Encounter.

Alexander also told authorities of an encounter he had with a stranger near his home Wednesday evening. He said the man introduced himself as a reporter, but when the jury foreman asked the other man for his credentials he was unable to produce any. Alexander said he told the man he was going to call the police, whereupon the man ran off, shouting as he did so:

"Don't worry. We'll get you yet."

The police ended their survey of the Brooklyn section today. Mayor La Guardia said the investigation had "served its purpose."

Brooklyn civic leaders have charged that La Guardia sent the huge extra detail of policemen into the area, not to correct the conditions which the grand jury cited, but to "whitewash" the mayor and his police commissioner, Lewis J. Valentine.

Statement by Police.

Valentine said he hoped to have the policemen's report ready for the mayor Saturday.

The Rev. Raymond J. Campion, pastor of St. Peter Claver's Roman Catholic church, which has a large proportion of Negro parishioners, said he approved the work of the grand jury but deplored the conclusion he said the public was likely to draw from it, that the Negro residents of the area were responsible for conditions.

"Colored people are just as much the victims of the lawless activities of hoodlums as white people," he said. "They resent and fear the depradations of the lawless elements."

CITRUS FRUITS CUT 10 TO 15 PCT. IN NEW OPA PRICE ROLLBACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Consumers will pay an average of 9½ cents a pound for oranges, 8 cents a pound for grapefruit, and 13½ cents a pound for lemons, Chester Bowles, price administrator, said late today in announcing the rollback of this winter's citrus crop prices. He said prices will be 10 to 15 per cent less than in the 1942-'43 season.

Citrus fruit price ceilings in individual communities will be computed on the basis of marketing areas by district price executives of the OPA.

"The citrus ceilings are another step in our program to push the cost of living back to levels of September, 1942," Bowles said. "These ceilings will assure a fair return to the grower and the distributor and at the same time will keep prices below the levels reached last year." OPA already has issued price ceilings for 13 fresh vegetables and for apples.

NEGRO MEETING TO ASK REFORMS IN ARMY, NAVY

The first of a series of mass meetings designed to obtain public support for a movement to improve the status of the Negro in the army and navy will be held in the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Park way, at 3 o'clock next Sunday under the auspices of the National Negro council. Edgar G. Brown, director of the council, and Sen. William Langer [R., N. D.] will speak.

The aims of the council are army-navy reforms which will permit Negroes to serve in combat units in the battle zones, to obtain commissions in the navy, and—in the case of women—to be accepted by the WAVES. The council also is fighting the Lucas-Green soldier vote bill now before the senate, charging it would permit the disfranchising of Negro soldiers from the southern poll tax states.

Brown praised THE TRIBUNE for "the contribution it made to interracial harmony by helping keep the Colman case in the limelight until more severe action was taken." Col. William T. Colman, commanding officer of the army air base at Selfridge field, Mich., was reduced to the rank of captain after he had been convicted of shooting a Negro soldier. Later the army announced that he would be retired.

AFL CEMETERY UNION REPORTS WLB UPHELD IT

The national war labor board yesterday was reported to have upheld the Cemetery Workers' union, local 106, as the bargaining agent for the employes of five local cemeteries operated by the Catholic Cemeteries, whose offices at 109 North Dearborn street have been picketed for several days by a rival CIO union. Miles Barry, business agent for the AFL group, said he had received notice of the action.

PARENTS LEARN GERMANS HOLD CHICAGO FLYER

Sgt. Tedd Mayer, tail gunner on a B-17 bomber, based in England, is a prisoner in a German camp, after the shooting down of his plane over Germany, his parents have been informed. He had been reported missing in action Oct. 13.

Recently his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore K. Mayer, 7614 Colfax avenue, received two assurances on the same day that he was safe as a German prisoner. One came from the adjutant general's office and the other from a short wave radio fan named Sanford Lowe of New York City, who said the German radio announced Tedd's capture. Lowe added that the penny post card notice was the 2,915th he had forwarded to families of fighters this year on the basis of Tokio and Berlin broadcasts.

In his last letter, dated Sept. 30, Tedd had told his parents not to worry if he should be reported missing in action.

Sgt. Mayer was graduated from St. Bride's school and De La Salle High school. He formerly worked in the freight department of the Illinois Central railroad. He is 20 years old.

G.O.P. TO FIGHT STALKING HORSE RUSE BY WILLKIE

Signs Point to Race by Dirksen in Illinois.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Anti-Willkie forces of Gov. Dwight H. Green and other Republican state officials were preparing yesterday to resist any attempt to capture the Illinois national delegates thru the use of a stalking horse candidate in the Presidential preferential primary April 11.

Indications were growing that Rep. Everett Dirksen of Pekin will run in the preferential race for President, altho in Washington he remained silent as to his decision. Whereas Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio in entering the Ohio Presidential primary will not run for reelection, Dirksen will be a candidate for congress again, and for delegate as well.

Publishers Call Meeting.

Dirksen said he expects to be in Chicago tomorrow to attend a meeting of downstate newspaper publishers. He said he did not understand the purpose. Some observers believed the purpose is to encourage his entering the Presidential primary. About 20 publishers have been invited.

F. F. McNaughton, publisher of the Pekin Times, said that what the meeting is about "is a little uncertain." The Peoria Star and Transcript of Dirksen's district are cooperating in giving the party and taking guests to a football game.

If Dirksen gets into the Illinois Presidential race, it will be incumbent upon anti-Willkie forces to run some recognized foe of the "campaign oratory" aspirant against him. Only thus do G. O. P. leaders believe they could be sure of carrying out the plan of achieving an uninstructed delegation pledged to unity and against Wendell Willkie.

Dirksen's own position is not clear, altho he told a reporter last week that he is interested only in Everett Dirksen. He said he would probably talk to Gov. Green before making up his mind but hasn't yet done so.

Praised by Willkie Backer.

Political observers have not forgotten the favorable article about Dirksen in Fortune magazine, one of the publications of Henry Luce, the No. 1 Willkie promoter in the magazine field. They wonder about the significance.

Also recalled is the appearance before the Illinois Chamber of Commerce annual banquet recently of two leading internationalists, Sen. Carl Hatch [D., N. M.] and Sen. Joseph Ball [R., Minn.], a Willkieite. An official said that Dirksen had arranged for the services of Hatch and Ball, altho Dirksen later said he suggested only the general type of program. While they were pitching internationalist propaganda at the audience of 1,000 business men, Dirksen said nothing for or against their views.

Warren Explains Aims.

Gov. Earl Warren of California, here to attend a governors' conference, said yesterday he is considering becoming a candidate for President simply to provide leadership for the state's delegation to the convention.

"I have told our people that while I'm unequivocally not a candidate for any other office, I would consider doing whatever the facts warrant at the proper time to head up our national delegates," Gov. Warren said.

"Like many other governors, I feel that I should take a position of leadership for the delegation."

The governor spent several hours in a vain search for an air rifle to take home to his 8 year old son.

S. E. THOMASON'S CONDITION GOOD, SAY PHYSICIANS

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 18 (AP).—Alleghany hospital physicians reported Samuel Emory Thomason, 60 years old, president and publisher of the Chicago Times and the Tampa [Fla.] Tribune, to be in "very good" condition following his removal from a Baltimore and Ohio railroad train today.

The physicians said Thomason, an attorney, had suffered a heart attack. In Chicago Dr. Robert A. Black, the publisher's family physician, amplified this diagnosis by reporting Thomason has suffered a slight cardiac upset due to acute indigestion.

The publisher was bound west from a meeting of the newspaper industry advisory committee of the WLB printing and publishing division in Washington when he was stricken. Thomason is a member of the committee. Dr. Black reported that he expected Thomason "home within a week or so."

THE QUESTION.

What embarrassing mistakes have you made at school?

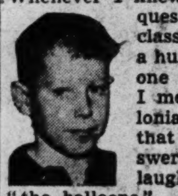
WHERE ASKED.

La Salle Grade school, 343 Eugenie street.

THE ANSWERS.

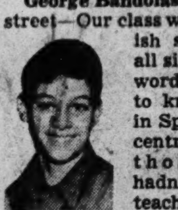
Joseph Ippolito, 1358 North Park avenue—One of the boys, whose job it was to ring the bells for class dismissal, asked me to ring the bell for him. I thought I knew how, but by the time I had finished I had called the engineer and janitor to the principal's office and had rung the fire alarm.

Etola Jenkins, 1802 Lincoln Park West—One afternoon the teacher said we were going to have a special guest. It was her son, home on furlough in his new uniform. We were supposed to rest our heads on our folded arms at our desks until he came. I fell asleep and didn't get to welcome him.



Jack Tripas, 1741 Orleans street—Whenever I knew an answer to a question in our history class I was always in a hurry to be the first one to raise my hand. I meant to say Babylonians because I knew that was the right answer, but everybody laughed when I said, "the balloons."

Sam Tarwardy, 301 North avenue—The principal told me to tell the second grade to go into the basement for air raid drill. Instead I told the first grade to go down. That teacher hadn't given any drills and took them to the wrong room. The first grade was reported missing for a period.



George Bandolas, 1762 North Clark street—Our class was singing a Spanish song. They were all singing the English words but I happened to know a little of it in Spanish. I was concentrating so hard on those few words I hadn't noticed that the teacher had asked us to stop singing. I was singing my Spanish solo in a lusty voice.

Samuel Priola, 1901 Howe street—It was considered a special honor to do favors for the teacher and I was anxious to show her how efficient I was. She told me to put the colored chalk around the board. I thought she had told me to erase the board and before she could stop me I had erased a big chart that she had worked on for a long time.

MAYOR CONFERS WITH UPHAM ON BUDGET FOR 1944

Mayor Kelly and Robert B. Upham, city controler, conferred for an hour and a half yesterday in Upham's office on the 1944 budget and ways and means of raising sufficient revenue to meet it.

Under state law estimates of what the various departments will need for the next year must be filed before Dec. 1, and Upham said that he expected to have the complete list of estimates and the recommendations of himself and the mayor some time next week.

Earlier this month Upham told the city council subcommittee on revenues it would be necessary to raise an additional $2,000,000 in miscellaneous taxes to offset the drop in revenue from such sources as tavern licenses and motor vehicle tags. Possible sources of new revenue suggested include a 3 per cent tax on theater tickets, licenses for currency exchanges, and a $50 tax on juke boxes.

Bricker to Enter State Primaries for President

Columbus, O., Nov. 18 (AP).—Gov. John W. Bricker said today he will enter primaries in states other than Ohio seeking delegates in his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination. Addressing a meeting of the state Republican central and executive committees, which indorsed him for President, the governor did not name any additional states but said his campaign would be waged "vigorously thruout the country."

ANTI-NEW DEAL FEELING GROWS IN IOWA'S 7TH

Trend to Warren and Dewey Found.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Council Bluffs, Ia., Nov. 18.—The southwest corner of Iowa, embracing the 7th congressional district with its 14 counties, is rated one of the most rampant anti-New Deal sections of the state. Observers who have toured county seat towns report that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is showing a growth in sentiment since the Nov. 2 election in New York. Talk in the farming sections is reported to have a Dewey and Gov. Earl Warren of California trend.

Gov. Earl Warren.

Politicians in the region dwell upon a survey of Iowa farm voters which showed them favoring a Republican ticket of Dewey and Gen. MacArthur over one of Willkie and Bricker. The poll was made three months ago by Wallace's Farmer and Iowa Homestead, a Des Moines publication, and observers here say the trend today is even more pronounced in this area.

Wallace Editor on Leave.

Vice President Henry Wallace was editor of this farm paper, which now lists him as on leave of absence. The magazine reported its cross-section canvass showed 56 per cent of Iowa's farmers in August were for Dewey and MacArthur, and 44 per cent were for President Roosevelt and Wallace.

The poll indicated that if Willkie were Republican nominee for President and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio were the nominee for Vice President, Roosevelt and Wallace would land 55 per cent of the vote.

In prevailing opinion here Dewey's stock has been rising and Willkie's declining since the elections this month. But few politicians are making commitments as yet. They say it is too early for crystalization, and are waiting for the various candidates to show what they have on the ball.

A controversy over post-war tariffs and a suggestion that in a global Utopia some American industries might be liquidated to make way for imported products is evoking interest in the state. The exchange of views is between C. E. Whitehead of Perry, Dallas county, editor of the Chief of that city, and Gardner Cowles Jr., who is rated a Willkie man in Iowa.

Mr. Cowles, who went with Willkie on his world trip, made a speech at Chariton last month on post-war production, expansion of American trade, tariff reductions, and other such matters. One paragraph in the report of the speech by the Chariton Herald-Patriot, without using direct quotes, said: "Cowles said some sacrifices must be made in the interests of maximum world trade and lasting peace. No nation can export unless it also imports the goods of others, and that means some changes in our economy."

Editor Follows It Up.

Editor Whitehead, who is incoming president of the Iowa Press association, a member of the legislature, and was a delegate to the 1932 Republican national convention, made this utterance by Cowles the subject of an editorial:

"If our government were to adopt that kind of thought, just where would we go from there?" he asked. "If Australia could make woolen goods cheaper than we, then we would stop making them, and the United States government would go in the wholesale woolen goods business, and if India could produce cotton cheaper than we, then we would stop raising cotton, and the same for Argentine beef.

"In fact, carried to the final conclusion, there are few commodities or few products that could not be found some place in the world at a cheaper price than they are produced here. The government under such a plan would become our greatest wholesale dealer. Our own standard of living would soon be reduced to that of the lowest 'have not' nation under such a policy. In our opinion this is not good American thinking."

The meeting will open with a luncheon at the Chicago Illini Union building, 715 South Wood street, followed by a tour of the institutions. Lohr, president, Chicago Museum of Science and Industry.

BETTY'S TEASE BURNS WIFE WHO BURNS HER LEG

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18 [Special]. — Betty Rowland, red haired "Ball of Fire" who makes a burlesque runway dance with joy, looked today as she usually does at the boys in the front row as she told Deputy District Atty. P. V. Clibborn: "Honest, Mr. District Attorney, it hurt so!"

Her dress was pulled just high enough—and just low enough—to display a patch of adhesive tape on her thigh. Beneath the tape [and Clibborn took her word for this] was the red scar of a cigaret burn.

Miss Rowland told Clibborn the horrible details of how one Mrs. Sol Freemond assertedly poked a lighted cigaret at her last night as the stripteuse was doing her stuff at a Hollywood night spot.

"I patted her husband on the head just before I did my final bump, and she didn't like it," said Betty as she asked for an assault complaint against the piqued patron.

U. S. SPURS DRIVE TO END LIQUOR BLACK MARKET

'False Shortage' Blamed on Price Violations.

A nation-wide investigation of the black market in liquor was ordered yesterday by the United States internal revenue bureau. E. C. Yellowley, district supervisor of the alcohol tax unit for the 9th district, announced he would assign 250 agents and inspectors to the field in his area comprising Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin to "clean up this mess."

E. C. Yellowley.

Stewart Berkshire, deputy commissioner of internal revenue, in charge of the unit, will arrive in Chicago today from Detroit to direct the investigation. The tax unit will coöperate with the office of price administration and wherever violations of ceiling prices are uncovered the OPA will conduct the prosecution, Yellowley said.

Says "Shortage" Is False.

A false liquor shortage has been made to appear when no such shortage exists, Yellowley asserted.

"We shall check every wholesale and retail liquor house in the district and find out the cause of this so-called shortage," he said. "There is plenty of liquor in the bonded warehouses and there is no reason for a shortage."

Yellowley said there are 420,000,000 gallons of bonded whisky in warehouses thruout the United States. In this district there are 144,000,000 gallons of liquor in bond. Normal consumption for the country had been 40,000,000 gallons annually, Yellowley said, but the present rate is 90,000,000 gallons.

Yellowley said he believed the black market had created the false shortage, which has enabled wholesalers to boost their markup and, by acquiring retail outlets, to obtain the retail profit, also.

Seize Liquor at Toledo.

Seventy-six cases of liquor in sealed boxes, bearing the name of Al's Liquor Stores, 4422 and 5930 Madison street, were seized by police in Toledo, O., yesterday and a warrant was issued for Harley Moriarity, of Toledo, a truck driver, charging illegal possession of liquor.

Louis Rosenberg, who with Abe Turchen, owns the chain of Al's Liquor Stores, said he was unable to explain the use of his firm's name with the liquor seized in Toledo. His stores are permitted to sell at retail only, and not to exceed one case at a time, Rosenberg said.

"More bungling" by the government has caused a liquor shortage, Charles E. Cross, director of sales for a Cleveland, O., importing house, charged in Chicago. He blamed a WPB restriction limiting the use of containers to 65 per cent of the number in use in 1942.

JUDGE HOLLY ENDS 10TH YEAR ON U. S. BENCH

Judge William H. Holly of the United States District court will complete his 10th year on the federal bench tomorrow, making him eligible for retirement on a pension.

Altho the jurist has indicated he will retire soon, he has refused to announce publicly the date. The Chicago chapter of the National Lawyers' guild and a citizens committee will honor him at a testimonial dinner in the Grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman Dec. 11.

Judge Holly, who is 74 years old, was appointed to the bench by President Roosevelt Nov. 20, 1933.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department answers questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries to Sally Joy Brown.]

Mrs. A. L. writes: "I have just received my husband's A. P. O. number and wonder if I can mail him any Christmas presents. Surely some provision will be made for the men who were sent overseas after Oct. 15."

ANSWER: Christmas packages for soldiers who were sent overseas after the regular mailing period for such gifts will be accepted by the postoffice up to Dec. 10. The sender must provide proof of the change of address by presenting the official notification from the war department or a letter from the soldier concerning his new A. P. O. number.

Mrs. M. T. inquires: "I am a widow with two sons in the service. I get an allotment from both of them. After paying rent, gas, life insurance, etc., it is difficult to live on it. A week ago, I went to work and have now received a notice that my allotment will be cut off if I continue working."

ANSWER: Much confusion is caused by the misuse of the words "allotment" and "family allowance." A family allowance is made up of a contribution from the service men and one from the government. An allotment is paid entirely out of the service man's own salary. If you are receiving a family allowance, you must be prepared to prove at least partial dependency, or you are not eligible for such help. If you are receiving class "E" voluntary allotments, paid entirely out of your sons' salaries, there is no reason why you may not work and continue to receive them, since the men have the right to allot their pay to relatives.

Mrs. D. A. writes: "My husband is a second class petty officer in the navy, and I understand that we are now entitled to the family allowance according to recent changes in the law. Since we have four minor children, it will be of great help to us. I would like to know if either my husband or I should apply for this, or is the change made automatically?

ANSWER: It is always preferable for the service men to make applications for family allowances. Your husband will undoubtedly be given information and an opportunity to file his request. However, if that is not possible, contact the Navy Relief society, Great Lakes, Ill., and you will be advised as to navy department procedure.

Mrs. B. K. writes: "Please tell me when Christmas greetings should be sent to an army man serving in Italy."

ANSWER: A recent release from the war department stated that Christmas cards for men overseas must be sent in a sealed envelope and prepaid at first class rate, and that cards mailed now will reach the most remote A. P. O.'s by Dec. 25.

Mrs. B. K. writes: "My husband is a private who is now serving somewhere overseas. Both my two small babies and I need medical attention, and I have been told that such care is given free to a service man's family. Can you please tell me where to write or apply for this, and may I select my own physician?"

ANSWER: Free maternity and pediatric care is provided for the wives of service men. Pediatric care is limited to infants under 1 year of age. If you are in need of medical attention which is not maternity care, I would suggest that you contact the Army Emergency Relief society, Room 1109, 20 North Wacker drive. That agency can advise you as to the assistance available.

TREASURY BACKS MOVE TO START LIQUOR FLOWING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 (AP).—Congressional efforts to do something about the retail liquor shortage won the approval of the treasury today and the justice department disclosed it already is pushing an investigation to see whether the scarcity is genuine.

While Sen. James G. Scrugham [D., Nev.], author of the resolution for the senate inquiry which is to begin next week, estimated there are more than 1 billion 600 million quarts of liquor stored in bonded warehouses, there were these other developments:

[1] Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, told of the plan of Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.] to cut the length of time liquor may be held untaxed in bond, said: "Sen. George has a good idea and I'm for it." Morgenthau predicted that this plan to cut the nontaxable period from eight to four years would turn enough liquor into retail stores to end the shortage over night and wipe out "the black market in liquor" just as promptly.

Probe Price Fixing.

[2] Wendell Berge, in charge of the justice department's anti-trust committee, disclosed that his office already has assigned special men to find out whether liquor concerns have been fixing prices and withholding supplies in order to create an artificial shortage and thus increase prices.

Owsley Brown, president of the Distilled Spirits institute, has said: "We are hopeful that the real truth about the dwindling whisky stocks now in government bonded warehouses will be revealed by the senate inquiry and that confusing impressions may be eradicated."

Thus all hands agreed there is a shortage; the difference of opinion is on whether it is a real one, due to the conversion of distilleries to the manufacture of industrial alcohol for war, or whether it has been artificially created for the purpose of profit.

Sees "Fertile Field."

Berge told newsmen that the justice department inquiry so far indicates that it has "a fertile field." He expressed "full sympathy" for the senate investigation and said his staff would follow it for any evidence of monopoly or restraint of trade.

Berge listed these particular angles:

Whether there has been a deliberate monopolization of existing supplies, distilling facilities, imports or channels of distribution; and any price fixing activities such as withholding of supplies, use of new brand names to evade price ceilings and reduction of alcoholic content in consumer offerings.

"We want to know all the facts about the industry," he said.

KILLS HIMSELF WITH RIFLE.

Joseph De Guida, 55 years old, 1147 Taylor street, committed suicide in his home yesterday, according to Maxwell street police. He shot himself in the head with an old German rifle which police say he propped between his legs and fired by pushing the trigger with a sword.

PTA DEMANDS THEATERS STOP PETTING PARTIES

Portland, Ore., Nov. 18 (AP).—Teen age youths are doing too much kissing in theaters, complains the Parent-Teacher association, which wants it stopped.

If managers can't exercise stricter supervision, the association announced, the women will be glad to police the theaters themselves.

One manager observed that the campaign is 40 years too late. "sparking, petting, or necking—whatever you call it—has been going on all that time. I'll give a season pass to any PTA woman who can truthfully say she's never been kissed in a theater."

It's your duty to keep fit

Even as a child GEORGE WASHINGTON CARVER loved nature, had a magic way with growing things. Today all America honors the memory of this great agriculturist and scientist, beloved teacher, and benefactor of his fellow men

BORN A SLAVE... BOOKS unchained his amazing GENIUS!

BORN in slavery... orphaned as a baby . . . once, it is said, traded for a horse... few men in this world have started lower on the ladder to fame.

But George Washington Carver had two passions that won him, at last, a place with Edison, with Morse and Bell and Burbank, among America's greatest men of Science... He loved nature—and he loved books.

Even as a frail, dark-skinned boy, "Little George" hungered to learn more about the plants and flowers that grew in the fields. And he knew that reading alone could tell him the secrets he longed to share.

So, slowly, painfully, he taught himself to read. He devoured every stray book that fell into his hands—often propping them up above the washtub while he scrubbed clothes to earn money for more books.

He sandwiched in a bit of schooling when and where he could. Went to college. Never stopped reading and studying, never ceased learning. And so his genius flowered into greatness.

As a beloved teacher he brought the light of learning to many; as an agriculturist he pioneered developments that helped free the South from the shackles of the cotton system . . . that will affect profoundly the happiness and security of countless fellow men.

THE DISCOVERIES George Washington Carver made years ago are today receiving nationwide application. Many of these have been reported in The American Weekly along with those of other scientists—but told in simple plain language that all can understand.

Used in Schools and Colleges

The American Weekly is not a scientific publication. Neither are its editorial contents devoted entirely to archeological, astronomical, educational or other scientific subjects. But an unofficial check of editorial features showed that in the first six-months' period of this year, The American Weekly devoted nearly 625 columns—88 pages—to subjects of scientific and cultural interest—more than any other general magazine in America.

Such scientific articles, and others, embracing music, sociology and psychology, are so authentic that they have earned a place for The American Weekly in educational institutions, where they are used by teachers to supplement regular courses of instruction.

Thus, the desire to know—the priceless habit of reading for knowledge—is stimulated by The American Weekly—distributed week after week, from coast to coast with 20 great Sunday newspapers—going into the homes of more than 7,750,000 families.

So, too, it feeds those other hungers of the human heart with stories of love and romance, mystery and adventure. True stories—based on fact yet stranger than fiction—they deal with the deepest interests of life. And real people, turning the pages of The American Weekly, slip away from the monotony of everyday and live the stories as they read them.

Who can measure the boundaries of this deep and fundamental influence—exerted week after week in more than 7,750,000 of America's homes.

The manufacturer who gives his product or his institutional message national publicity in this mighty magazine is keying his message to the most profound and fundamental interests of the human mind and heart. He is putting behind it the greatest known force in advertising.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER
FOUNDED JUNE 10, 1847

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER MAY 14, 1903, AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHICAGO, ILL., UNDER ACT OF MARCH 3, 1879.

All unsolicited articles, manuscripts, letters, and pictures sent to The Tribune are sent at the owner's risk, and The Tribune company expressly repudiates any liability or responsibility for their safe custody or return.

The entire and absolute freedom of the press is essential to the preservation of government on the basis of a free constitution. —Daniel Webster.

WHY THERE IS A LABOR SHORTAGE.

The Studebaker-managed airplane engine plant on the southwest side of Chicago flies an army and navy "E" pennant for meeting its production quotas and recently was awarded a star, much harder to get, for increasing those quotas.

Nevertheless, employes of the plant have disclosed to TRIBUNE reporters that the Communist leadership of the CIO union in the plant defies and dominates the management, fixing the production quotas; that open gambling, including book making controled by the Chicago underworld syndicate, thrives thruout the plant to such an extent that on an unlucky day the bookies lost $18,000; that loafing and malingering is prevalent, and that employes who exceeded the low production rates dictated by the union leaders were threatened with bodily harm.

This apparent paradox, of an administration efficiency award to a plant afflicted with the slacker labor force that employes describe, is no paradox at all. The quotas were met by increasing the labor force beyond the necessary personnel by as much as 30 per cent, according to some estimates. The management is tolerating the Communist sabotage which it would not dare tolerate in its private, peace-time operations if it expected to stay solvent, because it considers that nothing should be permitted to interfere with meeting production quotas. This is going on at a time when the country is suffering a severe labor shortage. It does much to expose the cause of that shortage.

The conditions at the plant are an outrage. It is no greater crime to sabotage production by destroying machinery or spoiling parts than by intimidating workers and preventing them from turning in an honest day's work.

The vast majority of the employes in the plant are honest men and women, willing to turn in an honest day's work for their pay. They have been prevented from doing so, partly by intimidation, and partly by being poisoned by the propaganda of the union leaders who are making loafers and slackers out of decent people.

The army and other administration agencies have done nothing to stop this sabotage. The Roosevelt administration would rather lose the war than alienate its Communist supporters. The principal hope at present appears to be action by the international officials of the CIO United Automobile Workers, of which the plant union is a local. They have an opportunity to demonstrate the responsibility that unions must display if they are not to lose very rapidly much of the power that they now possess.

MR. BULLITT AT PEORIA.

The participants in the strange conference at Peoria, which has as its open aim the destruction of the sovereignty of the United States, seem to speak with an assurance that is in inverse ratio to their standing with American voters. No one could have spoken more authoritatively on our post-war prospects and obligations than William C. Bullitt. Mr. Bullitt arrived in Peoria fresh from Philadelphia, where he had just submitted his candidacy for mayor, specially blessed by Mr. Roosevelt, to the voters of his native city, who reacted by giving his Republican opponent as heavy a majority as a candidate has won in that city in some time.

Federal Union, as revealed by the Peoria palpitants, seems to be assuming some strange forms. According to Mr. Bullitt, it should consist of a whole pyramid of unions. It would start with regional federations. Russia, he pointed out, is such a federation already, and the British empire, presumably, is another, altho it can scarcely be called regional. He would have Europe organized in another regional federation, and then Europe, Britain, Russia, and the United States would organize on the next step of the pyramid to preserve peace, but would operate within the framework of the still more grandiose world federation of nations. That, as the boys from Ohio say, is really sumpin'.

Mr. Bullitt told the meeting that, failing some such intricate scheme, Europe is going to be broken up into a British sphere of influence in western Europe, and a Communist sphere of influence in eastern, southeastern, and central Europe. Then, he said, will follow revolutions and counter-revolutions, European civil war and, eventually, a soviet-British war into which, he assured us, we will be drawn. And the cure he proposes for this is that we join ourselves to Europe in advance, guaranteeing that we shall be in the war instead of preserving the hope that when it arrives we may be fortunate enough to have a pro-American administration in Washington that will attempt to keep us out.

The Union Nowers are oblivious to the election returns. They never had any political strength, and the New Deal administration on which they have depended to put over their program of betrayal has been demonstrated to have lost its control of the voters. Realism is as absent from their pretensions to power as it is from the fantastic schemes of world government that they propose, yet they go blithely ahead as if they were doing the political thinking and planning for the American people, who want no part of them and who demonstrate their distaste whenever they go to the polls.

TOMORROW'S LEADERS.

Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Wallace, and Mr. Willkie each brought a basket of posies the other day to the annual feast of reason conducted by the New York Herald Tribune. Mr. Roosevelt said the good people now have the bad people on the run and should keep them stepping lively, world without end. Mr. Willkie said that the Moscow conference was promising even if Gen. Eisenhower still couldn't distinguish friend from foe. Mr. Wallace said any of our people who are so wicked as to have some spare change must make a lot of risky investments in backward countries as soon as the fighting stops.

There are plenty of signs to indicate that the people and their congress have been fed more of this sort of stuff than they can stomach. That is the lesson taught by the recent elections and, indeed, by every election since 1940. The truth is that the Roosevelt-Wall street-Communist axis—as strange a political combination as ever has been forged—is as lacking in public support today as it is perniciously active. Nevertheless, the New Dealers and their satellites continue to go about the country talking big and trying to intimidate the majority as if it were an upstart minority.

Those congressmen who are showing evidence of independence are clearly in the right and are no less clearly speaking for the people. Courage in public life was never more needed than it is today and the congressmen who possess it will be rewarded in the years to come. They will be the nation's leaders for the next twenty-five years.

THE RISING STORM IN EUROPE.

If the Italian people want to throw out the royal house, get rid of the king and crown prince, and discard the monarchy for a republic, there should be no American to hold up his hand and tell them to stop. Republics are scarce in Europe these days. France will have to reëstablish one if it gets another. With the exception of Switzerland and Finland, continental Europe is a picture of kings in exile—the king of the Belgians a prisoner of war—and of dictators and conquerors in possession and control. Monarchies hang together, always with a spare to furnish a small country which is fresh out of kings and princes.

The various peoples are accustomed to the system and when they have experimented with the republican government of free men the peoples haven't had much luck or endurance. Some of the kings play tennis, drive their own cars, and prowl the streets. Others prowl the public funds, the homes of grateful subjects who have handsome daughters, and keep fugitive insurance on deposit in foreign banks, with the royal escape train, steam up, on an accessible siding.

The Italian people have been promised the sort of government they want, providing they do not want fascism. Apparently they do not. It would be strange if they did. Marshal Badoglio says he will resign as premier as soon as the allies reach Rome and that meanwhile he will not attempt to bring about a fusion of the various parties. The intellectuals, including Sforza and the marshal's old friend, Croce, the historian, will have nothing to do with the king or the crown prince or any temporary government under them. It is assumed that when Badoglio quits the king will abdicate, and that the heir, Humbert, will renounce the succession.

Italy's political scene is confused enough, but it is simplicity itself in the land which capitulated to the allies and is now a sort of cobelligerent, compared with France, where when the German hand is lifted almost anything can happen and probably will. Surrender and servitude have increased the animosities of French politics and produced disunity rather than unity. The feuds in Africa have been a detriment to the conduct of the war. De Gaulle's latest achievements have been to break the accord with Giraud, who has been useful, and to stir up the Moslem world by using Senegalese soldiers against the Lebanese government and people.

The possibility of France turning Communist is conceded. The dissensions of the other political elements favor such a revolution. The French may rise out of servitude only to fall into civil war such as is already a side line in Jugo-Slavia and Greece. The pacification of some of the liberated countries may be a more difficult job than the policing of a defeated Germany.

Italy possesses one advantage. The allied troops already are in the country, altho they are having a tough time of it. Nevertheless, they are there, and Italy surrendering unconditionally is something of an ally as well as something of a prisoner of war and a ward. It would be a reasonable guess that most of the Italian people are thinking more of peace and food than they are of politics. They may make a peaceable transition from fascism to the form of government to which they will give their consent and they may follow their intellectuals into a republican form without going far to the left, altho their Socialists have yet to be heard.

Europe still has to pay for this war. The bells and whistles of an armistice day will not end it.

SUGAR COATING.

We are indebted to the Public Administration Clearing house for the information that the garbage trucks in Burlington, Vt., no longer carry the label, "Garbage." The signs now read: "Used Vitamin Convoy Service."

That wins the 1943 ribbon for euphemism but it does not take the all-time championship from "Lend-Lease." Nothing ever will equal that one for sugar coating.

CANAPE A LA RUSSE.

This column hastens to impart the surprising information that Russia's favorite movie this year is "In Old Chicago." Our authority is Oliver M. Sayler, who discovered the Moscow Art theater nearly 40 years ago when the bullets of an attempted revolution were whistling around the box office, and has remained a pro-Muscovite ever since.

The Russian language is a discourager of students, says Edmund Wilson in the Atlantic, for various reasons such as: Its idioms, which are as numerous as grains of sand in the Sahara; its vocabulary, which contains multitudes of finely shaded synonyms; and its grammar, which is a horror for any linguist. Its nouns have six cases, and adjectives have endings that are sometimes quite different from the case-identifications of their nouns.

Its system of counting is slightly mad, and whenever a date is mentioned each digit has to be given its proper case-ending. But the verbs are the holy terrors. In addition to the tenses and moods, they have another system of alterations called "aspects." . . . But Mr. Wilson concedes that the Russian alphabet, which looks hard, is easy and well suited to the phonetics of the language. Correct spelling is a much simpler matter than in English—but one has to learn the language first, and Mr. Wilson seems slightly depressed about his progress.

Chicago's first college course in Russian was offered at the University of Chicago in 1900, and a graduate student named Xenophon De Blumenthal Kalamatiano, possibly of Byzantine origin, was drafted for the task. This sticks in our memory only because the Russian tutor also competed for the track team, and the campus weekly wisecracked: "Xenophon De Blumenthal Kalamatiano ran the two-mile, dragging his full name all the way."

NOM DE PLUME.

A verbal mask which may disguise
Some doleful face with weeping eyes,
A worded screen to shield the heart
Where merry smiles and laughter start,
A visionary veil to hide
The secret thoughts which dwell inside,
A film that happily enshrouds
One's homely faults from casual crowds;
A secret guise which may bring fame
Or shelter from an evil name,
A magic wand to wave for change
To places where adventures range,
A fantasy by dreaming wrought,
A refuge by the timid sought. . . .
A cloak I keep upon my shelf
To cover my prosaic self.

War Time Bed Time Story.

Once there was a good, kind man who had a cute little dog. We don't know the little dog's name, but since the man must remain anonymous the little dog must be anonymous, too.

One evening as the good, kind man was helping to prepare dinner by cutting a thick, 50-point steak in two pieces to broil, the little dog looked on, drooling.

He studied the carving technique so critically that the master grew bothered and dropped the steak on the floor just as he got it divided into two pieces.

The little dog seized the big piece, not the little piece, and went to work.

The good, kind man seized the steak back from the poor little dog.

Then the g. k. m. poured water all over the steak, cleaned it off, slid it in the broiler, and served it to his wife.

Since she knew nothing of all this, they are living happily ever after.

That is why the little dog and his good, kind master must remain forever anonymous.

HOW A PEPTIC ULCER DEVELOPS.

EVERY mucous surface within the body is subject to ulceration. Nature has purposely made these tissues extremely sensitive. Within the digestive tract, certain cells secrete fluids necessary for the solution of food, while nearly every part possesses the power of absorption.

Unfortunately, these delicate regions are unable to exercise good judgment. They cannot discriminate between a substance which is harmful and one that is essential to life. In other words, poisons will be accepted about as readily as wholesome nutriment.

Another point should be recalled—namely, that the entire lining of the alimentary canal must be supplied constantly with blood. Cells demand nutriment in order to function. Should anything interfere with the circulation to a single tiny spot no larger than a pin head, such as a plug within a capillary, the neighboring cells may die. On this very site a minute ulcer may develop. Once an injury has been inflicted, the area may become an easy prey to microbes.

A nervous disposition also plays a rôle. Many an individual with whom distress appears to be on the increase, who fails to respond to treatment, will improve promptly if he can be relieved of business cares or allowed a vacation. Tenseness is always causative.

At any rate, peptic ulcers may form anywhere within the gastric pouch or the first portion of the intestine [duodenum]. Early symptoms imitate indigestion. They usually consist of discomfort which comes on from one to three hours after a meal. If the signs persist, and if respite follows the drinking of a glass of milk or the taking of food, the presence of one of these lesions may be suspected. Wisdom demands that the trouble be located and this will require careful X-ray studies.

Once the diagnosis has been verified, the program is not difficult. Unless there is danger of perforation or hemorrhage, the sufferer may go about his business provided proper feedings can be arranged. Excessive acid in the gastric juice must be neutralized in order to promote healing. Vomiting is not characteristic. In fact, many patients will develop lesions which will heal without the slightest fuss. Scars have been found of which the patient was wholly unaware.

Dietary management is our chief reliance but medicines may be required to destroy the irritating qualities present within the secretions.

No one should regard these affairs lightly. Rupture, with the escape of stomach contents into the peritoneal cavity can and does occur. Furthermore, bleeding may be extensive. But even in the presence of hemorrhage, recovery is the rule under skilled care.

There is reason to believe that because of strain due to the war, and some difficulty in obtaining balanced rations, we may need to be more alert than ever to the existence of these erosions. What is said about treatment may be applied with equal force to prevention. Dyspepsia that persists for a few weeks, or recurs periodically, may well be investigated.

DISAGREEMENT.

H. S. writes: One doctor tells me I have a hernia and another says I haven't. Why this variation in opinion?

REPLY.

Physicians differ in their interpretation of the findings. By some a relaxed ring may be diagnosed "potential hernia." Others will regard this minor defect as unimportant.

MOIST KNEES.

F. J. writes: The only place where I perspire is on the knees. Why is this?

REPLY.

Sweat glands are found in the skin and they are more numerous in certain areas. In your case nerve impulses to the region of the knees are more powerful.

ARM NERVES.

W. A. writes: Where are the nerves located which lead to the arms?

REPLY.

They come from the lower four cervical and upper dorsal segments of the spinal cord. These branches form the brachial plexus.

TOOTH "FILLING."

E. V. writes: Are there any nerves within the tooth itself?

REPLY.

Yes. The space within the tooth proper is filled with soft material—blood vessels and nerves.

IRRITATED EYES.

G. T. writes: What causes bloodshot eyes periodically?

REPLY.

A mild infection or irritation—conjunctivitis.

Maybe you haven't noticed it, but up in the tin pan alley belt on Rush street what used to be the Hi-Hat club, a tawdry little night club, now is the New Tribes Missionary society. The world moves on. . . .

Poetry Made Ironic.

For what seemed no apparent reason the two items placed side by side in the Czecho-Slovakian news sheet [news coming thru from the underground] recalled a line from a poem by the New England poet, Robert P. Tristam Coffin. The poem was about a dog chasing a deer thru a crystal stream, and the line was, "Life and death upon one tether and running beautiful together. . . ."

The first item in the Czecho-Slovakian news letter gave the names of 13 Czechs, including a woman, Barbora Lipenska, 61, who were executed in Prague and Brno on Sept. 16 for hoarding, for possessing arms, for sheltering and feeding enemies of the reich. The second item was the text of a petition for grace at meals now being taught in Nazi kindergartens:

"Fold your little hands;
Bow your little head;
Think of him who gives us
Our daily bread.
Adolf Hitler is his name;

How to Avoid Comment.

An Artist's Life.

The American public, working on the far-fields-seem-greener theory, has always nourished a handsome appetite for tales of struggling European artists. But in four paintings now in the Renaissance show at the University of Chicago rests the story of a Kansas boy about whom an extraordinary "lust for life" might be written.

His name was Floyd Pauley, and he was 25 when he died in 1935, a painter of immeasurable promise and influence. He left 100 paintings, all laced with a curious common denominator—a pattern of barbed wire fence weaving in and out of the design as counterpoint. In this many pseudo-Freudians now see the obstacles of his life.

He was 19, tall, emaciated, and shy when he appeared at the Layton Art school in Milwaukee with his father, a farmer unable to read or write. "Wants to draw," his father said laconically. "Don't know why. Got no money." He was given the job of janitor and a room in the school basement and worked incessantly and feverishly, wearing a long smock because there was no seat to his trousers, living daily on a piece of ham and bread.

His work quickly was deemed remarkable. He painted Kansas corn fields, scintillant, yellow, and strangely luminous, and the people who tilled them. He painted by day and by night and one morning complained of having been ill the night before. Nonetheless, he painted three watercolors before noon. Two days later he collapsed at his easel, and physicians found his appendix had ruptured 72 hours before. As he lay dying, nine weeks later, he received a check for $75 from the Art institute—his first sale.

Cleaning Women.

Of all the dread dull females
The most dull and overweening
Are those who waste my precious time
To tell about their cleaning.
Or if their income does permit
They have a cleaning woman;
And when they throw that in my teeth
I am more beast than human!
When next some creature bores me
With her cleaning tale of woe,
I'll say, "O, I don't clean my house,
I'm a dirty so and so."

THE SUBSIDY QUESTION.

Naperville, Ill., Nov. 15.—Tonight's radio speech by Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, under the guise of presenting the affirmative side of the subsidy controversy, shows the desperate straits to which the New Dealers are reduced. Mr. Patman admitted that payment of subsidies is an evil, but said that if they weren't paid and prices were to soar, the Republicans would be to blame. Where is the infamous OPA control of price ceilings?

Subsidy payments are not to hold prices at present levels—the OPA is supposed to do that. Subsidies are to lower prices. Mr. Patman didn't mention that. He didn't tell the people that for every cent that prices would be lowered the taxpayers might pay 2 cents in increased taxes. Payment of subsidies is nothing but a back handed scheme for vote buying. Another Texan, Judge Montague, says it is bribery and blackmail. Prices should fluctuate according to supply and demand, but when blundering burocrats create scarcity, prices are high. Part of the supply is wasted by the government, an excessive amount is hoarded, and most of the remainder is sent out of the country under lend-lease. The use of subsidies is like the action of the goof who cuts 18 inches from the top of his blanket and sews it on the bottom to keep his feet warm.

Mr. Patman's only attempt at any semblance of answering the subsidy question was to say that the government would buy 50 per cent of the commodities for which subsidies would be paid. But who finances the government? Isn't it you, and I, and all other taxpayers? Mr. Patman is a typical politician and, as expected, a poor debater. He doesn't confine his remarks to the question involved. He spent most of his time in excoriating the Republicans. He even went so far as to blame them for getting us into this present war in spite of the fact that the New Dealers have been in power for the last 10 years, and Democrats were in power when this country became involved in World War I.

His feeble plaint that a rejection of subsidies would be displeasing to "our commander in chief" left me cold. The present chief executive may be commander in chief of the army and navy, but, thank God, he is not commander in chief of the civilian population. He is supposed to be the duly elected servant of the people and should obey their wishes if this country is to be a "government of the people, by the people, and for the people." Apparently Mr. Patman has forgotten that it was his commander in chief who ignored the warnings that would have averted the Pearl Harbor disaster.

INHUMANE PARENTS.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—It makes my blood boil to read of the despicable treatment some so-called parents give their own flesh and blood. After reading THE TRIBUNE'S account this morning of the very humane and kind attitude of Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. Cree toward poor little Arthur Haselton Jr., I immediately sat down and wrote them a letter expressing my admiration and complimenting them on their stand. I can't think of anything lower than a father or mother who treat their children as if they were animals.

RACINE THOMPSON.

MacARTHUR AND GEORGE ROGERS CLARK.

Vincennes, Ind., Nov. 15.—Those of us who are somewhat familiar with the conquest of the great northwest by Gen. George Rogers Clark can easily liken Gen. MacArthur to Gen. Clark, the hero of the northwest.

After Gen. Clark had taken Fort Sackville, located in this city, from the British, which, by the way, opened the gateway to the west, a native of old Vincennes inquired as to the method and manner of Clark's strategy and an officer in Clark's forces remarked: "Great things can be accomplished by a few men well conducted."

This inscription is in the marble under the bronze statue of Gen. Clark in the memorial erected in his honor in this old city on the bank of the Wabash.

Considering Gen. MacArthur's great feats, let's call him the George Rogers Clark of World War II.

A BOUQUET FOR MISS DALY.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—This is in appreciation for the column that appears daily, written by Maureen Daly. I have two sons attending the Morgan Park Military academy. It is their insistence as well as my pleasure that prompts me to send them a clipping of that column every day. I find that Miss Daly's column is what the young people of today need—they find entertainment as well as information in its content. There seems to be very little reading material nowadays for young people that is not colored by propagandistic methods with an undertone of war consciousness. And there are far too few writers who are really concerned with young people's problems in their daily lives.

LEO FOX.

LONESOME MOTHERS.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—It makes my heart ache to think of that poor dog who is dying of lonesomeness because his master has left him and is in the service.

That is mighty thoughtful of some one to see that his master is getting a furlough so that he can come home to visit the poor dog.

However, I know of two mothers who have sons in the service and haven't seen them for over a year, one who has been in Alaska for nearly two years and the other one in Africa. Neither one has had a furlough.

A dog can be shot to relieve him of his misery, but we can't do that to a human being.

JOINT TENANCY.

MARIGNY FOUND GUILTY IN TRIAL OVER GASOLINE

Faces Possible 6 Month Term and Big Fine.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 18 (AP).—Just one week after he was acquitted of the murder of Harry Oakes, Alfred de Marigny today was convicted of illegal possession of gasoline.

Magistrate F. E. Field ordered De Marigny and his close friend, the Marquis Georges de Visdelou, placed under £100 [about $420] bond each until tomorrow, when they will be sentenced. De Visdelou pleaded guilty to similar charges when they were arraigned yesterday.

Face Jail Terms, Big Fines.

There were two counts against De Marigny—illegal possession of gasoline and obtaining gasoline from other than an official source. He was convicted on both.

The first count carries a maximum penalty of six months imprisonment and the second a maximum fine of about $420 or three months imprisonment, or both.

Both De Marigny and De Visdelou posted bail.

Besides De Visdelou, three other friends of De Marigny were tried. Bruce Pinder and Dan Knowles were acquitted. Banker John H. Anderson admitted violating gasoline rationing laws and was fined £50 [about $210] yesterday.

Hints Appeal to Justice Daly.

De Marigny indicated he might appeal the conviction to the chief justice of the Bahamas Supreme court, Oscar Bedford Daly, before whom he was tried on a charge of killing Oakes, his wealthy father-in-law.

The gasoline figured prominently in the trial, witnesses testifying several drums were delivered to De Marigny's Nassau home on July 8, the day Oakes' beaten and burned body was found.

Army Bomber and 8 Men Missing on Training Flight

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 18 (AP).—A bomber with eight men aboard left the Charleston army air base on a training flight Monday and has failed to return, the air base public relations office announced tonight. Search is continuing for the missing bomber and its crew, among which were 2d Lt. William J. Walsh Jr., pilot, 9409 South Loomis street, and 2d Lt. Bryan H. Michaelson, co-pilot, Charter Oak, Ia.

WOMAN STORE OWNER ROBBED.

Mrs. Lillian Pleitgen, owner of a delicatessen at 8228 Racine avenue, told police last night that a man robbed her of $20.

WHEATON PILOT HOME; ESCAPED ITALIAN PRISON

Lt. Thomas H. McCarty, 26 years old, was home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. McCarty, 203 East Seminary avenue, Wheaton, yesterday, with a thrilling story of his escape from an Italian prison camp and of rejoining American forces in Italy. But he was under orders not to talk about his experiences, and the story, he said, will have to wait until after the war.

Lt. Thomas McCarty.

He is well, his weight is about normal at 150 pounds and, altho the pursuit plane he was piloting collided with another over the Mediterranean sea, he has not been injured.

Lt. McCarty parachuted into the Gulf of Tunis after the collision during a dog fight. He was rescued after four hours by an Italian hospital ship and interned five months in northern Italy.

Lt. McCarty went overseas last January and participated in much of the African campaign. He was greeted here by his wife, who came from her home in Hollywood, Cal.

100,000 Autos in City Lack Safety Stickers

Despite the drive against unsafe automobiles, 100,000 automobiles in Chicago are running without safety stickers, John Szumnarski, public vehicle license commissioner, said yesterday. He said motorists are being arrested for failure to have the stickers, and must submit in court either the stub from a sticker, showing that their car has been tested, or proof that the automobils has been sold.

THEATER OF AIR AUDIENCE TO SEE SPARS HONORED

50 Minute Program Tomorrow Night.

W-G-N's Chicago Theater of the Air presentation of Rudolf Friml's operetta "Rose Marie" at Medinah temple, Wabash avenue at Ohio street, tomorrow evening will be followed by 50 minutes entertainment by coast guard and navy musicians in tribute to the SPARS, who will celebrate their first anniversary as the women's reserve of the United States coast guard on Nov. 23.

This nonbroadcast portion of the evening's entertainment for 4,000 spectators will feature the Naval Air Technical Training Center band from 87th and Anthony streets directed by Chief W. B. Scott; the Coast Guard Cutters, and instrumental trio; Patti Clayton, W-G-N vocalist; and The Cadets, a radio male quartet.

Marion Claire to be Star.

They will be presented at the conclusion of the broadcast of "Rose Marie," which will star Marion Claire and which will be heard from 8 to 9 p. m. [CWT] on W-G-N, WGNB and the Mutual network.

About 100 artists, including the 60 piece W-G-N Symphony orchestra conducted by Henry Weber and the chorus of 30 voices coached by Robert Trendler, will be heard during the broadcast.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak.

In the audience will be approximately 750 SPARS and prospective SPARS and several high ranking coast guard and SPAR officers, who will gather to hear both the broadcast and the following entertainment and to listen to brief addresses by Comdr. G. B. Skinner, assistant district coast guard officer, and Lieut. [j. g.] Mary K. Daly, SPAR recruiting officer for Chicago, 9th naval district.

New Song Will Be Sung.

During the after-broadcast program, Miss Clayton will sing the new "Song of the SPARS," written by Chief Olan Soule of the coast guard temporary reserve. The song will be dedicated by Miss Clayton to her husband, Gale Watts, a coast guard seaman. Chief Marvin Mueller of the temporary reserve will be master of ceremonies. Both he and Chief Soule will also take dramatic parts in the "Rose Marie" broadcast.

The program will be under the auspices of the treasury department in the interests of war bond sales. B. Harrison Neuman of the treasury special events department will speak briefly.

HOSPITAL FINED $200 FOR ITS LACK OF FIRE ESCAPES

The Kenner hospital, 716 Wellington avenue, which has been seeking unsuccessfully to obtain a city license, was fined $200 and costs by Judge Erwin J. Hasten in License court yesterday on the city building department's charge that it lacked adequate fire escape facilities.

Fourteen patients would be trapped in a second floor ward in any emergency as the result of the lack of the equipment, Judge Hasten was told.

Judge Hasten indicated he would vacate the fine on Dec. 23 if fire escapes are installed.

7 MAJOR ROADS, 300 FEET WIDE, ASKED FOR CITY

Plan Commission Backs Big Project.

The Chicago Plan commission yesterday voted to recommend to the city council the post-war construction of seven major expressways to supplement existing highways. The commission will suggest the recommendations as amendments to the comprehensive super-highway system adopted by the council Feb. 21, 1940. The estimated cost of the seven expressways is 232 million dollars.

"These seven major fingers would provide the framework for the master plan of thorofares now being developed," explained H. Evert Kincaid, executive director. "It is believed they would relieve traffic jams on local streets which depreciate surrounding property values and at the same time set up boundaries for neighborhoods, which is a part of the master plan for rebuilding Chicago."

300 to 330 Feet Wide.

Kincaid said the expressways would be from 300 to 330 feet wide, divided into eight lanes and either elevated or depressed. Access to them would be at only comparatively wide intervals. Following are the seven major thorofares suggested to the council:

1. An extension of the north side outer drive from Foster avenue along the lake north to the city limits, where it will connect with Sheridan road. Length 3.7 miles. Estimated cost, $20,000,000.

2. A northwest expressway beginning at a connection with Wacker drive at the Orleans street bridge and extending northwesterly to a junction with the proposed expressway development of the Cook county highway department at the city limits [Canfield avenue]. Length, 11.8 miles. Estimated cost, $42,300,000.

8 Miles on Congress Street.

3. The Congress street expressway to the city limits. Length, 8 miles. Estimated cost, $40,000,000.

4. A southwest expressway beginning at approximately 26th street and Lowe avenue and continuing irregularly southwesterly to Harlem avenue. Length, 9 miles. Estimated cost, $19,000,000.

5. A south expressway beginning at the Congress street expressway approximately a half block east of Halsted street and proceeding south roughly parallel to Halsted street to 119th street and Ashland avenue. Length, 14.3 miles. Estimated cost, $51,000,000.

6. An extension and redevelopment of the southeast outer drive along the lake front from 49th street to an intersection at Indianapolis avenue. Length, 7.4 miles. Estimated cost, $20,000,000.

7. A crosstown expressway roughly parallel to California avenue which connects the northwest and southwest expressways. Length, 7.25 miles. Estimated cost, $40,000,000.

CANADA BLAMED FOR RADIO'S BAN ON UPTON CLOSE

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 18 [Special].—J. E. Campeau, manager of radio station CKLW of Detroit and Windsor, Ont., said tonight he acted to cancel the broadcast of Upton Close, news commentator, from his station on Nov. 7 and thereafter because of a protest from the Canadian government at Ottawa.

"We had been carrying the Close broadcasts from New York on the Mutual Broadcasting company network for several months," Campeau said. "We received many lettters of protest from our Canadian listeners. Early this month I was advised many other similar letters had been received by the Canadian Broadcasting corporation and Canadian government agencies in Ottawa. I decided Close's news comments weren't worth the grief."

However, Sen. Wallace H. White [R., Me.] yesterday read to the senate interstate commerce committee in Washington, D. C., parts from a letter, the writer of which was not identified, criticizing the ban against the commentator. The writer said when he contacted CKLW to learn the reason for cancellation of the Close program he was "informed he had not been permitted to speak because the Canadian government had made representations to OWI that resulted in Mr. Close not speaking to his radio audience."

PAROLE NEGRO IN RAPE CASES AT SCOTTSBORO

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 18 (AP).—Charlie Weems, 31 year old Negro, a principal in Alabama's "Scottsboro case" trials of several years ago, was paroled today.

The state parole board, which announced Monday that Weems would be released today, said he will work in a laundry in Atlanta, his home. Weems, serving a 75 year sentence on a rape conviction, will be under the jurisdiction of the Georgia state parole board.

Along with eight other Negroes, he was arrested in 1931 and charged with attacking two white women while riding a freight train near Scottsboro, Ala. Several trials were held, the final one in 1937. At that time four of the Negroes were released and five imprisoned. Weems is the first to be paroled.

AIM JURY QUIZ AT SUMMERDALE AND TOWN HALL

The November grand jury's investigation of official connivance with syndicate gamblers in Chicago and Cook county slowed yesterday, but prosecutors were busy preparing to renew the inquiry with special attention to the Summerdale and Town Hall police districts.

While the grand jury for the first time in weeks failed to hear any gambling witnesses, Assistant State's Atty. Joseph Burke questioned William Goldstein, former attorney for Billy Skidmore, on Goldstein's ownership of a half interest in property at 1142 Granville avenue. Skidmore, for years the fixed for gambling interests, is serving a prison term for income tax evasion.

Burke quoted Goldstein as saying he rented the property, which is in the Summerdale police district, to a man named Phillips from October, 1941, to October, 1942, for the operation of a cigar store, and had no knowledge of its alleged use as a handbook.

Twelve defendants in three gambling cases who appeared before Justice of the Peace Henry Pendl in Willow Springs were summoned before the grand jury.

POLICE REPORT BIG INCREASE IN RUNAWAY GIRLS

A desire to visit their boy friends who have entered the army or navy or other fighting branches caused a marked increase in the number of runaway Chicago girls during the first 10 months of this year, Lt. Joseph Starshak of the police missing persons bureau said yesterday.

Since Jan. 1, a total of 1,200 juvenile girls have been listed as runaways for varying periods of time, compared with 804 in the first 10 months of 1942. Laxity in home supervision because parents have gone to work in war plants is one of the underlying causes, Lt. Starshak said.

Fewer adult women are reported missing these days, presumably because they have found war employment, Lt. Starshak believed. The number of women listed in the bureau's files dropped to 497 from 588 in the first 10 months of 1942.

ORGANIZED GAMBLING OUT IN LAKE COUNTY, SHERIFF DECLARES

Gambling in all organized forms has been halted in Lake county, Sheriff Walter L. Atkinson announced last night after his deputies had investigated the response to the sheriff's ban of Wednesday.

Four handbooks and five other gambling places in Waukegan, 75 to 100 slot machines in North Chicago, and 900 slot machines elsewhere in the county were reported to have folded up. Even punchboards vanished from country taverns and roadhouses, it was said.

The closings halted the extralegal licensing system by which authorities fined gambling operators $200 a month and used the proceeds to help pay police salaries in Waukegan.

In North Chicago Police Chief Jacob Novak's edict forced removal of three slot machines from the American Legion home.

CONQUEROR OF 20 JAP PLANES TO TALK IN CHICAGO

Lt. Kenneth A. Walsh of the marines, who downed 20 Japanese planes—a record topped only by that of Maj. Joe Foss—will arrive in Chicago tomorrow to talk to students at Navy pier, at the Naval Aviation Technical Training center at 87th street and Anthony avenue, and at the Glenview Naval Air station. Walsh, who at 28 is a veteran with 10 years' service to his credit, won the distinguished flying cross the first time he flew in combat. That was last April 1, over the Russell Islands, when he blasted two Zeros out of the sky within five minutes. A period as instructor preceded Walsh's combat service. One of his students was Foss. Later Foss, who had been sent to the combat zone earlier, was able to pass on to his one-time teacher helpful hints on combat flying.

SYNOPSIS: At the funeral of Stuart Lane, homesteader, the appearance of Austin Reynolds, a big cattleman and owner of the Triangle R, is resented by a group of rustlers, who accuse him of ambushing Lane. Jess Blackburn tries to incite the men to violence, but Neal MacGowan, who plays a lone hand, implies Blackburn is swayed by a personal grievance, and averts trouble. Reynolds is not grateful and accuses Neal of being the leader of the cattle thieves and outlaws. Neal is regarded as a renegade by the other cattlement. From Janet Lane, now father as well as mother to her young brother and sister, Neal learns Lane had no personal enemies, but on returning from Squaw creek, where he had cut a box elder, he was unusually absorbed. Tracing the tracks of Stuart Lane's wagon, Neal finds tracks of four horses heading for Rustlers' gap. The Sheridan stage had been held up and the messenger killed the day before Lane was murdered by four or five men, according to the driver, Hank Baldwin. The warning, "Cow Thieves Beware," found on Lane, is the warning used by detectives of the Cattlement's association. Neal follows the tracks to the gap and talks to Allan Dunn and Jess Blackburn, and discovers Nelson Gurley has been hurt and his horse shot.

INSTALMENT V.

CREATES SUSPICION.

"We haven't anything on Reynolds yet except suspicion," MacGowan said. "I don't believe he had a thing to do with Lane's death."

"Well, I do," Blackburn differed harshly. "He was in it up to the neck. . . . Sure, Lane didn't tell that girl of his anything about what happened that day except just that he met Reynolds?"

"Not a thing. He had something on his mind, but he did not say what it was. She wishes now she had made him talk more."

The brutal face of the bad man showed relief, his visitor thought. He laid a big hand on the mane of the horse and spoke confidentially. "Depend on it, Neal. That scoundrel Reynolds had trouble with Lane when they met. Probably he served notice on him to get out of his house before sun-up. That's the way these high and mighty cattlemen treat settlers. When Lane didn't light out, Reynolds gave the word to his killer and the poor fellow turned up his toes to the daisies."

"Don't think so, Jess. I know Reynolds pretty well. He's not an assassin."

"Who killed Thorne and Norwood?" Blackburn demanded bluntly.

"I don't know."

"You know that some detective of the stock association bumped them off, probably that fellow, Brock, who roosts up on the Bar A-B range."

"I don't know it. Do you? That's merely our opinion. And even if we're right, it doesn't follow that Reynolds was a party to it. I've thought of Brock, but Reynolds may not be involved at all."

"They elected him sheriff, didn't they, before we put in Cullen this time? He's one of the head men of their crowd. They don't pull off a thing he doesn't know about. You can't tell me. I know him as well as you do."

MacGowan did not argue it any further. He rode out of the park into the canyon, and up it to the defile which let him from the Gap. Blackburn had been one of the riders whose tracks he had cut while tracing Lane's movements. The tobacco splash on the rocks told him that. But why had the two men barred him from entering the cabin if they had nothing to conceal? Nelson Gurley was lying on a bunk inside it expecting a doctor. If he had broken an ankle from a fall there was no need of keeping Neal from seeing him. There was something fishy about that story.

When he had asked them whether they had seen Lane or Reynolds both had shown alarm or at least disturbance. Because Blackburn had still been afraid their visitor was not convinced, and because he had to make sure that Lane had told his daughter nothing about him or his men, he had held Neal a minute longer to insist on the guilt of his enemy. All this had a sinister look.

Reynolds had been somewhere in the neighborhood that afternoon. It might be a good idea to ride over and see him. This was a happy thought, since it would be a pleasure as well as a duty. For he would no doubt meet Eleanor, Reynolds' sister, and any day would be glad to take a 15 mile ride if she was at the end of it.

The Triangle R ranch house was famous in the Flood River country. It had been built some years before by a young Englishman regardless of expense.

Austin Raynolds bought the Triangle R for a fraction of its value. He already owned an adjoining ranch and he threw the two together, running them as one. Reynolds belonged to the new order of cowmen. From the first he had been successful. An aggressive man, keen to assert his rights, he had fought hard against the thieves who shot his cows and stole his calves. Nobody in the country had more enemies than he.

Reynolds sat on the porch steps cleaning a gun. Except for a wrangler greasing a wagon the yard was deserted.

The sound of gay voices drifted to him. He looked up, to see his sister and young Muir riding down the lane. The man had dismounted to open the gate, but she waved him aside, put her horse at it, and sailed over as gracefully as a deer. Fifty yards back of them another rider jogged down the lane. He, too, went over the barrier without taking the trouble to clear the way. Neal MacGowan, Austin identified with no enthusiasm.

Eleanor Reynolds stopped beside the wrangler and drew from the shirt pocket of the man a sack of smoking tobacco and a book of wrappers.

MacGowan joined them. He had never seen a young woman smoke until now. It was Muir who murmured protestingly, "O, I say, Nell."

The riders moved forward to the porch and dismounted. Reynolds looked at the girl, anger in his eyes. His sister was 10 years younger than he, and he found her a handful.

Eleanor slanted a glance at him. "Austin does not approve of me. He thinks I'm not a lady."

"I don't approve of your folly," he answered stiffly. There's probably not another decent girl in Wyoming would smoke, at least in public."

"Somebody has to do the pioneering," she told him lightly. To Neal she said, over her shoulder as she left: "Wait till I get out of these togs. I want to ask you how your friends in Rustler's Gap are doing. And whether you have punished the one who missed killing Austin and only ventilated his hat."

Neal chuckled at her insolence. "I'll be here," he promised.

The eyes of both MacGowan and the Scotchman Muir followed the girl. She was tall and slenderly full, in her movements a supple sensuous grace. She walked as if life, the mere living, sang a song in her blood.

Reynolds waited for MacGowan to explain his visit. He had not been to the Triangle R for a good many months.

"I was talking with Janet Lane today," Neal said. "She told me that while her father was up Squaw Creek to get a box elder the day before his death you met him."

"That is correct," Reynolds replied coldly.

"I gathered from her something that may possibly throw light on her father's death. She thinks he was worried when he came home. He did not talk much—acted as if there was something on his mind. He was mulling over a problem. What I am wondering is whether it could have had any relation to any event that may have happened during the day."

"Such as what?"

"I don't know. What time of day did you meet him?"

"Shortly after noon. On his way up, about four miles from his homestead. Why?"

FIND BONES OF 2 HANDS; MAY BE CLEW TO LAWYER

Water Hampers Hunt for Rest of Body.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18 [Special].—The bones of an arm and hand found in Pike county Monday were being examined tonight by state authorities who expressed the belief they might be those of Walter W. Donley, well known Peoria attorney missing since June 1 when he was subpenaed as a witness in a criminal trial.

Two trappers found the bones in a slough near the Mississippi river about six miles from Pittsfield. Lying in the mud were a right forearm and hand and one finger from another hand. The bones were brought here for investigation while state police searched the wooded area for the rest of the body. High water hampered their work.

Might Be Woman's.

R. T. Piper, superintendent of the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation, said two state health department doctors reported the bones might be those of a medium size man or a large woman..

An effort to obtain a print from the fingers, which had dried skin remaining on them, was disclosed by T. P. Sullivan, state director of public safety. He said he was not certain if Donley's fingerprints were obtainable but hoped to learn the FBI had taken them.

Donley, 45 years old, a practicing attorney here since 1920 and a former city attorney, was last in touch with his family when he telephoned his wife at 4:45 p. m. June 1 that he was starting home from his office.

Fear that he had met death or was suffering from amnesia was raised a week later when his car was found abandoned in Peoria. It had been parked where it was found for a week and a woman living nearby said she had seen two men leaving it.

Charged with Accepting Loot.

On the day he disappeared Donley was served with a subpena to appear in United States District court in Peoria as a witness in the trial of Lawrence Drewer on charges of violating the national stolen property act by bringing to Illinois $15,000 of $65,000 stolen from the Cummings Manufacturing company of St. Louis in January, 1942.

Donley, who was Drewer's attorney, was charged by federal authorities with having received some of the stolen loot and converting it into smaller bills, keeping $1,000 for himself for the service.

Mrs. Wilma Russell killed in Missouri.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 18 [Special].—First hint that the state may ask other than the death penalty in the trial of Edwin Godarre, 13 years old, charged with the rape killing of a 10 year old girl last Aug. 13, was given today when the district attorney said the court will define murder in both the first and second degrees.

The boy was at a free camp when he stoned and strangled Elizabeth Voight wihile she was taking him on a search for her brother. Godarre is from New York City. The girl was from East Fishkill.

Preliminary witnesses for the state were put on the stand today after Alexander C. Dow, defense attorney, said a defense of inherited insanity would be argued. Dow said Godarre's grandfather died in a California hospital for the insane and that his grandmother still is there.

Dow said the boy's father was a syhilitic and a narcotic addict and that the boy always was a problem child, a chronic truant and runaway. Once he singed the whiskers off a dog. Another time he put a dog in a room next that of his sleeping mother and turned on the gas.

Since the opening day of the trial, when Edwin broke down and sobbed, he has maintained a contemptuous calm.

Files Charges Against Boy.

Harrisonville, Mo., Nov. 18 (AP).—Charges of murder and manslaughter were filed today against 14 year old Donald Ervin in the slaying of Mrs. Wilma Russell, 28.

George R. Chamberlain, prosecuting attorney, quoted the youth as saying he had killed Mrs. Russell, who lived on a neighboring farm, because he feared she would reveal that he disobeyed a parental order against hunting.

Boy Gets Life Term.

Pendleton, Ore., Nov. 18 (AP).—Ronald Elder, 14 years old, who confessed slaying a neighbor girl in a rape attempt last month, was sentenced today to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary. He pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

Child Chokes to Death on Pill for Tonsilitis

Judith Ann Bartram, 4 years old, choked to death in her home at 30 North Jefferson street, Waukegan, last night when a pill, prescribed to relieve a siege of tonsilitis, lodged in her windpipe. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bartram.

TOUHY LAWYER CALLS TRIAL IN BREAK ILLEGAL

Asserting that the statute under which Roger Touhy was indicted after he participated in a break from Stateville prison in October, 1942, was unconstitutional because it provided different penalties for like offenses, Irving Roth, Chicago attorney, yesterday filed a brief to support his plea for a new trial for Touhy in the Will county Circuit court in Joliet.

Touhy, Matthew Nelson, and William Stewart all were convicted of participating in the break at their trial in September but sentence has not been passed. They already are serving long sentences.

Roth's brief also asserted Touhy was entitled to a new trial because all the state's witnesses were state employes and therefore prejudiced, and because State's Atty. James E. Burke told the jury he would show that Touhy was armed with a gun provided by Edward Darlak, another prisoner, and then failed to do so.

Quiz Boy, 14, in Mother's Slaying and 3 Clubbings

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 18 (AP).—Police and alienists questioned 14 year old George Webster today in the hope of finding some clew to the bludgeon slaying of his mother, Mrs. Mina Webster, and the clubbing attacks on his sister, 12 years old, a brother, 8, and a house guest. Police said the youth had been dazed and incoherent since the attacks were discovered yesterday.

Cranberries Fit Nicely Into Any Holiday Menu

BY MARY MEADE.

The family may be thankful for a plump, golden brown chicken, a succulent goose or duck, or perhaps a tender baked ham instead of the traditional Thanksgiving turkey this year, but you'll find that festive cranberries will fit perfectly into any menu you may choose.

Sticklers for tradition will want to serve the old fashioned unstrained cranberry sauce as usual, but more adventurous cooks may prefer to try the berries in a zestful cocktail, a tart relish, a molded salad, or a simple dessert sherbet. Any of these dishes will lend color and flavor to the meal.

Ten Minute Cranberry Sauce.

1½ cups sugar
2 cups water
1 pound [4 cups] cranberries

Boil sugar and water together five minutes. Add cranberries and boil without stirring until all the skins pop open [five minutes is usually sufficient]. Remove from heat and let sauce cool in pan before transferring to serving dish. If a thinner sauce is desired, bring sugar and water to a boil, then add cranberries immediately, and cook until they stop popping.

Cranberry Juice Cocktail.
[Serves eight or more.]

4 cups cranberries
4 cups water
⅔ cup sugar
Fruit juice or ginger ale

Cook cranberries and water until all the skins pop open. Strain thru cheesecloth. Heat, add sugar, and boil for two minutes or until sugar is dissolved. Chill. Add lemon, orange, grapefruit, or pineapple juice or gingerale to suit taste, if desired, before serving.

Cranberry Orange Relish.
[Uncooked.]

4 cups cranberries
2 oranges
2 cups sugar

Put cranberries thru food chopper. Peel oranges, remove seeds, and put rind and oranges thru chopper. Mix with berries and sugar. Let stand for a few hours before serving. [This easy relish may be put up for future use in sterilized glasses covered with paraffin.]

Jellied Cranberry-Nut Salad.
[Serves six.]

1 tablespoon plain, unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
½ cup hot water
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups cooked or canned, strained cranberry sauce
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped nuts

Soften gelatin in cold water five minutes and dissolve in hot water. Add salt. Pour the hot liquid over cranberry sauce and beat with rotary beater until softened and smooth. Chill until partly thickened, then add celery and nuts. Turn into individual molds and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce or other greens with mayonnaise or fruit salad dressing.

Cranberry Sherbet.
[Serves six.]

4 cups cranberries
2½ cups water
2 cups water
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
⅓ cup lemon juice

Cook cranberries and water until all the skins pop open. Strain and add sugar and gelatin which has been softened in cold water. Heat until dissolved. Cool and add lemon juice. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until firm.

Turkey Roasting Pointers

For best results, roast the Thanksgiving turkey at a moderate temperature in an uncovered roasting pan. Roast an 8 to 10 pound turkey at 325 degrees for 3 to 3½ hours and a 10 to 14 pound bird at 300 degrees for 3½ to 4 hours. Protect from the drying heat of the oven by covering with an oiled cheesecloth, then basting with melted margarine or vegetable shortening once every hour.

Camouflaged Flank Steak Is 'Mock Squab'

One and one-half pounds of flank steak will make eight "mock squabs" for dinner. Cut the steak into eight pieces. Spread each piece with ¾ teaspoon prepared mustard, season with salt and pepper. On each, place a strip of dill pickle, ½ slice bacon, ¾ teaspoon chopped onion. Roll up, fasten with toothpick. Dip into seasoned flour; brown in hot fat. Add a little hot water, cover and cook until tender, about 1½ hours.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Plum Pudding for War Time.
[Serves 12 to 16.]

½ package grape-nuts cereal [about 1⅓ cups]

2 ounces almonds, cut fine
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Small pinch cloves
1 teaspoon molasses

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water and add grape-nuts. Add remaining ingredients and bring all to a boil, stirring constantly. Boil for 5 minutes, stirring to prevent scorching. Cream of Carrot Soup Will Please the Children

The children will enjoy piping hot cream of carrot soup on a cold day. Cook 1 cup diced carrots in 2 cups boiling water until tender; then rub thru sieve. Make a white sauce of 2 tablespoons butter or other fat, 2 tablespoons flour, and 2 cups milk. Add to the sauce the sieved carrots, the water in which carrots were cooked, 1 teaspoon salt, and ¼ teaspoon minced onion. Heat the mixture for about 10 minutes and serve. Chopped carrots and nuts, mixed with mayonnaise, make a good sandwich filling, too.

Contrast in Salad.

A cool, crisp salad will interrupt the monotony of several hot dishes served at one meal. As a general rule, the green salad will offer contrast in texture, too.

To Make the Most of Vegetables, Use the Outside Leaves

Make the most of the vegetables you purchase. Ask for untrimmed cauliflower and save the leaves nearest the head. Trim off the lower tough parts. Cook leaves in boiling water to cover for 15 minutes. Drain, season, and butter. Or chop and add white sauce. The outer leaves of lettuce may be wilted for salad or used in cooking peas and the outer stalks of celery may be creamed or braised. Celery leaves are excellent in green salads, in bread stuffings, in stews and soups, and as a garnish. Carrot tops may be used also for garnishing.

E. S. Petersen's Engagement in East Disclosed

BY JUDITH CASS.

EDWARD S. PETERSEN'S Chicago friends and relatives are looking forward with special interest to his homecoming next month from the Harvard medical school, for he will be accompanied by his fiancee, Miss Zoé Bakéeff. Today Mr. and Mrs. André Bakéeff of Weston, Mass., are announcing the engagement of their daughter to the young medical student, eldest son of Dr. and Mrs. William F. Petersen of Astor street. The wedding is planned for the spring.

Miss Bakéeff, who is known as Zika, already is familiar with Chicago, as she visited here and in Lake Geneva last June. She is the granddaughter of Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky of Petrograd, Russia. The Bakéeffs came to this country in 1920 from Russia, where they lived in Petrograd and in the province of Kursk. Their daughter is a senior at Radcliffe college.

Before entering Harvard medical school, where he is enrolled in the army specialized training program, Mr. Petersen was graduated from the Chicago Latin school and from Harvard university. He has two brothers, Conrad, a second class seaman at Great Lakes, and William, a senior at the Latin school. They are grandsons of Mrs. Eduard Petersen and of the late Dr. and Mrs. Otto L. Schmidt.

Future Events.

Mrs. Quincy Wright, who is visiting in New York and Washington, D. C., has sent word from the east that Jan Masaryk, prominent Czecho-Slovakian statesman, has been engaged to address the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations Dec. 6 in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Mr. Masaryk, son of the first president of Czecho-Slovakia, represented his country as foreign minister and as minister to the Court of St. James's.

Meanwhile the council is making plans for an earlier meeting Nov. 27 in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House, when Senora Isabel de Palencia will speak. Sr. de Palencia, who has served as minister from Spain to Sweden and as a member of the Spanish parliament, supported the republic during the revolution led by Franco.

Here and There.

Miss Betty Chapin, who grew up in Chicago, will be seeing some of her friends who are football enthusiasts in South Bend tomorrow when the University of Notre Dame plays the Iowa Pre-Flight school. Miss Chapin, daughter of Lowell M. Chapin of Niles, Mich., will be spending the week-end in Niles. She lives in New York, where she has been pursuing a career in an air lines training school. She is an expert rider and has had a pilot's license for two years. Miss Chapin is bringing with her for the gay week-end a New York friend, Mrs. Howard D. Whitlock, daughter of the New York architect, James O'Connor.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent D. Sill and Dr. and Mrs. Albert Howard Baugher will be in San Antonio, Tex., for the marriage Tuesday of their daughter and son, Miss Marilyn Sill and Aviation Cadet G. William Baugher. The ceremony will take place in the San Antonio post chapel at 6:30 p. m., with a dinner following at the St. Anthony hotel. Capt. David Baugher, cousin of the bridegroom, will be best man, and his wife will attend Miss Sill. Cadet Baugher and his fiancee both attended the University of Chicago, at which she was a member of Mortarboard.

Miss Phyllis Elsa Hollands and Karl Reese-Janitzky are planning to be married on Jan. 15 in the Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth. Miss Hollands, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Augustus Hollands of Kenilworth, attended the Roycemore school and Fairmont Junior college and made her debut several seasons ago. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmanuel Johann Reese-Janitzky of Bennett avenue, was graduated from the University of Chicago law school. After their marriage they will live in Evanston.

On Today's Calendar.

The first of the Dinner-Dance club parties will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Saddle and Cycle club. About 65 young people in formal evening dress will gather for dinner and dancing later. Mrs. Roger Faherty heads the committee that gives these parties. The next one will be held Dec. 11.

Following the afternoon concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra today, Mrs. George A. Berry Jr. will act as hostess for the English Speaking union at tea in its headquarters. Adding interest to the tea will be a collection of prints lent to the union by a Chicago gallery, among them old lithographs including one of the Rush street bridge in 1861.

At the Cordon's tea today a scene from the play, "Port of Chicago," by Alice Gerstenberg and Herma Clark, will be given. A special guest will be Nancy Carroll, whose daughter, Patricia Kirkland, is playing in "Kiss and Tell."

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, national chairman of U. S. O. volunteer training, was the principal speaker yesterday afternoon at an all-day session of northern Illinois representatives of the organization, held at the 131 South Wabash avenue center of the U. S. O.

Mrs. Dwight Morrow.

"You are the army behind the army," Mrs. Morrow told the volunteers. "Without you there could be no 'home away from home' for members of the fighting forces. I cannot praise too highly the work you are doing."

As director of volunteers Mrs. Morrow stressed the need for more intensive training of workers to help them work together and further the philosophy of the U. S. O.

Other speakers at the session were Ivan B. Rhodes, regional U. S. O. executive, and Miss Ruth Shaw, finger printing expert, who is a member of the national program staff.

The American Red Cross, Chicago chapter, announces that home nursing classes are opening each week at 529 South Wabash avenue. Mrs. Joseph Cudahy, volunteer chairman of the home nursing corps, and her staff are working toward the goal of training at least one member of every Chicago family to care for the sick in the war time nurse and physician shortage.

The next class will open Monday, with others beginning Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday. The first December class will open Dec: 2. These are 24 hour courses, and sessions have been arranged for several periods of the day to accommodate every one. Classes meet once a week for two and a half hours. Registration costs only $1 for the textbook.

Both men and women are urged to take the course, for which registrations are being accepted at headquarters, 529 South Wabash avenue.

Mrs. Joseph E. Magnus, volunteer chairman of prisoner of war packaging for the Red Cross, is appealing for an increased number of workers at the center, 349 West Ontario street. The packaging is a five days a week project, with each volunteer serving a minimum of one shift a week. The morning shift is from 9:15 a. m. to 12:15 p. m., and afternoon workers serve from 1:15 to 4 p. m.

Because the packaging program is based on the production line principle, occasional or erratic workers are not desired. The quota must be met 100 per cent daily, making faithful attendance important.

Volunteers wishing to do this important work should apply at the center and be able to supply proof of citizenship and two personal references.

Two new appointments have been announced in the women's volunteer services of the Red Cross, Chicago chapter. Mrs. Arthur Koss is the new vice chairman of the canteen corps, and Mrs. Charles Krutckoff has taken over the duties of vice chairman of production, in charge of the disaster closet.

A new newspaper, to be published bi-monthly by the service men's centers' girls, has made its debut. Miss Florence Jankowski, editor in chief, has left the naming of the publication up to the girls themselves. The masthead of the first issue reads: "Name It!"

The paper originated with the club volunteers meeting at centers 1 and 2. It will feature news items about the young women and the men in uniform visiting the centers.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Wool Dresses Chase Chills on Blustery Days

BY REA SEEGER.

New wool day time dresses are grand chill chasers for stormy weather besides being smart, simple models to wear at hockey and football games. All are cut in figure flattering streamlines in one piece, made of the softest and warmest of woolens, and feature strong colors as contrast for fur lined or fur coats. Jersey, rabbit's-hair woolens, trick knitted fabrics, and smooth or nubby textured flannels offer a wide and cozy choice. The color range is sensational, including good vivid shades, pastels, and in-between neutrals like gray and beige.

One swank knitted fabric is made into a slim dress to emphasize the warm shade of bronze green. High on each shoulder is a bowknot appliqued band of scarlet vermilion. A neutral toned beige rabbit's-hair dress has a shoulder yoke of cocoa brown, another is made of jaunty large check wool with sleeves and back half of the blouse of contrasting colored plain jersey. Still another jersey has concentric bands of varicolored wool rickrack braid from shoulder to hemline.

All these clever casuals are featured in a dress collection assembled expressly for enthusiasts of winter sports. Every dress is slim, smart, and eye catching of color. Interesting details such as braid, yarn, yarn fringe and embroidery, tucked insets, ruching of the fabric, leather buttons, and matching belts keep them interesting without cluttering the slim silhouettes. There are plenty of vivid reds, all kinds of gold shades, many beige and neutral tones, blues, stunning greens and coppers. They are timely arrivals planned to complete any winter wardrobe till spring.

Thru the Looking Glass

Something new under the beauty sun that we approached with a definite "We're from Missouri" attitude not only won our heart but shined up our hair—dingy as the dickens after a bout of grippe—not so long ago. It's a good hair treatment, one that tones up scalp and locks alike, and we have an idea that one treatment or a course will make many a woman realize that even the most difficult, dry locks can be restored to glory if she puts a little time, money, and intelligent effort into the process.

We liked this treatment from start to finish. It is rather spectacular, consisting of a thoro brushing with an electric brush. It was our first experience with this gadget, but not our last, since the long bristled brush, strapped to the operator's hand, gives the scalp the rousing kind of exercise it needs and the hair strands the long, vibratory strokes they need to make them rise and shine! We loved it—and so, we might add, did the limp locks.

Then comes medication. What this is, of course, depends on the individual need—this if the hair is oily, that if it's dry, something else again if the scalp is sheathed in dandruff. Then massage, of course—the expert lifting and rotary movements that you never can give yourself. Third step is a special shampoo, with sponge and fine creamy suds, a tender sort of cleansing operation, and a thoro one, followed by herb rinsing that leaves the hair exquisitely clean and polished. Final step is more medication, with tingly stuff that helps normalize the oil flow.

It's after this, of course, that you have your hair set, and in this shop it's done masterfully. But the treatment itself is what we are excited about. Hair crying for correction is seen everywhere, and the world is full of women distressed about lack of luster, splitting, and lifeless ends and hair that generally lacks vitality. Treatments like these, combining the much needed scalp stimulation, careful and gentle cleansing, and sensible medication geared to the individual needs, are something to hunt down.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

Nothing in bridge holds as much mystery for average players as the matter of timing. They are apt to be not only disgusted but bewildered when a trick they had counted on vanishes before their eyes, and just as bewildered [altho not at all disgusted] when they win a trick they had not counted on. Now they know the explanation—the vagaries of timing. Their next step should be to investigate this "phenomenon" more thoroly, and to that end I suggest the following deal as a good beginning.

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K 9 8 5 4
♥ A 4 3
♦ 6 5 2
♣ 8 4

WEST
♠ A Q J
♥ J 10 9 7 5

SOUTH

♦ A K 7 3
♣ A Q 7 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 heart	1 spade	Pass
3 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

West led the heart jack and declarer won with the king. The spade six was led toward dummy, and West, who knew a thing or two about timing, played the jack. Superficially, West had two and only two spade tricks and stoppers whether he went up with the ace on the first round or not, but, as we shall see, his actual ducking play was essential.

Declarer, who knew very little about timing, captured West's spade jack with dummy's king—and that was the last spade trick he could win! He could, if he wished, lead a second round to drive out West's queen, but in order to drive out the ace he would have to enter dummy with the heart ace, and that would be his last entry to dummy.

Actually, South felt he had done well when he ended up with eight tricks, having forced West to lead a club to the major tenace.

If West, on the philosophy of "What's the difference?" had put up the spade ace immediately, declarer would almost have been forced to fulfill his contract. West could do no better than return a heart. Declarer would win in his own hand, lead his remaining spade to the king, then play a third round. The 3-3 break would leave two perfectly good spades in dummy, to be reached via the heart ace.

Thus, West's ducking play was vital, but declarer could have countered it with the greatest of ease! All he had to do was let West hold the trick with the jack! See the difference? Now when West led another heart [nothing else would matter], declarer would win in his own hand and lead the spade he had so carefully preserved. If this time West put up the ace, dummy's suit would be ready for cashing; if West again ducked, the king would win and a third round would wind up the affair.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 18.—John Considine's back in his stride with three stories at Metro. Seattle will be glamorized in the gold rush days, and gosh, how he'd like to have Walter Pidgeon, Lana Turner, and Myrna Loy for it—as who wouldn't! Then he's doing "Mrs. Stanford"—the only woman who ever built a university. She built it twice—once after the San Francisco earthquake, when she'd nearly gone broke. Quite apart, that. Another is "Hold High the Torch"—a dog story, with Margaret O'Brien, done in color. Johnny produced "Sequoia"—remember? . . . Nice to see Bob Milton at RKO. He's dialog director and consultant on "International Zone."

What Next?

Katherine Dunham and dancers signed for Andy Stone's "Sensations of 1944." Andy's scouring the country for original acts, whether animal, mineral, or vegetable. He's rounding up a bunch of girls to dive into a pool covered with burning gasoline. . . . Bonita Granville and George Raft want you to know it's not romance that takes them together to the night clubs—it's merely friendship and business. Ha, ha! . . . Sorry Vincent Youmans canceled "Life of Tschaikowsky" on silver screen. . . . George Balanchine has arrived to spend Thanksgiving with Zorina. . . . Marilynn Day headed a fan club for Gloria Jean, then decided on a career of her own. Went to New York, somebody heard her sing, Universal signed her, and she'll be in Gloria Jean's next picture.

What—Again?

Since June Havoc's still in New York, Venita Oakie came on the set of "It Happened Tomorrow" on Jack's birthday with a great big present. They'll probably reconcile for a week anyway. Venita was asked if she thought she could take the place of June Havoc. "Why not?" said she. "I'm still married to the guy." Jack still refuses to do any entertainment in army camps or Hollywood canteen. . . . I knew Merle Oberon had no intention of returning to England, even tho she announces before each production this will be her last picture here. She's landed George Sand, opposite Paul Muni, in "Night We Dream," which Frank Capra wanted to do before the war with Marlene Dietrich.

Need More Like Him.

We haven't heard much lately about "Buy a Bed for a Buddy" and how many beds were bought with money raised in motion picture theaters, but Phil Goldstone, our least publicized independent producer, has remodeled an annex to the old Alexander hotel and 1,200 beds, a canteen, showers, baths, and other facilities are being turned over free to men in uniform. He's also deep in plans for a maternity hospital which will be free for wives of men in service, as a memorial to his mother. Quite a guy, Phil Goldstone. . . . What goes on? Maria Montez claims a makeup man slapped her so hard while putting on her makeup that it brought tears to her eyes and almost gave her hysterics. In my picture days, makeup men were the gentlest, most patient, godlike creatures in any studio.

Mat Says Welcome.

Bob Weitman of New York's Paramount theater leaves for our town the end of the month to line up bands and personalities for his theater. It's usually other way 'round. He gets 'em first. Didn't he start Sinatra off on the road to—O, let's be big and call it glory! . . . Paramount signed Stan Thompson from Metro's drafting department. He'll turn actor with Betty Hutton in "Incendiary Blonde." . . . Anna Lee brought me one of Mussolini's Fascist hats from her four months' overseas entertaining job. She wanted to bring me an Egyptian fez, but didn't think she could carry lice into America. Day after her arrival here, she started discussing a new picture, "The Moon Is My Mistress." Says, "I'd like to get three pictures under my belt, then take off again." . . . Anne Shirley will play opposite Mike O'Shea in "The Man from Frisco." With Vic Mature, she still sticks to the sea.

Bible Reading Crusade to Be Started Dec. 1

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The time was when the Bible had to be chained down when people read it. Copies were rare and valuable. People read the book avidly. Today there are plenty of Bibles, altho the Oxford Press and other printers are restricted by paper rationing despite unprecedented demands for new copies. These copies are sought not only by service men but also in preparation for the two weeks' Bible Reading crusade to begin Dec. 1.

Dr. Robert Taylor, executive of the Chicago Bible society, which is sponsoring the Bible reading campaign, said that if necessary surplus used Bibles in good condition could be collected for redistribution during the campaign. He said calls on the society for the book exceed last year's demands by 40 per cent and that 5 million copies, either of the New Testament or the entire Bible, have been distributed among service men and women.

The crusade program begins with a call for at least 100,000 persons in the metropolitan area to read the same chapters of the Bible each day for 15 days. These chapters will be distributed in a special booklet. The second point calls for enlistment of persons in a permanent program of Bible reading. Others include local church surveys of Bible reading habits of members and visitations of church neighborhoods to distribute "The 15 Great Chapters" booklet.

The Rev. Dr. Howard A. Vernon, pastor of Englewood Baptist church for the last 13 years and president of the Chicago Church federation in 1941-'42, announced his resignation yesterday, to take effect Jan. 9. He said he will accept the pastorate of Community church in Brainerd, Minn. In the last year, Dr. Vernon's health required him to spend many weeks in Florida. Rather than retire completely from active ministerial work, he decided to return to his former home state and accept leadership of a smaller congregation.

Before coming to Chicago in 1931, Dr. Vernon had served congregations in Cincinnati, O., Cleveland, O., and Minneapolis, Minn. The congregation of the Englewood church regretfully accepted his resignation at a meeting Wednesday night.

Otto Hapsburg of Austria, who calls himself archduke and is pretender to the nonexistent throne of Austria-Hungary, will be the speaker at the Charles Carroll forum at 3:30 p. m. Sunday in the Morrison hotel. He holds doctorate degrees in political science and economics from European universities and converses fluently in six languages in addition to English. Dr. Paul Kiniery of Loyola university will preside over the forum, which will include a question period. The subject will be "Europe in Revolt."

Lecture at Museum.

Robert Friers, former newspaper correspondent in Central and South America, will lecture on "Wheels Over the Andes" at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Field museum.

FASHIONS
By Angela

The teen-age miss must not forgo the pleasure of dressing up for her yuletide dancing parties, and the youthful white net confections are the answer to what will be worn.

A most becoming white net evening dress [left] of extreme decolletage is trimmed with narrow ribbonlike silver banding. The full skirt has three rows of this decorative treatment, which is repeated in the fitted bodice and shoulder straps. A rustling white taffeta slip completes the picture.

Definitely a coverup dress for dancing but one of striking beauty is a combination of shiny black jersey and white net [center]. The sweetheart neckline and the shirred and softly draped bodice are flattering. The full net skirt has huge red velvet roses appliqued across the front. Two of the flowers are appliqued at the waistline.

Another white net gown [right] has a shirred and fitted bodice with a narrow ruching around the top. In the top section of the white taffeta slip are tiny stays which hug the figure and prevent any catastrophe in case one chooses to wear it as a strapless evening dress. A vivid red sequins butterfly is set on the upper left corner of the front of the waist.

Religious News Notes

When a service man calls a place paradise you ask no questions. You know he has gone thru the hell of war and he is in earnest when he calls the Lutheran service center a paradise.

One day a young soldier walked into the Lutheran service center at Spokane, Wash. A service pastor's wife greeted him, and to her he opened his heart. He had been thru Pearl Harbor, two cousins had fallen at his side, then his buddy and his brother. He himself escaped with bad wounds.

"I can hardly realize they are dead," he said. "It was terrible."

Days passed and the soldier returned. "I want to express thanks for the Lutheran center. It is a real heaven on earth to service men. Some of them call it 'paradise.'"—Marcella Benson, writing in the National Lutheran council news bulletin.

Sunday morning will be climactic in the centennial celebration of St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church, Fullerton parkway and Orchard street, with Dr. Louis W. Goebel, national president of the Evangelical and Reformed church, as preacher. . . . Dr. Goebel also will speak at a German service at 3 p. m. Sunday. Dr. Gerhard W. Grauer, pastor, announces the centennial dinner for Tuesday night at the Hotel Sherman. . . . The Washington Heights Methodist church is preparing a birthday present for its pastor, who will be 87 years old next February. He is the Rev. Dr. John Norris Hall, probably the senior active minister in the Chicago area. The present will be a burned mortgage of all indebtedness against the church. . . . First 1943 Thanksgiving announcement: The Salvation Army territorial staff band and choristers will give a Thanksgiving concert at the Temple corps, 1512 West Madison street, Thanksgiving night. Frank Fowler of New York, bass, will be guest artist. . . . The Moody Memorial Church choir will give a Thanksgiving concert Thursday night under the new director of music, Gilbert C. Peterson. . . . Dr. Armin G. Weng, president of the Illinois synod, United Lutheran church, and secretary of the National Lutheran council, announces a growth of 64,486 baptized members in the 17 general Lutheran bodies of the country during 1942. The three largest groups are United Lutheran church, with 1,731,000 members; Synodical conference with five general bodies, 1,683,000 members, and the American Lutheran conference, five groups, 1,621,000 members. Six independent groups have a total of 72,000 members.

Bishop G. Ashton Oldham of the Episcopal diocese of Albany, N. Y., will be the preacher at the Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall, Sunday night. Piatigorsky and Defauw Please Large Audience

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Désiré Defauw conducting; Gregor Piatigorsky, violoncellist. Presented at Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Nov. 18, 1943, and scheduled for repetition Friday afternoon. The program:

Symphony No. 2..............Carpenter
[First performance in Chicago.]
Concerto for violoncello, B flat major,
Op. 34 ....Boccherini
"Schelomo," Hebrew rhapsody for violoncello and orchestra........Bloch
Symphony No. 1, Opus 10.Shostakovich

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

It was a crowded night at Orchestra hall, with the magnificent cellist, Gregor Piatigorsky, appearing twice as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra on a program which also held the first Chicago performance of John Alden Carpenter's Second Symphony, and some of the most satisfactory work so far displayed by the orchestra's new conductor, Désiré Defauw.

Mr. Defauw opened the long concert with the Carpenter symphony, a facile and lyrical work derived in part from a piano quintet which has left its indelible imprint on the orchestral enlargement. It is light in mood, with an interesting slow movement and a finale reminiscent of some of the composer's more brilliant songs. Mr. Defauw's performance was clear and relaxed, and these qualities led to agreeable playing in which the orchestra captured the unimposing but persuasive dimensions of the score.

Mr. Piatigorsky, sandwiched between the Carpenter novelty and the crackling Shostakovich First, was playing the Boccherini Concerto and the Bloch rhapsody, "Schelomo," with which he adorned an Orchestra hall program six seasons ago. As the giant Russian is unquestionably the greatest cellist known to contemporary concerts, the real curiosity of the evening centered on how Mr. Defauw would accompany him. The answer took off in two directions.

For the 18th century Italian score the orchestra was so discreet as to be almost nonexistent, but at least its pale hues did not damage the mellowed loveliness, the edgeless velvet of the Piatigorsky tone, nor did they violate the sensitive and supple splendor of his phrasing. It was simply that you felt you had grown a little deaf and could hear only the solo instrument. But in the Bloch, you weren't deaf, just disappointed. This particular song of Solomon turns the orchestra into a quivering, vibrating mass of sensitivity, a huge instrument the conductor strums almost like a harp, and thru which the deep voice of the wise man rolls in Hebraic splendor. That effect was achieved only in part last night. Mr. Piatigorsky played superbly, but there was back of him no orchestral tapestry to dazzle the ear and focus the stellar sound. There were moments when it almost happened, moments of bite and climactic impetus, but for the most part the orchestra sounded unwieldy.

The length of Mr. Defauw's programs is not compatible with war time deadlines, and I could hear only a part of the Shostakovich. It began clearly but rather heavily, without the insouciance associated with the score, and the second movement, which started to bubble, rushed into harshness at the close. Further than that, deponent knoweth not.

Children Often Are Seized by Sudden Fears

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Said a great-grandmother to me one day this fall: "I've just had a letter from John and he told the funniest, cunningest story about little Carl—who was 2 in June.

"Carl, you know, is a fearless little boy. He's never been afraid of the dark; he's used to the country and animals, and he's not skittery or nervous at all.

"Well, it seems John was upstairs in his study when suddenly he heard a series of agonizing, terrified shrieks from Carl, who a moment before had been playing contentedly around a big rock.

"John rushed downstairs and out of the door, where he bumped into his wife.

"'Stop,' she said and pointed. 'Just look!'

"John checked his headlong rush and looked. There, on the top of the flat rock, stood little Carl, shrieking with terror and fiercely battling three butterflies! It was awfully funny, at the same time it was pitiful, John said."

Children, like dogs, are unpredictable in their fears. When they're little you can't tell what obviously harmless mechanism, creature, movement, appearance of objects, or noises will frighten them.

The point, however, is that the child was terrified, and needed immediate reassurance, and later on familiarity with the closeness of the delicate butterflies.

No purpose is served when we say, "How ridiculous! What a silly thing to be afraid of! How could it possibly hurt him!"

You may know a lot about what will or will not hurt your small child. But he doesn't know it. His experience is limited. Objects and noises do not necessarily appear to him as they do to you. To be impatient, to call these fears nonsense, or to ridicule a child for having them is a form of unkindness.

Try to understand your child's fears. But whether you do or not, treat them intelligently, and him kindly, until they have momentarily passed or he has outgrown them.

Here Is Way, Girls, to Rate as Good Date

BY MAUREEN DALY.
[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

He may like the way you talk, the way you walk, and the way you wear your hair.

on the SOLID side

He thinks you're sweet as sugar, neatly stacked, lovely to look at, delightful to know, and—well, all that and heaven, too. So don't spoil it. You're just what he wants. Fellows like their girls to be sweet—but they like to think that that kind of sweetness is slightly rationed. No boy becomes aglow over a girl—even if she's fancy variety—if he thinks she's up for grabs, willing to work for cakes and coffee. No fellow likes his pickings that easy.

Every girl has to make her own decisions about necking, come high school and dating, but do a little serious thinking before you climb over to your side of the fence. There are several angles to consider, but take it strictly from the point of view of how it may affect your dating status. You may think your affairs are strictly private, but a little necking goes a long way, and as time goes by the story will get around that you're a pretty fast young filly. It's the kind of story that's hard to stop, even tho you do decide to pull in your horns and play hard to get later on.

Once you've put in the groundwork it's hard to back track. All the fellows who used to want to take you out because you were a good dancer, pleasant to talk with, or fun to be with will change their attitudes, and from then on their interest may be strictly from hunger. They may figure that tho you're not the slick chick they once thought you were—at least you'll do in a clinch.

It's a bad risk to take—this necking business—because a reputation for fastness is something that's hard to shake. Once a zombie, always a zombie. You don't want to be marked as just anybody's hot date, so take it easy. Fellows like their girls smooth—that's for sure—but they don't like them worn smooth!

White Collar GIRL

Hospitality.

Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, famed director of the Frontier Nursing service, is a resourceful person, as well you may guess. Miles of Kentucky mountains, epidemics, and lack of medical equipment—these she has been capable of overcoming.

In Chicago last week she was stumped. What she wanted, on her arrival, was a warm bath and a few moments of quiet to prepare herself for a noonday talk. But there was no room available at the Drake and, not sure just what to do next, she wandered into the beauty shop in the hotel. The proprietor, Suzanne King, looked thoughtfully at the tired traveler, then ushered her into a private suite—Mrs. King's own rooms—where a bath and quiet and a cup of hot coffee were graciously provided.

An hour or so later when a car stopped before the hotel to pick up the notable visitor, it was a refreshed Mary Breckinridge who stepped out of the door, grateful for the hospitality she had found so unexpectedly and delightfully.

How to Discard Your Purse.

The I. C. suburban branch is now measuring its women trainmen for trousers to complete their railroading costumes. Now, you Casey Joneses, a few words of advice regarding your new pants and your outmoded, oversized purses:

In a man's world, pockets are really storage places. Your complete uniform [trousers, vest, and coat] will give you a total of 13 pockets! That's a lot of pouches to fill with your paraphernalia!

Your pants pockets can be organized thus: right side pocket carries loose change; left pocket is only for the new pennies; right hand hip pocket is for man-sized handkerchief, but don't put hankies in the left hand hip pocket, because it is buttoned and you never will be able to whip out your handkerchief in time to beat a sneaking sneeze to a successful finish; watch pocket, on the right hand side directly beneath the belt line, is intended for your timepiece—no true railroader signals a train off with a petite wrist watch.

The vest has two upper and lower sets of pockets where a fair amount of your purse's cosmetic department can be stored snugly. As for the coat, into the right hand pocket goes the ticket punch and the cash fare receipt book. You also will note a small extra change pocket sewed within the lining. The left hand coat pocket is for cigarets and "firebrands."

After two months in masculine attire, your hands will become automatically purse free—and you will want to adopt this costume permanently. ALEXANDER BEIFUSS.

It's Easy to Add or Cut Weight, Doctor Asserts

Any obese person can lose excess weight on a low calorie diet, and a thin individual can gain weight with even less difficulty, Dr. Edward H. Rynearson, a consultant in the division of medicine in the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., said yesterday at a nutrition conference held at the Stevens hotel by the Institute of Medicine of Chicago.

"The only source of fat is food," Dr. Rynearson said. "Numberless individuals, by virtue of heredity, are more likely to be obese than others, and a very few are obese because of a disturbance of an endocrine gland. But the only successful treatment is to restrict the intake of calories to a point below their expenditure. The law of energy exchange cannot be circumvented.

"This permits two statements: First, with rare exceptions, treatment with preparations obtained from endocrine glands is worthless; second, regardless of the basis of obesity, no obese patient has ever lived who would not lose weight on a carefully planned low calorie diet.

"The problem of the underweight individuals who are 'naturally thin' is less troublesome. The fact that they actually eat fewer calories than their fat friends, and certainly engage in more nervous and purposeless movements, contributes to their remaining thin. If these individuals will decrease their expenditure of energy and will increase their intake of calories, they will gain in weight."

Mineral oil, which can be purchased without ration points, is coming into use as a cooking oil and is "arousing much concern," Dr. Russell M. Wilder of the Mayo clinic and chief of the civilian food requirements branch of the war food administration, stated in a paper prepared for delivery before the conference last night.

"Mineral oil, which is so much used as a laxative, and still more unwisely is sometimes used in so-called slenderizing salad dressing, dissolves the fat soluble vitamins in the bowel and interferes with their absorption," Dr. Wilder reported.

"Since the rationing of fats, this oil, which requires no ration points, has been used in place of fat in frying potato chips and doughnuts, or even in place of shortening in baked goods."

Commission to Study Higher Education in State Meets Tuesday

A 15 member commission named to survey higher education in Illinois and report to the legislature will organize in Springfield Tuesday, Chicago members were informed yesterday.

Notices of the meeting were signed by Sen. Everett Peters [R., 24th], of St. Joseph, a backer of the move for appointment of the commission, set up after the last legislature refused to convert Southern Illinois Normal university at Carbondale into a proposed University of Southern Illinois. The commission is to report by March 1, 1945, on possible improvements for higher education.

Gov. Green has named five public members of the commission to work with five members named by the senate and five by the house of representatives previously named. The five public members include three from Chicago, William F. Clarke, dean of the DePaul university law school; Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the Association of Commerce, and Mrs. Henry C. Dormitzer, chairman of the public education committee of the Woman's City club. Other members are Charles M. Burgess, Aurora industrialist and president of the Aurora board of education, and Russell Malan, Harrisburg superintendent of schools.

Office Worker Again Carries His Lunch Kit

Housewives have new duties to perform now that many of Chicago's white collar workers have started carrying box lunches as a means of saving money and time, it was revealed yesterday in a TRIBUNE survey.

The increase in the number of patrons in loop and near north side restaurants, as well as the decrease of help in eating places, have stimulated the return to the old fashioned lunch kit. Workers contacted in the survey agreed that by carrying their own lunches they save more than half an hour each day and can use the extra time to take short walks, read, talk, or bowl. All said they save money and get more substantial lunches than they could afford in restaurants.

But the women who pack the lunches reported that the practice places an additional burden on the families' ration points, reducing the amount of meat served at home in order to provide the man of the family with a meat sandwich for lunch. Most housewives said they sometimes substitute peanut butter, jelly, or nonrationed sandwich spreads for meat. Others said they order the meat "sliced very thin" when they purchase it.

Another argument against lunch carrying, reported housewives, is the fact that the packer must rise earlier in the morning to prepare it.

The survey revealed that the man of today eats a more balanced lunch than did his father. Most lunch boxes carried by office workers include celery, pickles or olives, sandwiches, fruit, and dessert. Most workers reported they were able to purchase hot coffee or soup at lunch counters near their places of business. A few said they carried tin lunch boxes and thermos bottles.

Name First 50 to Temporary Teacher Posts

More than 50 temporary teachers have been appointed to fill elementary school vacancies, Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of city schools, reported yesterday. The assignments were made from the regular list of eligible applicants. They are the first of 500 authorized this week by the board of education.

Thirty appointments were to physical education jobs, Mr. Johnson said. Most of these teachers have taken special physical education courses offered by the board. Some of them were used as substitute teachers last year.

The board authorized the 500 appointments when it appeared that substitutes could not be depended on to fill vacancies. Higher wages of other work reduced the list of substitutes. The authorization was announced by James B. McCahey, board president, after emergency board action taken without a formal meeting.

The temporary teachers will receive regular pay and other regular teacher benefits, but will be subject to dismissal when regular teachers return from leaves of absence. Many have left for war service.

BLACKHAWKS BEAT BRUINS, 7-3; 4TH IN ROW

ALL-STAR BOWLING TOURNEY ENTRIES CLOSE TONIGHT

CHICAGO ROUND ROBIN EVENTS NEXT TO OPEN

Start Tomorrow on Five Alleys.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Tonight is the deadline for the Chicago qualifying trials in the third annual All-Star National individual match game bowling tournament, to be presented by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America over the lanes of the Auditorium service men's center from Dec. 4 thru 12.

Bill Hargadon, captain of the Meister Braus of the Classic league, rolled games of 242, 206, and 236 for a series of 684 at Bowling Lanes last night. That score gave him first place in the preliminary tournament at that center.

Any bowler in Chicago is eligible to compete in the tests at the five designated centers thruout the city, providing he goes to the line before midnight tonight. The fee for entering is $2 and bowling. Each of the five qualifying stages has for several weeks been carrying a permanent scoreboard listing the names of the top eight scorers in three game, total pin series. Tonight is your last opportunity to crowd into the high octet at any of the five sites, since the final round robins will begin tomorrow afternoon.

Eight Bowl at Each Center.

These round robins will send the eight leading scorers for the three game series in each of the five establishments into match play, consisting of seven four-game blocks wherein the bowler will meet all of his rival qualifiers. The two leaders in each plant at the conclusion of round robin competition will gain places in the grand finals over the Auditorium alleys next month.

The round robin blocks will be rolled at each of the five centers tomorrow afternoon and evening, Sunday afternoon and evening, the afternoon and evening of Saturday, Nov. 27, and the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 28. Each afternoon series must begin at 2 o'clock and each evening set at 7 o'clock. In the event that a contestant is unable to appear for all seven blocks, he shall be permitted to have a substitute bowl for him in two of the seven.

These Are Centers.

The five centers where the three game qualifying series have been bowled for the last several weeks, together with their operators and addresses follow:

BOWLING LANES—5221 Broadway, Ralph Olsen and Jack Samuelson.

CASCADE—3825 West Madison street, Lloyd Wevang.

GARDEN RECREATION—4074 Milwaukee avenue, Lyman Bolger and Michael Hechinger.

MONTE CARLO—2263 North Lincoln avenue, Al Long.

ROSE BOWL—11517 South Michigan avenue, Paul Young.

For the benefit of late comers who wish to know what scores they will have to beat today or tonight in order to gain the select eight at each of the five centers, these figures follow: Bowling Lanes, Les Flannery, 622; Cascade, Johnny Small, 597; Garden Recreation, George Bauer, 595; Monte Carlo, Ray Durdin, 593, and Rose Bowl, Boone Larocca, 656.

The Rose Bowl has been the liveliest center of the five, Paul Young reporting 320 entries until yesterday noon.

Connie Schwoegler, the Madison, Wis., star who won the 1942 championship, announced yesterday that he would not defend the title. Schwoegler had asked for a cash guarantee, which the All-Star committee did not see fit to give him.

ZIVIC UNABLE TO FIGHT; SUB WINS DECISION

MONTGOMERY AND BEAU JACK TO BOX TONIGHT

New York, Nov. 18 (AP).—Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack will meet tomorrow in Madison Square Garden with the New York lightweight boxing championship at stake. This 15 round encounter will be the first title bout in the arena since Montgomery, now the defending champion, took the crown away from Jack last May. The National Boxing association recognizes Sammy Angott as the lightweight title holder.

Promoter Mike Jacobs anticipates a crowd of approximately 18,000, with a gate of at least $90,000 and possibly over $100,000. Montgomery is generally favored to win easily, the odds on him being 1 to 3.

WILDCATS EYE ILLINI'S EDDIES WITH CONCERN

McGovern and Bray Expected to Score.

Leahy on Preview

LT. BUD WILKINSON, assistant football coach of the Iowa Navy Preflight school, and Frank Leahy, athletic director and head coach of Notre Dame, will be guests of Arch Ward on his Sports Preview over W-G-N and the Mutual network tonight from 10:45 to 11 o'clock [CWT].

The program will originate in the studios of WSBT in South Bend on the eve of tomorrow's Notre Dame-Iowa Preflight game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Northwestern's Wildcats have seen just about everything except the two Eddies—Bray and McGovern—but they'll see 'em tomorrow in Dyche stadium and preparations proceeded accordingly yesterday. The two Eddies, in case you haven't been keeping up with your football, are the Illini lads who run so fast and with such deception that unless you act quickly you'll see nothing more than the numbers on their backs.

In an effort to arouse his Wildcats from the dopey state into which they slipped after expending themselves against Notre Dame power last week-end, Coach Lynn Waldorf yesterday worked himself into a near state of gloom over the two Illini whipper-snappers, warning his lads repeatedly that tomorrow's foes are a certainty to do some scoring. The solution for this threat, he pointed out, is for the Wildcats to accomplish bigger and better scoring feats.

Recalls 1942 Defeat.

To add a little weight to his warnings about the tricky ways in which the two Eddies have been annoying opponents this fall, Waldorf brought up the unpleasant details of last year's encounter with the Illini. The Wildcats figured they'd win that one, but didn't. They were whipped, 14 to 7, the difference in points being due to a little stunt in which Elmer Engel stole the ball from Nick Vodick and spirited it away to the Northwestern goal, 46 yards distant. Engel no longer is present but the tricks remain.

While Waldorf is professing distress over the prospects, he secretly is figuring that he might be able to give the Illini a dose of their own medicine — that free legging in which the two Eddies specialize. He aims to turn loose Joe Scriba, the closest item to Bray or McGovern possessed by the Wildcats. Scriba, who took the right half post after Herman Frickey went to war, did some fancy sprinting against the hapless Badgers and even reeled off 52 yards against Notre Dame. And, of course, the Wildcats still have Passing Otto Graham.

Last Game for Graham.

Graham probably will bring his collegiate career to a fitting close by attempting to add a few more yards to a passing achievement that already has set a Big Nine record. The Waukegan lad in 24 games as a Wildcat has completed 150 passes out of 315 for 2,115 yards. Alex Kapter, John Gent, Bob Wallis, Hal Hudson, and Herb Hein, who had two seasons of football at Minnesota, also will fade from varsity competition after meeting the two Eddies.

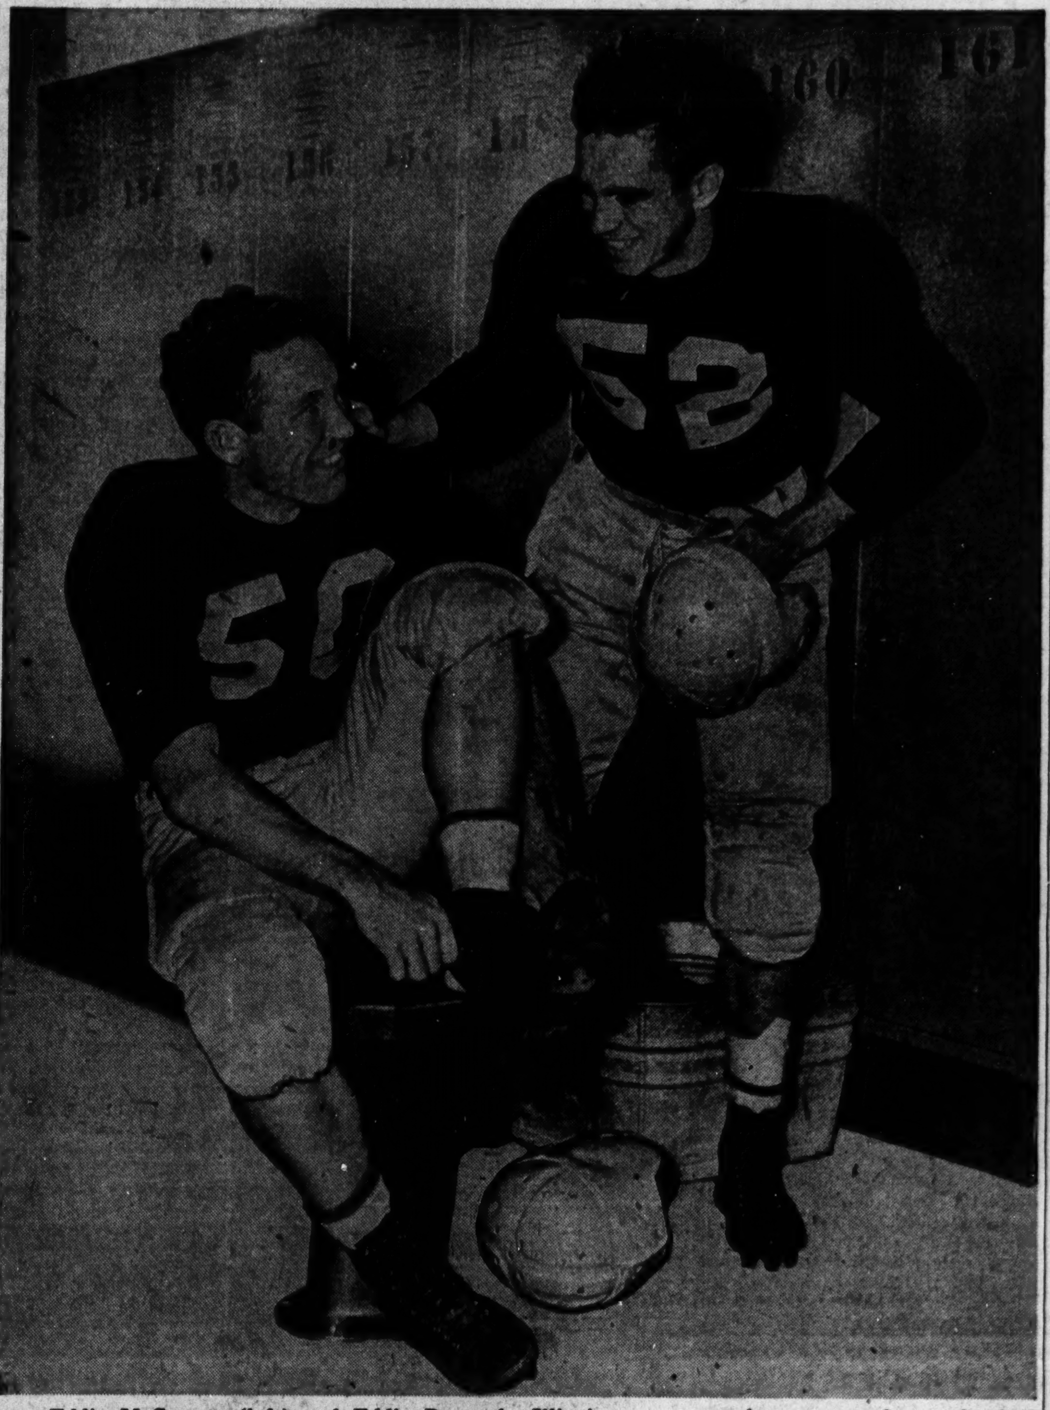
BRAY NAMED CAPTAIN.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 18 (AP).—Star Half Back Eddie Bray, who has recovered from a stomach ailment, was named today by Coach Ray Eliot to captain Illinois' football team against Northwestern Saturday.

Guards Ralph Serpico and Pete Kearney, who have been on the injured list, will make the trip and probably play. Paul Podmajersky will start at left guard, however.

The remainder of the starting lineup will include Buddy Ward and John Hazelett, ends; Pete Perez and Larry Forst, tackles; Jack Curry, right guard; Jack Kane, center; Don Greenwood, quarter back; Eddie Bray and Eddie McGovern, half backs; and Chester Sajnaj, full back.

DOUBLE TROUBLE FOR WILDCATS



Eddie McGovern (left) and Eddie Bray, the Illinois youngsters who get around on a football field, cook up trouble for the Wildcats as they discuss tomorrow's game with Northwestern in Dyche stadium. Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern yesterday warned his squad that Bray and McGovern, star Illini backs, are likely to score and that the Wildcats will have to do a bit of running themselves to win.

MICHIGAN, OHIO TO DRAW 40,000

Tomorrow's Game 40th of Series.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 18.—The dependable crowd getting rivalry between Michigan and Ohio State is up for the 40th decision here Saturday afternoon and a conservative estimate is that 40,000 will watch the Wolverines bid for their first perfect Western conference championship record since 1932.

Few football rivalries have played consistently to such crowds as those the annual battle between Buckeye and Wolverine attracts. In the last 21 games, which constitute the era of big stadia, 1,400,000 have followed these teams. No crowd has been smaller than 40,000 and the average attendance is 67,000, hence 40,000 Saturday may be called bogey but university officials believe more than that number will be here if the weather is favorable.

Michigan now holds five conference victories and if the Wolverines subdue the Buckeyes, as the general public believes they will notwithstanding recent loss of navy stars, they will at least share the title with Purdue. The Boilermakers, however, must pass their test at Indiana. If both contenders are defeated, they still will divide 1943 conference honors.

Beaten Only by Notre Dame.

The only blemish on Michigan's gridiron record was the 35 to 12 defeat by Notre Dame, Oct. 9, but

Crowd of 56,000 Forecast for Notre Dame-Seahawks Battle

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 18 [Special].—The Notre Dame football squad finished heavy work for the Iowa Seahawks this afternoon, going thru a defensive drill against Seahawk plays and then concentrating on a passing attack, which is expected to be the basis of the offense on Saturday.

All of the first stringers are in good shape for the game. No changes are expected in the first two teams, altho Gerry Nord, left end, who has been playing with the third team, may see considerable action, to take advantage of his pass catching ability. Joe Signaigo, second string right guard, will be able to play, with the aid of a special headgear to protect his broken nose.

Herb Jones, Notre Dame ticket manager, today said a capacity crowd of 56,000 would see the game if the weather is favorable.

MAZNICKI WITH SQUAD.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 18 [Special].—As the Iowa Seahawks prepared today to leave for Saturday's game with Notre Dame, members of the coaching staff had not given up hope that Frank Maznicki may be able to see some action against the Irish. Maznicki, former Chicago Bear player who was injured last week against Camp Grant, was included in the 36 man traveling squad named for the trip to South Bend.

NORI REJOINS WARRIORS.

Camp Grant, Ill., Nov. 18 [Special].—Coach Charley Bachman today sent the Camp Grant football squad thru its last hard drill for Saturday's return game with Fort Riley in Rockford. Reino Nori, veteran half back, reported with the information that his leg injury had improved and he may get into the closing battle of the season. That will give Camp Grant another accurate passer.

The Warriors expect to employ aerials to a large extent, with Nori, Bill Burghardt, Bill Reed, and John Andretich doing the tossing. Guard Bob Zimny now remains as the only Warrior not ready to play. Most of today's work consisted of laying out a defense for laterals and reverses employed by Fort Riley which played Camp Grant to a 13 to 13 tie in a previous meeting in Kansas.

TURN DOWN PLEA FOR TRANSFER OF SERVICE GAME

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 (AP).—Undersecretary of War Patterson rejected today a recent plea by Rep. Samuel Weiss [D., Pa.] that the Army-Navy game be played in a metropolitan area where 75,000 could attend. The game is scheduled for West Point, Nov. 27.

Replying to Weiss' letter of Nov. 8, Patterson said he appreciated the candor and public interest expressed, but playing the game in New York, Baltimore, or Philadelphia would be incongruous with the war effort because of transportation and fuel shortages.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The goal-crazy Blackhawks rampaged again last night before 9,885 in Chicago Stadium, this time to win, 7 to 3, over the Boston Bruins. It was their second victory in Chicago in eight nights over the fine but perplexed veterans from Massachusetts, and their fourth National league triumph in a row. In the four successes the Hawks have made a total of 27 goals, and the splurge has lifted them to second place. Until their victory last night the Hawks were tied for second place with Toronto.

The league leading point scorer, Bill Mosienko, lifted his season mark to 16 points as he made the first two goals and later added a pair of assists. His line mate, Doug Bentley, became sole runner-up with a goal and three assists, to swell his total to 15 points.

Dahlstrom, Mosienko Get Two.

Cully Dahlstrom, who made three goals and two assists against the Rangers Sunday night, got busy after Mosienko, Bentley, and Smith had cooled off, and made two goals, a total of five goals and seven points in two successive games. Besides Mosienko's and Dahlstrom's pairs and Bentley's solo, a rookie, Don Campbell, broke in for a marker and so did Defense Man George Allen.

The Hawks were unable to get organized, or maybe they were just teasing, during the two minutes the Bruins were shorthanded after John Wilkinson went into the penalty box at 5:06 of the first period, but they scored a half minute after the Bruins returned to full force. Bentley got the rubber off the left boards in neutral ice, took it across the blue line and passed Clint Smith. He advanced toward the cage, then passed to Mosienko, who caught Goalie Bert Gardiner trying to slide over from the position he had taken in anticipation of a shot from Smith. It was a perfect exposition of three man line play.

Mosienko Does It Again.

The second Hawk and Mosienko goal was not as compact as the first but it was rapid and caused a lot of noise. Smith got the puck to Bentley near the Hawks' cage and little Doug raced across both blue lines then fed to Mosienko, who beat Gardiner from about 10 feet out. The time was 56 seconds of the second period.

Hec Highton's shutout prospects ended at 12:34 of the second period. Herb Cain took a whirling shot at a pass from Dit Clapper and it sailed past Highton to make the count, Chicago, 2; Boston, 1.

With Charley Scherza off the Hawks turned on the power and in 15:06 Bentley took a rebound from a shot by Mosienko and lifted it over the sprawled Gardiner. Smith and Mosienko earned assists. Nineteen seconds after their third goal the Hawks registered their fourth marker. Allen made it on a long shot which caromed off Gardiner's upholstery. Bentley and Mosienko earned assists.

Campbell Makes It 6 to 1.

The score became 5 to 1 for the Hawks in 2:16 of the final period when Dahlstrom scored on an assist by March. One of the rookies, Campbell, made it 6 to 1 when he scored in 3:33 on assists by Johnny Gottselig and Earl Seibert.

The Bruins scored the next two goals in a little more than two and a half minutes. Oscar Aubuchon scored on assists by Busher Jackson and Scherza, and Cain registered his second goal, assisted by Art Jackson and Cowley.

The final goal was scored by Dahlstrom, on assists by Fido Purpur and Mush March.

29 BADGERS ARE PICKED FOR TRIP TO MINNEAPOLIS

Wisconsin Loses Eulberg for Gopher Game.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18 [Special]. —Coach Harry Stuhldreher today selected 29 University of Wisconsin football players for the trip to Minneapolis, where the Badgers face the University of Minnesota on Saturday. The Wisconsin squad will make the trip minus its best end, John Eulberg, who was left at home after aggravating an early season leg injury. The squad:

Ends—Fred Doar, Roger Laubenheimer, Dick Ramlow, Pat Weber. Tackles—Penn Carolan, Dick Prins, Howard Reich, Curt Wohlrabe. Guards—John Davey, Florian Klasinski, Gilbert Pellet, Charles Rowe, Lester Zych. Centers—Joe Keenan, Tom Lacey. Quarter backs—Douglas Hodges, William May, Hugo Vogt. Half backs—Larry Heinz, Don Kindt, Paul McLaughlin, Bob Piper, Arthur Robertson, Clarence Self, Tony Dalsasso, Gordon Taylor. Full backs — Ray Dooney, John Kuenzler, Charles Schoenherr.

The Badger coach said he had again been forced to revamp the Wisconsin lineup for the Gopher game and would start Roger Laubenheimer and Fred Doar at the ends with Dick Prins and Penn Carolan at the tackles. Acting Capt. Joe Keenan will be at center flanked by Guards Charles Rowe and Les Zych.

In the back field Hugo Vogt is a doubtful starter at quarter due to a leg injury. Bill May probably will replace him. Stuhldreher said either Larry Heinz or Art Robertson would start at left half, with the choice between Don Kindt and Bob Piper at right half. John Kuenzler and Ray Dooney will share full back duties, with the former starting.

GOPHERS IN GOOD SHAPE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18 [Special].—Minnesota's football team will be in its best physical shape in a month for the game with Wisconsin Saturday. Loren Palmer, freshman from Laurel, Mont., has recovered from a charley horse, and Bob Graiziger from a leg injury. Palmer is a full back and Graiziger has been used at right guard.

Charles Harvey is coach of the Blue Devils.

INDIANA TAPERS OFF.

Coach Bo McMillin said that the team would be given only a brief drill tomorrow and then rest until game time.

NAMES IOWA SQUAD.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 18 [Special]. —A 26 man squad was named today by Coach Slip Madigan for the University of Iowa's trip to Lincoln where the Hawkeyes will meet Nebraska in their final game of the year Saturday.

Back in uniform for today's practice were Bill Baughman, center, and Bill Gallagher, full back, injured players who had been held out of drills all week.

The probable starting line for Iowa will be Dave Danner and Bill Barbour, ends; Harry Frey and Cozad, tackles; Bob Liddy and Stan Mohrbacher, guards; Bill Baughman, center; Roger Stephens, quarter back; Howard Larson and Henry Terrell, half backs, and Bill Gallagher, full back.

Mount Carmel Favored to Beat St. George for Title

BY FRANK NORRIS.

The old saying, "Anything can happen," is apt to be proved Sunday afternoon when St. George High of Evanston and Mount Carmel meet in Soldiers' field to settle the championship of the Catholic league football race. For a number of reasons, mostly defensive, Mount Carmel has been installed as the favorite.

But the north siders, the only undefeated and untied team in Catholic league competition, have promised to unleash a number of surprises, for victory will automatically send them into the 10th annual Mayor Kelly bowl game on Nov. 27 in the lake front stadium against the City league champion, either Phillips or Steinmetz.

St. George Is Extended.

Where Mount Carmel was pressed only twice in the south section race, once by Leo, which it tied, and once by St. Rita, which it defeated, St. George has been extended five times in scoring six north section victories. In its league opener it barely eked out a 12 to 6 triumph over Fenwick, the defending sectional titleholder. It enjoyed itself to the tune of a 52 to 6 conquest of St. Patrick. St. George then met and defeated Weber, 13 to 7; Loyola, 7 to 0; St. Ignatius, 19 to 12, and St. Philip, 14 to 6.

The St. George line has been consistently outweighed. From end to end the line averages 168⅓ pounds, but to maintain this standard Jack Vainisi at 205 and Roy Pantera at 180, the regular tackles, must stick in there.

In addition to Vainisi and Pantera, the St. George line is composed of George Connolly and Ken Wiltgen, ends, Co-Capt. Jim Nolan and Jerry Fahrenbach, guards, and Jim O'Malley, center. Nolan weighs only 145 and Fahrenbach 150.

Backs Can Pass.

The back field has four acceptable passers and runners in Co-Capt. Marty Wendell, blocking quarter back, the elusive John Alcock, left half, John Pflum, right half, and Dick Ratcliffe, full back. Pflum is a fine runner and Ratcliffe is a hard driving back who supplements his running with his excellent punting and passing.

St. George has scored 176 points in nine games, winning eight and losing one to St. Rita, 13 to 7, in a nonleague game.

NORTH INDIANA PREPS PLAY IN FINAL TONIGHT

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 18 [Special]. — Undefeated South Bend Washington High and twice beaten George Rogers Clark High of Hammond will meet here at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the 14th annual east-west playoff game for the Northern Indiana High School conference football championship before an expected overflow crowd of 15,000.

Washington, representing the eastern division for the third successive season, is the general choice to turn back Clark's challenge. Washington defeated Gary Emerson for the conference title in 1939, but lost to Gary Lew Wallace in the 1941 playoff and to East Chicago Washington last year.

The Panthers beat the Clark Pioneers, 23 to 14, in a game played in Hammond in September, giving the Washington eleven the odds-on ranking.

George McPeek Bowls 300 Game in De Luxe League

George McPeek, member of the Keeley Beers, hit the jackpot in Chicagoland bowling circles last night in the De Luxe Major league matches at De Duxe Recreation when he registered a perfect 300 score in his third game. He wound up with a 678 series.

Derby Will Be Run on May 6, Says Matt Winn

The 1944 Kentucky Derby, the 70th running of the historic race, will be on Saturday, May 6, almost a week later than this year.

Matt Winn, the 82 year old guiding genius of the nation's No. 1 turf event, made the announcement yesterday at the meeting in Chicago of the American Turf association, which controls Churchill Downs, among other racing properties. The date, Winn said, will be subject to approval by the Kentucky state racing commission.

BROWNSONS FACE ST. PATRICKS IN K. OF C. BOWLING

The Brownsons [Meister Braus] tonight will meet St. Patrick's council in the 12 team Knights of Columbus league at Lloyd Wevang's Cascade center, 3825 West Madison street, with a two game lead over the field. The Brownsons swept last week's series with the runner-up Hughes [J. H. McKeown's] team to insure themselves of their present advantage. Jules Sowa of the leaders, with a 677 blast, took the average lead with a 191 plus. Other matches tonight:

Phil Sheridan [C. Kampp & Son] vs. Co-Council; Feehan vs. Bishop Ketteler; Commodore Barry vs. St. Paul [Acme Furnace]; Charles Carroll vs. Hughes [J. H. McKeown], and Hennepin Shields vs. Archbishop Quigley.

The four top teams in the 18 squad Playdium All-Star Ladies' league will gather again tonight, with only one game separating the two leaders. The Logan Square Buicks are in front with a 27-3 record against the Goransons, 26-4. The latter are only two games ahead of the third place deadlock joined by the Pepsi Cola and Double Cola girls.

MICHIGAN AND OHIO WILL PLAY BEFORE 40,000

as Fred Delano, Michigan's sports publicist, pointed out today, "The Irish make us look better every time they play."

Delano also supplied the statistics to show that Michigan's 210 yards from scrimmage against Notre Dame leads all those teams which have fallen before the Irish this season. Illinois, Army, Georgia Tech, and Northwestern follow in order in this dubious classification and Bill Daley, Michigan back, who supplied 135 yards against Notre Dame, actually outgained the team total of any Irish opponent.

Fritz Crisler, Michigan's coach, will not concede the Wolverines supremacy over Ohio State. He seemed sincerely dubious today over the outcome principally because Michigan has lost several of its stars since the opening of the campaign. Latest loss is Elroy Hirsch, the Wolverine's scoring and forward pass leader. Hirsch has a partially severed nerve in his left shoulder which does not permit him to raise his arm.

Nussbaumer Replaces Hirsch.

Bob Nussbaumer, Oak Park, Ill., sophomore who is Michigan's leading ground gainer in the group of backs now active, will replace Hirsch. Wally Dreyer, who won his freshman numeral at Wisconsin last fall, already has replaced Capt. Paul White, transferred by navy order, at right half back. Bob Wiese, full back and game captain Saturday, and Jack Wink, quarter back, complete the Michigan back field.

Bob Derleth, who took over for Merv Pregulman at right tackle when Pregulman left the campus, is the only newcomer in the Michigan line.

Crisler bases his concern over the result of the championship game on the speed of Ohio State's backs, Ernie Parks and Dean Sensanbaugher and the consequent threat at the flanks of the Wolverine line. Moreover, he has been advised by his scouts that since the second half of Ohio State's game with Indiana, the Buckeyes have found themselves on attack.

Perfectionists in Deception.

Ohio State doesn't have a well rounded attack," Crisler said, "but what the Buckeyes do they do well. They are perfectionists in deception and blocking."

The Michigan coach added that practice this week has not been satisfactory because of cold weather and the difficulty in arousing the squad for the final game.

Bears Drill for Baugh and Washington

The problem of stopping the forward passes of Sammy Baugh, star Washington Redskin back, drew the attention of the Chicago Bears yesterday as they prepared for their invasion of the east Sunday. Stopping Baugh is of prime importance, for the Bears seek to clinch the Western division championship Sunday and the right to meet the eastern winner—probably the Redskins —in the National Football league's title playoff Dec. 19.

Team Leaves Today.

Despite two hours of concentration on the problem of Baugh, the Bears aren't thru work for the Redskin game. They'll be at it again this morning in Wrigley field before leaving for Washington this afternoon over the Pennsylvania railroad. Co-Coach Heartly [Hunk] Anderson yesterday said his charges are pass minded, too, and will devote some of today's session to offensive aerial work.

Midwest Teams in East.

The midwest will be without pro football entertainment this weekend. The Cardinals leave the city today for their battle with the New York Giants and the Green Bay Packers also will board an eastbound train for their engagement with the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Detroit Lions are scheduled in Pittsburgh.

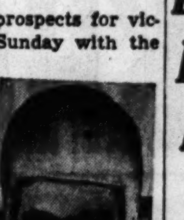
END RETURNS; HOPES RISE AT FORT SHERIDAN

Fort Sheridan's prospects for victory in its game Sunday with the Camp McCoy, Wis., engineers on the Wrigley field gridiron were enhanced yesterday when Right End Dick Gutkowski returned to the team after being sidelined since Oct. 30 with a hand injury.



Markham Smith.

Gutkowski, who comes from Jackson, Mich., is the best defensive end on the squad. He was especially outstanding against the Falks in Milwaukee and against the heavy Patterson field team in Dayton, O.

The play of John Dow, 180 pound end from Hirsch High school, at left end continues to give promise of additional reserve strength at the flanks.

One man who is expected to give Sims some trouble in plunges at the line is Markham Smith, McCoy's 210 pound guard who earned All-New Jersey prep honors while attending high school in Union, N. J.

Service men and women will be admitted free to the game.

MARQUETTE ENDS DRILLS.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 18 [Special].—Defensive drill was stressed at Marquette university football practice today as the Hilltoppers wound up the heavy end of their preparations for Saturday's closing game at Great Lakes.

Signal drill, with the accent on forward passing, concluded the workout. Marquette's entire squad, which now numbers only 35, will make the trip to Saturday's game.

10 BLUEJACKETS NAMED.

Lt. Paul [Tony] Hinkle yesterday named 10 of his Great Lakes starters for Saturday's return game with Marquette at the naval training station. The exception is center, where John Day and Mike Saban, who started against Indiana, have been contesting for the position thrown open by the transfer of Dick Stealy to duty at sea.

The back field will remain the same as that which started against Indiana last week, with Paul Anderson at quarter back, Ray Jones at left half, Emil Sitko at right half, and Dewey Proctor at full back. Ends will be Joe Schwarting and Cecil Pirkey, the tackles George Perpich and Graham Martin, and the guards Russ Letlow and Libero Bertagnolli.

UTILITY IS SUED FOR $3,500,000 BY EX-OFFICIAL

Says He Lied in Probe at Bosses' Behest.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 18 (AP).—Frank J. Boehm, former $54,000 a year utilities executive, today sued North American company, Union Electric company of Missouri, and others for 3½ million dollars in damages, declaring he went to prison because he gave false testimony at the bidding of his superiors.

Boehm, former executive vice president of Union Electric, was convicted of charges of perjury in connection with testimony to securities and exchange commission investigators looking into the company's political practices. He was paroled last March after Presidential commutation of his five year sentence to two years.

In his petition, filed in Circuit court, Boehm alleged the defendants "acting together and for a common purpose engaged in an unlawful conspiracy to defame, slander and libel" him, causing his imprisonment and loss of a job.

He was removed as an officer of the Union Electric company in May, 1939, in the middle of the investigation but was kept as an employe. In January, 1940, both he and Louis Egan, who had been the company's president for about 20 years, were dismissed.

Illinois Is Included.

Boehm also charged that North American, holding company for Union Electric and others, engaged in and caused its subsidiaries to engage in political activities in Missouri, Ohio, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, California, and the District of Columbia and that secret funds in excess of 5 million dollars were collected for this purpose.

In the case of Union Electric, a federal court trial here disclosed collection of a fund of $591,000 and expenditure of a large amount among politicians and office holders. The company was convicted on charges of conspiracy and violation of the corrupt practices section of the holding company act. Egan was convicted of conspiracy charges.

The Supreme court this week refused to review the cases in which a fine of $80,000 was levied on the 250 million dollar untility, and Egan was sentenced to two years in prison. Egan's attorneys, pleading his ill health, today asked probation and suspension of sentence for the 61 year old St. Louisan. The federal court set a hearing on the motion for Dec. 4.

Boehm charged that in Wisconsin, money was spent to defeat Mayor Daniel Hoan of Milwaukee, an advocate of public ownership of electric properties. He also said money was spent against Sen. Robert La Follette and former Gov. Philip La Follette.

The suit stated that in Illinois money was spent to influence the state tax commission and to elect and influence other public officials.

Funds for Political Purposes.

Boehm alleged that he "and other officers of Union Electric and officers of North American and its subsidiaries were instructed, ordered, and required by superior officers in the North American company, under penalty of dismissal, to obtain funds for political purposes by means of kickbacks from attorneys, contractors, and others, as well as by padding of expense accounts and salary kickbacks, which moneys so collected were used for political purposes" and that he "was at all times required, under penalty of dismissal, to keep secret the political activities of such defendants."

In addition to North American and Union Electric, the suit is directed against Mississippi River Power company and Union Electric company of Illinois; Dillon, Read & Company, New York brokerage firm, and members of the New York law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell.

Among the individual defendants are Harrison Williams, chairman of the North American board; John Foster Dulles, a member of the law firm; James F. Fogarty, former president of North American; Edward L. Shea, the present president; Herbert C. Freeman, George Murnane, Robert Sealy, and Frederick Piske, present or former officers or directors of North American; William McClellan, now chairman of the board, and John Woodbridge, a vice president of Union Electric, and Edwin Gushee, a former Union Electric vice president.

Graniteville, S. C., Nov. 18 (AP).—While his wife lay wounded at his feet, Jamie L. Quimby, 58 year old recluse, dressed in the regalia of a fraternal order which included a saber and a Sam Browne belt, barricaded himself in his home and defied officers for two hours today.

Finally, after officers tried unsuccessfully to dislodge him with tear gas, Joe Hinton, a state constable, killed the resplendently clad recluse with a single rifle shot. Quimby was standing at an upper story window.

Early this morning Dr. J. C. Pearce received a telephone call to go to the Quimby home to treat a woman who had been shot. The physician said Quimby would not admit him, and he summoned officers. Quimby met officers at the door, waving a pistol, and shot Sheriff James P. Howard, who later collapsed, and Constable W. P. Thomas. Mrs. Quimby was removed to a hospital.

PROTESTS USE OF ESCALATORS DOWN TO SUBWAY

Protests against the use of subway escalators to carry passengers down instead of up at the evening rush hours were embodied in a letter sent to the city and the elevated lines yesterday by William Ames, chairman of the transportation committee of the Wabash Avenue District association.

The letter said that a passenger transferring from the subway to the elevated structure must, with escalators all leading down, climb the equivalent of seven stories in an office building.

Philip Harrington, subway commissioner for the city, said that experts for the city, the L and the elevator company that installed the escalators were studying the problem and would soon iron out the system's difficulties.

MANY CHICAGO WAR CONTRACT SLASHES, TERMINATIONS MADE

Cancellations Run Billion a Month Thruout U.S.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Output of many war products is being suspended completely or curtailed severely in the Chicago industrial area, spokesmen for the war procurement agencies said yesterday.

Contract cancellations since the beginning of the year run into several hundred million dollars. Plants able to adapt their equipment to other war output have received new government orders. Some plants, however, have been left stranded because they were unable to shift into new production.

War contracts are being canceled at the rate of a billion dollars a month thruout the entire country. New orders are being let at approximately the same rate altho not necessarily to the same plants. Four of every 10 companies engaged in war production have experienced either outright cancellation or a cutback on war orders, it is officially estimated.

Output Peak Believed Past.

With cancellations and new orders about equal, the backlog of outstanding war contracts for the entire country is holding near the 70 billion dollar level. It is expected to turn down in the coming months, however, if the present war trend continues. How soon the down trend will start is uncertain, but the consensus of informed opinion is that the peak of war production requirements has been passed.

There are large surpluses of many war materials on hand. Current production of many strategic materials is running ahead of current requirements. Government procurement agencies already are studying the problem of disposing of surplus materials. The surpluses exist both in raw materials and manufactured items.

Information Is Withheld.

Government procurement agencies are withholding information on individual contract cancellations. Spokesmen describe this policy as a military necessity to keep useful information from the enemy.

The biggest outright cancellations in the Chicago area were tank contracts of International Harvester and Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company. Harvester's contract of 200 million dollars was terminated last March before its plant at Bettendorf, Ia., had begun real production. Pullman was turning out tanks in volume when its contract was canceled recently.

Other items which have been cut back severely include ammunition, small arms and anti-aircraft. New orders being let are largely for artillery, aircraft and rolling equipment. Production at the Gary, Ind., armor plate mill, owned by the government and operated by Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, also has been curtailed severely.

Cancels 514 Contracts.

The Chicago ordnance district has terminated 514 formal contracts in the last year. Of these 346 have been settled and the others are still in negotiation. About 5 per cent of all war contracts are placed thru the Chicago ordnance district, the total now outstanding being in excess of 3 billion dollars.

Other government contracting agencies also have ordered a number of terminations in the area. In addition, there have been severe cutbacks in production in government owned plants.

DECLINE IN HOG RECEIPTS FAILS TO RAISE PRICES

The strain under which live stock markets and packing plants have been working to handle the record receipts from farms eased yesterday when volume decreased. The tapering off was attributed partly to pressure on prices and the embargo on shipments into St. Paul, where volume had been extremely large.

The decline in shipments was not sufficient to lift hog prices off the "floor." Some classes of meat animals advanced, but others declined because of carryovers by packers from the large numbers unloaded by farmers earlier in the week. The majority of hogs were steady at the floor price, where they have been for nine days. Some packing sows advanced 5 to 10 cents.

Eastern buyers paid steady prices for best steers and yearlings, but others were bought at weak to 25 cents lower. Strong to 25 cents higher prices were paid for most sheep and lambs.

ADDRESS F B 294, TRIBUNE

LACK OF POLICY IN WAR-PEACE SHIFT ASSAILED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Lack of an overall government policy in the cancellation of war contracts and in the abandonment of ordnance plants was criticized today in a report to the senate from a special committee on post-war economic policy and planning.

The committee, headed by Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], outlined tentative recommendations for a settled policy for demobilization and reconversion of industry. It suggested creation of a central agency to coördinate the various problems and correlate activities of various agencies that would be involved in the reconversion task. The preliminary report also discussed disposal of surplus plants and property, and cancellation of contracts. The reconversion problem has been pointed up recently by the closing of several ammunition plants.

Some Proved Unnecessary.

Some war plants which had been constructed were proving unnecessary, the George report said. The recent Milwaukee ordnance plant closure was believed to be an example.

The huge Utah ordnance plant at Salt Lake City, also manufacturing small arms ammunition, was closed recently, apparently because of a surplus caused by overconstruction.

The large accumulation of such ammunition has also led to the cessation of production at plants in Cumberland, Md., and Eau Clair, Wis., both of which have been, or are being, converted to manufacture products for the rubber program.

The charge has been made that faulty war department planning led to overconstruction and consequent overproduction of certain types of munitions, but the George report attributed the closing of costly war plants to the "changing fortunes of war."

Job Being Done Piece-Meal.

Some progress has been made in converting such plants to other war uses and in some cases to civilian uses, the report said, but the conversion is "being done piece-meal, without coördination between the services and without any real consideration of its impact upon the civilian economy."

Other findings included:

"That the government has already found it necessary to cancel 10,000 contracts.

"That the settlement of these canceled contracts by various governmental agencies is being made without any well defined over-all policy.

"That large surpluses of movable property have been accumulated by various branches of the services.

"That these surpluses are now being disposed of by the agencies having them without any coördinated policy and without any real consideration of the impact upon the national economy."

Must Decide Use of Plants.

All these problems will be heightened when the war ends, the committee added.

"Determination as to the disposition of hundreds of government-owned war plants would have to be made," it said, "and surplus goods would have to be disposed of in a quantity so vast that it could well disrupt the American economy for years to come."

Speedy conversion from war to peace will be almost as important as was the speedy conversion from peace to war, the report continued, to keep down unemployment, restore the civilian economy, permit private enterprise to function freely and speedily, and relax war controls rapidly.

Meantime, a war production board preliminary study said munitions production had a small gain in October. WPB officials said the full report probably would show a further down trend in manufacture of small arms ammunition and combat and motor vehicles.

WMC TO DECIDE NOV. 26 ON WORK WEEK IN CHICAGO

Chicago will know Nov. 26 whether its business and industries will be placed under a mandatory 48 hour week by the war man power commission, William H. Spencer, regional director, said yesterday. Under a recent Washington order, he must install the 48 hour week here or show why he should not do so, by Dec. 1.

Spencer has indicated he may place the larger war industries and perhaps certain others on the long week, exempting those which would not add to the tightening skilled labor pool by releasing part of their workers.

Chicago Area Department Store Sales Rise 13 Pct.

Department store sales in the 7th federal reserve [Chicago] district in the week ended Nov. 13 rose 13 per cent over those of the corresponding week last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Sales in Chicago increased 16 per cent, and those in Indianapolis, Milwaukee, and Detroit, 28, 22, and 3 per cent respectively.

Plant Changes to Be Ruthless, Wilson Warns

Boston, Mass., Nov. 18 (AP).—Cancellation of war contracts, which may seriously disrupt the economy of affected communities, is inevitable and will increase as the demands of the war fronts change, Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the war production board, warned today.

In an address before the governors' conference of the second New England war conference, Wilson said the decisions to shift production must be ruthlessly made, whatever the cost to segments of the home front.

Must Respond to Demands.

"Our industrial system must be immediately responsive to each alteration in the demands of the fighting fronts," Wilson said. "There is no appeal from the test of battle. The changes called for by that test have to be made, and have to be made at once, no matter what the cost."

A year ago, Wilson said, our production was geared to the impending campaign in North Africa. Today, our production is massed behind the campaigns in Italy, the Pacific area, and the "thinking on the west coast of Europe."

Motive Is to Benefit.

"When cutbacks [in specific items] are ordered in Washington, the motive is always the same," he asserted. "It is the benefit of the war effort as a whole. The plant may be left idle. A genuine hardship may be worked on the community, but we dare not allow such considerations to diminish the supply of munitions.

"There is no use trying to sugarcoat the pill. This war job is a grim thing. It was not designed to spread prosperity or make employment. It was designed to win a war, and for no other purpose.

"While everything possible will be done to minimize the local effects of these cuts, the simple fact remains that the shocks which the cutbacks bring are the price we have to pay."

ASKS FAIR TREATMENT

New York, Nov. 18 (AP).—Prompt and equitable settlement of war contracts upon termination was urged today by Cloud Wampler, president of the Carrier corporation, manufacturing concern. "The overnight unfreezing of working capital will be of special importance to small business," Wampler said in a speech before the New York Rotary club.

Thousands of small businesses will have financial resources tied up in war work and be unable to turn to civilian output unless these resources can be released, he said.

"When war came to America our government said to industry: Give us all you've got and quick," Wampler asserted. "And we did. Action was needed and to hell with formalities.

"When peace comes the situation will be reversed. And it will be a crying shame if government does not treat industry at least as well in the matter of immediate assistance as industry treated government."

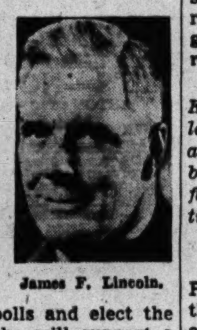
FREEDOM LOST TO EDICT RULE, LINCOLN SAYS

Explains His Fight on Renegotiation.

The "vaunted freedom of the American people is gone," and the nation is under the control of a government by edict, James F. Lincoln, president of the Lincoln Electric company, Cleveland, O., asserted last night. He said if this control is temporary, the nation's liberties will return, but if not the voters must go to the polls and elect the kind of people who will support a democratic type of government.



James F. Lincoln.

Lincoln, who recently defied the navy department's order directing his company to refund $3,250,000 in alleged excess profits to the government, spoke at a meeting of the Purchasing Agents' Association of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman.

Praises Individual Genius.

He said the vast strides made by this country were the result of the development of the genius of the individual, which could happen only in a democracy. Remove the individual's incentive and democracy will disappear, he said.

The United States, with 10 per cent of the total population of the allies, has become the "arsenal of democracy" and is the sole hope of winning the war only because its vast production was made possible by the development of individual initiative, Lincoln said. Under the present system the government was eliminating that initiative, he asserted.

Urges Appeal in Pricing.

Lincoln said he was opposed to renegotiation of profits on war contracts because it put into the hands of a few men the power to decide what payment will be made without the manufacturer having recourse to the courts. He urged that renegotiation be placed on the same basis as taxes, on which a right of appeal is given.

He said that he expected a hearing on his company's request for an injunction will be set in federal court within the next few weeks, and if the injunction is refused the company will take the case to the Supreme court.

STOCK MARKET MOSTLY HIGHER IN DULL TRADE

New York, Nov. 18 (AP).—A selectively higher trend predominated in today's stock market. Top prices were reduced or canceled in numerous instances at the close. Dealings were slack thruout.

Pleasing dividends helped put such stocks as General Outdoor Advertising A, up 2½ at a new 1943 peak; Crucible Steel, up 2⅝; Atlantic Coast line, up 1, and Worthington Pump, up 1½. Good disbursements, however, failed to stimulate others. American Distilling, up 5 in the morning, closed at a gain of 1.

CHICAGO STOCKS GAIN.

The more active issues on the Chicago Stock exchange moved higher yesterday. Interest was shown in Adams Oil and Gas and Midland United A preferred, both at new 1943 highs. Chicago corporation and Commonwealth Edison made small gains.

Open Bidding on Rail Loans Urged to ICC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Sen. Henrik Shipstead [R., Minn.] today urged the interstate commerce commission to adopt at once "a straightforward" rule requiring competitive bidding in the award of all railroad securities offered for sale.

He asserted in a letter to the commission that "as long as the commission continues to countenance the present system of financing by secret negotiation, the two New York banking firms that have long selected the management and directors of most of the railroads will go on writing their own tickets for railroad financing."

[Presumably, this referred to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Morgan Stanley & Co., and the influence in management sometimes allegedly exerted by investment bankers who obtain financing issues thru private negotiations.]

Condemns Recent ICC Approval.

The letter, addressed to Claude R. Porter, chairman of division four of the commission, condemned it for approving the recent Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Detroit railroad financing.

Shipstead said the commission had approved the "secretly negotiated" sale of $28,483,000 P., O. & D. securities to Kuhn, Loeb & Co., yet reported it was "not convinced, however, that the applicants received the best price obtainable for the bonds."

He charged the commission explained its "failure" to make the applicants get the best price available for the bonds—which he said they could easily and quickly have done thru competitive bidding—with the "excuse" that the financing might have had to be postponed for six months and prices then might not have been so favorable.

Denies Need of Delay.

"There need have been no delay, for there was available to the railroad from independent bankers a minimum guarantee substantially better than the price proposed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. for the bonds," Shipstead asserted.

"This aspect of the P., O. & D. case is one of the best reasons why the commission should adopt a straightforward competitive bidding requirement for all railroad securities.

"Under such a requirement, the bankers who now monopolize railroad financing could no longer get the carriers to come rushing to the commission at the 11th hour and demanding approval of improvident transactions like the P., O. & D. deal."

BROKERS' LOANS DROP.

The federal reserve board reported that loans to brokers and dealers on securities held by member banks in New York City totaled 1 billion 131 million dollars on Nov. 17, a decrease of 102 million from a week earlier and an increase of 761 million from a year ago.

REMEMBER U.S. INTEREST FIRST, ASKS JOHNSTON

Opposes 'Reckless' World Pledges.

America should do its part in maintaining world order after the war, but should keep its own interests in mind and avoid "reckless commitments." Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told the Illinois Agricultural association last night in the Hotel Sherman.

"It is characteristic of American enthusiasm that we should swing all the way from 'no entangling alliances' to pyramided alliances and entanglements, to the other extreme of underwriting the hygiene and diet and literacy of all foreign peoples," Johnston said.

"I want to speak a word for moderation, for common sense, for American self-interest. A strong, prosperous, self-reliant America can serve as a mighty bulwark of world peace and progress."

Sane Leadership Urged.

Urging "sober, sane, reliable leadership in every field of endeavor," he added:

"I think we ought to begin to have the courage to tell the rest of the world that we are not going to preside over the liquidation of the American way of life . . . that has made America the greatest country on the face of the globe."

Recovery by government of all excess war time profits, income, and wage increases rather than the administration plan to roll back food prices was urged by Earl C. Smith, president of the association.

It would be better to reduce excessive wages and cost plus profits in industry to the level of farm prices and white collar incomes, asserted Smith, who also is vice president of the American Farm Bureau federation. American workingmen and farmers have identical long time interests in a stable, fair economy and a stable, solvent government.

Saving Held Only Temporary.

"I firmly believe that the families of American workers are more interested in having plenty of wholesome food on their tables at fair prices than they are in saving perhaps $40 a year temporarily in the cost of living at the expense of increased taxes later and of comparative shortages of food now," he said.

The roll-back subsidy plan is not justified on the basis of present wage levels and food prices, Smith insisted, and farmers have profited less from the war than have non-farm groups.

Smith warned that Americans face the necessity of heavy taxation if the national debt, estimated to total 210 billion dollars at the end of the present fiscal year, is to be paid.

"Nation Must Stay Solvent."

"It is essential that America remain solvent," he asserted. "American statesmen must arrange to levy equitably, and to require the payment of such increased revenues as is necessary to skim off all profits and increases in wages and incomes that have been the result of war."

"It is high time for the curtailment of all waste and the complete elimination of every unneeded and unwanted service of govermental character," he said, asserting that groups and smaller units of government must "quit looking to the treasury of the United States for funds of varying amounts and for all kinds of purposes."

O. D. Klein of the war food administration asked for more efficiency in live stock feeding and told of the WFA plan to balance live stock production with available feed supplies.

F. D. R. ORDERS LEATHER PLANT STRIKES ENDED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 (AP).—President Roosevelt late today ordered an end of picketing and a return to work by employes on strike at 16 leather and tanning plants in the Salem-Peabody, Mass., area.

The President sent telegrams to James Dunn, business agent of the National Leather Workers association at Peabody, and Joseph P. Herrington, attorney for the association at Salem. He asked them to inform the workers of his directive so that they would consider it as if it were transmitted to them individually.

Some 2,000 workers are affected and presumably, if they refuse to heed the chief executive's order, Mr. Roosevelt will direct that the government seize and operate the plants.

War Freight Load to Rise, Says ODT Aid

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

No matter what the war outlook is, the nation may be certain it will have a continuing rise in transportation requirements, most of which will have to be met by the railroads, H. F. McCarthy, director of division movement, office of defense transportation, said here yesterday. He spoke in the Palmer House before more than 450 members of the National Industrial Traffic league, said to represent about 90 per cent of the nation's shippers.

McCarthy said that the more favorable war news becomes the larger will be the transportation tonnage load.

"Good war news means heavier war traffic, and that heavier movement is in being and is in greater prospect," he asserted. "That is the outlook for the next couple of months.

Freight to Fight Japs.

"The end of the war with Germany—whenever it comes—will mean in transportation terms that the tons of freight will merely be dedicated to fight the Japs more intensively."

McCarthy said it was unfortunate that so many rumors were in circulation regarding ODT plans for controling traffic. He said that one report that the ODT was planning an embargo on shipments to the Pacific coast had caused an unwarranted buying wave on the Pacific coast which caused a "dangerous" traffic condition.

He explained that the rumor was caused by the fact that the ODT merely as a precaution had made up a list of commodities—a secret list, incidentally—on which embargos could be placed should traffic congestion warrant it. Based on present conditions, he said it was doubtful that it ever would be necessary to use the list.

Truck Problem "Severe."

McCarthy said that the truck problem had become so severe that officials must take into account the certainty that tonnage now and normally trucked would gravitate increasingly to the railroads. Such diversion has increased steadily, especially in less than carload shipments, he said.

The truck situation is one of the reasons Joseph B. Eastman, director of the ODT, is striving so much to increase railroad efficiency by 10 per cent, he said. It will take a miracle to overcome the tire, part, vehicle, and man power stringencies that will face the truck industry in the next six months, he said.

WHEAT CEILING, SUBSIDY NEWS BOOSTS PRICES

Confirmation of recent reports that the office of price administration would announce ceilings on hard winter wheat and a subsidy to mills to relieve the squeeze between cash wheat and the flour ceiling led to general buying yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat prices advanced ¼ to ⅞ cent a bushel.

Buying was led by mills with southwestern connections. Purchases of futures were estimated at 1 million bushels, resulting in reports that revision in flour ceilings was contemplated by the OPA to equalize the price differential between hard winter and spring wheat flour.

December oats closed ½ cent lower, barley lost ¾ to 1¼ cents, and rye closed ⅛ cent higher to ¼ cent lower.

TELLS OF FARM CREDIT AGENCY RAID ON BANKS

Nebraska Closings Laid to Co-ops.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Wade R. Martin, Nebraska director of banking, today told a house investigating committee that government subsidized farm credit agencies were "getting the cream" of agricultural loans, with the result that many rural banks were being forced to close.

Testifying for the American Bankers' association before the select committee of the house committee on agriculture to investigate the farm security administration, Martin asserted he was "vitally interested in the preservation of our independent system of banking."

"During 1942, in Nebraska, 12 state banks went into voluntary liquidation and to date in 1943 five state and four national banks have liquidated voluntarily," Martin said. "This means that 21 communities have been left without banking facilities."

Earnings Loss Prime Factor.

Martin said various factors caused these 21 banks to close, but that a decrease in earnings and concern about the future were the prime factors.

"A contributing factor of importance was competition of the production credit associations," he asserted. "In replies to my inquiry why these state banks were being liquidated, almost without fail competition of government subsidized agencies was given as the outstanding factor.

"Unless the present trend is checked and checked quickly, the country bank will be eliminated from our banking system. Small business as distinguished from agriculture will have lost its only source of credit. There can be only one answer—either a system of socialized credit or a subsidy for every type of business activity."

Martin charged that a rate of 4½ per cent is advertised by the production credit associations, but that many borrowers are charged in excess of 8 per cent.

Subsidies Pay for Lure.

He asserted that the "attractive rates" offered by the associations were "made possible largely by reason of the government subsidy," adding:

"On the basis of official reports of the farm credit administration, 42½ per cent of the 529 production credit associations in the United States are operating at a deficit. . . . Their operating losses were covered largely by direct government subsidies.

"Subject the PCAs to the same taxation—local, state, and federal—as banks must meet and there is little question that the operating income of 98 per cent of them would not cover operating expenses."

UPPER AVENUE BANK DECLARES STOCK DIVIDEND

Directors of the Upper Avenue National bank yesterday declared a dividend of $200,000, or 66⅔ per cent, payable in capital stock, to holders of record today. The distribution is subject to approval by the controler of the currency. It will increase the bank's capital to $500,000.

Stockholders voted to reduce the par value of the stock from $100 to $50 a share.

A regular quarterly cash dividend of $1.75 a share was declared on the old stock, payable to holders of record yesterday.

Firestone Plans to Issue 60 Million of Preferred

John W. Thomas, chairman of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, yesterday announced a plan to create a new preferred stock issue of 60 million dollars and called a special meeting of stockholders for Dec. 15 to vote on it. The dividend rate is not to exceed 4½ per cent. The company plans to redeem the outstanding $45,600,000 of 6 per cent preferred. The Nickel Plate railroad announced that it will redeem $4,919,000 of Lake Erie and Western extended 3 per cent bonds due 1947 on Dec. 20 at 101 and interest.

MOVE TO DIVERT MORE COAL FOR HEATING HOMES

SFA to Reduce Storage by Rails and Plants.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 (AP).—New bituminous coal distribution regulations designed to divert a larger share of production to domestic heating purposes were issued today by the solid fuels administration.

The SFA said that recent work stoppages at the mines, combined with the increasing coal requirements of war industry, had created a bituminous shortage making the regulations necessary.

The program, which becomes effective Dec. 1, requires that most industrial plants and railroads having 25 days coal supply in storage and public utilities having 40 days' requirements on hand reduce their current orders to 75 per cent or less of monthly burning requirements.

15 Days for Coal by Ship.

Consumers supplied with coal from producing areas in the Dominion of Canada or supplied via tidewater in New York harbor and New England may maintain an extra 15 day supply.

The SFA estimated that the stock limitation will free approximately 5 million tons each month to move thru retail dealers to domestic consumers and industrial users with below standard stocks.

Operators representing a majority of the soft coal tonnage met, meantime, for a second day of conferences with President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers on a wage contract, and those not joining in the conferences came under criticism from Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, operator of the mines for the government.

Ickes took to task particularly the representatives of the captive mines—those owned by steel companies. This group has declined to join the conferences with Lewis.

Ickes Tells His Troubles.

"The [steel] industry alone causes us more trouble than any other," Ickes declared at a press conference. "They underproduce [coal] and come down here with tears in their eyes and say for heaven's sake get us some more metallurgical coal."

Ickes defended, too, his negotiation with Lewis of a temporary wage agreement at a time when the miners were on strike.

"I was trying to settle a strike, and I did," he said. "I was told to negotiate a contract and to mine coal. I did and we are mining coal."

The new regulations for distribution of bituminous followed by one day anthracite regulations affecting 12 eastern states and the District of Columbia.

OCR TELLS PLAN FOR OUTPUT OF ITEMS FOR HOME

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18 (AP).—The office of civilian requirements of WPB hopes 2 million electric irons, 900,000 household washing machines, and 900,000 domestic refrigerators can be made in 1944, informed government sources said today. The program is open to change because of shortages of man power and plant facilities as well as bottlenecks in small electric motors and wire.

WPB expects to get electric iron output under way in the first three months of next year, and refrigerators and washing machines before the second or third quarter. The program is based on an expected easing of the steel supply pinch so 160,000 tons may be alloted for civilian goods in the first quarter of 1944, compared with 125,000 tons in the present quarter.

The projected production is only a fraction of estimated civilian demand, and steps are planned to put each item into essential hands, probably thru an allocation system.

Carnegie Blast Furnaces at 100 Pct. of Capacity

Blast furnace operations of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation in the Chicago district were brought up to 100 per cent yesterday when the 23d stack in the area was returned to operation. The furnace blown in was at the Gary works. It was out of production for a few weeks because of repairs.

WAR BONDS.

Can the treasury department call in the war bonds and pay them or replace them with bonds carrying a lower interest rate, or would congress have to pass special legislation to accomplish this? Was special legislation enacted to authorize the calling in of the Liberty and Victory bonds of the first World war?—P. N.

Answer: United States savings bonds are not callable by the government. They may be redeemed prior to maturity only at the request of the holder. The Liberty and Victory bonds were redeemed prior to maturity, but not before the call dates specified when they were issued. Congress, therefore, did not have to pass legislation to authorize their redemption.

MR. "X" KNOWS!!!

That SECURITY in a PERMANENT job with a chance for rapid advancement and increases in salary spells O-P-P-O-R-T-U-N-I-T-Y.

Mr. "X" knows too that he could have gotten a job most any place; B-U-T . . . he wasn't interested in a job just for today. He wanted to lay the groundwork for the future.

Wards offer openings now that have a future and many "EXTRAS" such as low cost insurance and hospitalization plans . . . a good place to eat in the cafeteria and a liberal merchandise discount.
